The Capacity to be Displaced: Resilience, Mission, and Inner Strength Clemens Sedmak, 2017-04-03 The experience of displacement is shared by people who work internationally The capacity to be displaced is a necessary strength and skill for people working across cultures particularly for missionaries In order to deal with the stressful nature of displacement people need to be resilient resilience makes people flourish in adverse circumstances This volume presents a specific type of resilience namely resilience nourished by inner sources Cultivating inner resilience draws on all the facets of a person's interior life thoughts and memories hopes and desires beliefs and convictions concerns and emotions The notion of inner strength and resilience from within is developed using many examples from missionaries and development workers as well as case studies from all over the world

Selected Social Work Concepts for Public Welfare Workers Virginia Leora Tannar, 1964 Public welfare leaders believe that more constructive social services should be provided to clients of public welfare agencies The agency worker who is directly responsible for services to the client is a key person in the Nation's effort to strengthen the welfare of individuals and families threatened by dependency This book is intended to be a resource for those who teach public welfare workers It presents selected basic concepts and principles of social work and suggests teaching methods designed to help agency workers advance toward the goal of more competent practice These teaching materials are geared to the development of personnel who are skilled in helping troubled people to improve the quality of social services to persons who need them

Similarity and Modeling in Science and Engineering Josef Kuneš,2012-04-07 The present text sets itself in relief to other titles on the subject in that it addresses the means and methodologies versus a narrow specific task oriented approach Concepts and their developments which evolved to meet the changing needs of applications are addressed This approach provides the reader with a general tool box to apply to their specific needs Two important tools are presented dimensional analysis and the similarity analysis methods The fundamental point of view enabling one to sort all models is that of information flux between a model and an original expressed by the similarity and abstraction Each chapter includes original examples and applications In this respect the models can be divided into several groups The following models are dealt with separately by chapter mathematical and physical models physical analogues deterministic stochastic and cybernetic computer models The mathematical models are divided into asymptotic and phenomenological models The phenomenological models which can also be called experimental are usually the result of an experiment on an complex object or process The variable dimensionless quantities contain information about the real state of boundary conditions parameter non linearity changes and other factors With satisfactory measurement accuracy and experimental strategy such models are highly credible and can be used for example in control systems

,1996 Corotating Interaction Regions A. Balogh,J.T. Gosling,J.R. Jokipii,R. Kallenbach,H. Kunow,2013-06-29 A Corotating Interaction Region CIR is the result of the interaction of fast solar wind with slower solar wind ahead CIRs have a very large three dimensional extent and are the dominant large scale structure in the heliosphere on the declining and minimum phase of the solar activity cycle Until recently however CIRs could only be observed close to the ecliptic plane and their three dimensional structure was therefore not obvious to observers and theoreticians alike Ulysses was the first spacecraft allowing direct exploration of the third dimension of the heliosphere Since 1992 when it has entered a polar orbit that takes it 0 up to 80 latitude the spacecraft's performance has been flawless and the mission has provided excellent data from a superbly matched set of instruments Perhaps the most exciting observation during Ulysses first passage towards the south pole of the Sun was a strong and long lasting CIR whose energetic particle effects were observed up to unexpectedly high latitudes These observations documented in a number of publications stimulated considerable new theoretical work

Cruz,2024-10-21 This book offers a philosophical inquiry into the idea of curriculum as confession and considers how it can help us answer questions of justice selfhood and truth It connects the field of curriculum studies and continental philosophy in order to arrive at new ways of thinking through the concept and act of confession Utilising a phenomenological and deconstructive approach to thinking about curriculum the author draws upon scholars including William Pinar Jacques Derrida Madeleine Grumet and Michel Foucault to act as interlocutors for a re thinking of Pinar s statement that we need educational confession The chapters argue that confession communicates the interplay between thinking translation and transformation showing how confession can be conceived of as educative in both instrumental and existential ways An innovative study that explores confession in both religious and secular senses and conceptualises curriculum as a theological and phenomenological text it uniquely explores what confession can reveal how we tell the truth without violating the other and how one does justice to the world they experience It will appeal to scholarly audiences with interests in curriculum studies teacher education philosophy of education religious studies religious education and theology
