From Home To School:

The Home-School Connection Flora V. Rodriguez-Brown, 2009-06-02 In this unique contribution to the literature on parental involvement in culturally and linguistically diverse communities Flora Rodriguez Brown offers a critique of family literacy programs that lack a clear design for literacy activities relevant to community goals offering an alternative model that is grounded within an abiding respect for the parents role as the child s first and ultimately most important teacher Robert D Milk University of Texas San Antonio The Project FLAME program used as context for this book is a comprehensive family literacy model supported by a strong sociocultural framework based on current research on cultural ways of learning and theories of multiliteracies and discourse The model highlights the relevance of parents knowledge cultural ways and discourses in sharing literacy knowledge with their children A pressing need exists for models and programs that effectively serve the educational needs of the steadily increasing numbers of culturally and linguistically diverse students in U S public schools today Addressing issues related to development implementation and effectiveness of a program model that fulfills this need this book is an essential resource for educators community workers and researchers interested in the relevance of the home school connection in relation to children s school success

Home-School Connections in a Multicultural Society Maria Luiza Dantas, Patrick C. Manyak, 2011-02-09 Educators everywhere confront critical issues related to families schooling and teaching in diverse settings Directly addressing this reality Home School Connections in a Multicultural Society shows pre service and practicing teachers how to recognize and build on the rich resources for enhancing school learning that exist within culturally and linguistically diverse families Combining engaging cases and relevant key concepts with thought provoking pedagogical features this valuable resource for educators at all levels Provides detailed portraits of diverse families that highlight their unique cultural practices related to schooling and the challenges that their children face in school settings Introduces key sociocultural and ethnographic concepts in ways that are both accessible and challenging and applies these concepts as lenses through which to examine the portraits Shows how teachers and researchers have worked with diverse families to build positive relationships and develop learning activities that incorporate children s unique experiences and resources Disrupting deficit assumptions about the experiences and knowledge that culturally and linguistically diverse children acquire in their homes and communities this book engages readers in grappling deeply and personally with the chapters meanings and implications and in envisioning their own practical ways to learn from and with families and children

Home, School, and Community Partnerships Larry E. Decker, Virginia A. Decker, 2003 Many Americans worry about what they see as a growing gulf between the American public and its public schools Troubling trends seem to indicate a fraying relationship among families schools and communities Education reform has become the topic of many conversations as well as books and articles There is widespread agreement that schools and education curricula need to be fixed but there is no agreement on how this can be accomplished Educators across the nation are implementing ideas and strategies that are making a difference in children's lives and in the health and well being of our communities Structured in ten chapters this book will help educators weave some of the best ideas for creating and sustaining family and community engagement into a comprehensive home school community partnership program tailored to their own communities Website references and URLs for additional exploration are included For educational leaders teachers and family and community advocates interested in creating and maintaining home school community partnerships and collaborative initiatives
