Beyond Beauty Federico Vercellone,2017-07-31 The American abstract expressionist painter Barnett Newman famously declared in 1948 that the impulse of modern art is to destroy beauty Not long after that Andy Warhol was reconciling the world of art with the world of everyday life painting soup cans and soda bottles In this book Federico Vercellone provides an account of the decline of beauty as a Platonic ideal from early German Romanticism to the twentieth century He traces this intellectual trajectory from Goethe Dilthey and Nietzsche through modernism and the avant garde movement to the work of Adorno and Heidegger Rather than the death or destruction of beauty Vercellone argues instead that beauty in the twentieth century came back to live in reality and everyday life He suggests this is a new edition of the classical ideal rather than an abandonment of it and further makes the case for the ecological significance of this orientation and outlook

The neo avant garde of the 1950s 60s and 70s is due for a thoroughgoing reassessment This collection of essays represents the first full scale attempt to deal with the concept from an interdisciplinary standpoint A number of essays in this book concentrate on fine art particularly painting and sculpture thereby adding significantly to the growing art historical literature in the field but a number of the contributions also focus on poetry performance theatre film architecture and music Given that there are also major essays here dealing with geographical blindspots in current neo avant garde studies with thematic issues such as art s entanglement with gender mass culture and politics with key neo avant garde publications and with the purely theoretical problems attaching to the theorisation of the topic this collection offers a multi dimensional approach to the subject which is noticeably lacking elsewhere Taken together these essays represent a consolidated attempt at re thinking the cultural logic of the immediate post World War II period LIFE ,1956-02-06
