Scheff, 1997-09-04 This book first published in 1997 offers an approach to researching human behavior relating details of interaction to social structure Reason and Emotion in International Ethics Renée Jeffery, 2014-06-12 The study of international ethics is marked by an overwhelming bias towards reasoned reflection at the expense of emotionally driven moral deliberation For rationalist cosmopolitans in particular reason alone provides the means by which we can arrive at the truly impartial moral judgments a cosmopolitan ethic demands However are the emotions as irrational selfish and partial as most rationalist cosmopolitans would have us believe By re examining the central claims of the eighteenth century moral sentiment theorists in light of cutting edge discoveries in the fields of neuroscience and psychology Ren e Jeffery argues that the dominance of rationalism and marginalisation of emotions from theories of global ethics cannot be justified In its place she develops a sentimentalist cosmopolitan ethic that does not simply provide a framework for identifying injustices and prescribing how we ought to respond to them but which actually motivates action in response to international injustices such as global poverty Adult Educational Psychology, 2008-01-01 Adult Educational Psychology is useful for those encountering psychology as a subject in adult education courses as well as those with an interest in the psychology of adult development It is directly relevant for teachers in higher education instructors in technical and further education staff development and human resource practitioners as well as community educators It provides the first major text of its type offering a wide ranging and comprehensive introduction to educational psychology from an adult perspective It covers fundamental topics such as human development social psychology social learning emotion motivation interest intelligence cognition retention and learning Applied chapters focus on skill development psychological testing and human judgement Fifteen contributors introduce the reader to recent advances in psychology with an emphasis on learning and adjustment in adulthood Each chapter concludes with major references questions for review and exercises The Handbook of Life-Span Development, Volume 1 Richard M. Human Transactions Gary Stahl, 1995 Given the evolutionary and developmental processes that form a human being can we plausibly believe that people can make rational and autonomous choices about their lives How can such choices be non arbitrary and compelling if there are no norms outside the historical process against which they can be judged And if that historical process is simply an accidental episode in an indifferent universe what sorts of meanings can individual lives and choices have The Storied Nature of Human Life Karl E. Scheibe, Frank J. Barrett, 2017-10-23 This book sheds new light on the life and the influence of one of the most significant critical thinkers in psychology of the last century Theodore R Sarbin 1911 2005 In the first section authors provide a comprehensive account of Sarbin s life and career The second section consists in a collection of ten publications from the last two decades of his career The essays cover topics such as the adoption of contextualism as the appropriate world view for psychology the establishment of narrative psychology as a major mode of inquiry and the rejection both mechanism and mentalism as suitable approaches for psychology The book is historically informed and yet focused on the future of psychological theory and practice It will engage researches and scholars in psychology social scientists and philosophers as well general readership interested in exploring Sarbin s theories A Moral Ontology for a Theistic

Ethic Frank G. Kirkpatrick, 2017-11-22 This title was first published in 2003 This book develops a moral ontology for a theistic ethic that engages the work of contemporary moral and political philosophers and reaffirms the relevance of a theistic tradition of God s relation to the world reflected in the fundamental teachings of Judaism Christianity and Islam Drawing on recent thought in the non religious fields of psychology and political and moral philosophy which build around the concept of human flourishing in community Kirkpatrick argues that a theistic ethic need not be the captive of parochial or sectarian theological camps He proposes a common or universal ethic that transcends the fashionable ethnocentric incommensurate differences in morality alleged by many post modern deconstructionists In the wake of ethnic religious strife post September 11th 2001 this book argues for a common morality built on the inclusivity of love community and justice that can transcend sectarian and parochial boundaries What Develops in Emotional Development? Michael F.

Mascolo, Sharon Griffin, 2013-11-22 The problem of development is central in the study of emotional life for two basic reasons First emotional life so clearly changes dramatically in the early years with new emotional reactions emerging against the backdrop of an increasing sensitivity to context and with self regulation of emotion emerging from a striking dependence on regulatory assistance from caregivers Such changes demand developmental analysis At the same time understanding such profound changes will surely inform our understanding of the nature of development more generally The complexity of emotional change when grasped will reveal the elusive nature of development itself At the outset we know that development is complex We must take seriously what is present at any given phase including the newborn period because a developmental analysis disallows something emerging from nothing Still it is equally nondevelopmental to posit that new forms of new processes were simply present in their precursors Rather development is characterized by transformations in which more complex structures and organization emerge from new integration of prior components and new capacities These new forms and organizations cannot be specified from prior conditions but are due to transactions of the evolving organism with its environment over time They are not simply in the genome and they are not simply conditioned by the environment They are the result of the developmental process

Feeling Power Megan Boler, 2004-11-23 First published in 1999 Megan Boler combines cultural history with ethical and multicultural analyses to explore how emotions have been disciplined suppressed or ignored at all levels of education and in educational theory FEELING POWER charts the philosophies and practices developed over the last century to control social conflicts arising from gender class and race The book traces the development of progressive pedagogies from civil rights and feminist movements to Boler's own recent studies of emotional intelligence and emotional literacy Drawing on the formulation of emotion as knowledge within feminist psychobiological and post structuralist theories Boler develops a unique theory of emotion missing from contemporary educational discourses

Not Passion's Slave Robert C. Solomon, 2003-01-30 The idea that we are in some significant sense responsible for our emotions is an idea that Robert Solomon has developed for almost three decades Here in a single volume he traces the development of this theory of emotions and elaborates it in detail Two themes run through his work the first presents a cognitive theory of emotions in which emotions are construed primarily as evaluative judgments The second proposes an existentialist perspective in which he defends the idea that as we are responsible for our emotions Indeed sometimes it even makes sense to say that we choose them While the first claim has gained increasing currency in the literature his claim about responsibility for emotions has continued to meet with considerable resistance and misinterpretation The new emphasis on evolutionary biology and neurology has mistakenly reinforced the popular prejudice that emotions happen to us and are entirely beyond our control This volume is also a kind of intellectual memoir of Solomon's own development as a thinker The essays written in the 1980s elaborate the themes of the intentionality of emotion and the claim that emotions are judgments in this period he is also increasingly preoccupied with how emotions vary and are identified in a variety of cultures In the 1990s his interests evolve to consider the social and political role of emotions and theories about emotion The final section presents his current philosophical position on the seeming passivity of the passions Despite his own critical assessment of his earlier work he continues to argue that in the final analysis we are responsible for our emotions and existential quality of our lives Narrative Identities George Yancy, 2005 The contributors address challenging questions about identity in relation to personality development language and socialisation They demonstrate how their cultural and historical contexts influenced their theoretical approaches to the nature of self and how these ideas in turn shaped how they perceive their personal histories Qualitative Research in Counselling and Psychotherapy John McLeod, 2011-04-06 The need to show how and why counselling works has led to an explosion of research activity and a growing focus on research in counselling and psychotherapy teaching and practice Yet this book even now in its second edition stands alone in addressing qualitative research in therapy Leading expert John McLeod helps readers through each stage of the research process explaining techniques for gathering data writing up the study and evaluating the findings Each qualitative method is clearly described and critically assessed in terms of its own strengths and weaknesses Examples from actual research studies are given to show how the methods work in practice This new edition incorporates developments in qualitative research over the last ten years and includes many new chapters covering interpretative phenomenological analysis heuristic research and autoethnography action research case study methods narrative analysis For all those involved in research whether as part of academic study or in practice this book will be essential reading As an introduction to qualitative methods it is the perfect course text for counselling and counselling psychology and psychotherapy and will also be of interest to those who provide counselling in other professional areas such as teaching nursing and social work Narrative and Psychotherapy John McLeod, 1997 A densely packed book with interesting and valuable research gleaned from a wide variety of therapy approaches Narrative and Psychotherapy furnishes the reader with a cogent historical appraisal of the way psychotherapy culture and storytelling fit together A good reference book for counsellors and students The authors students and clients must be very happy that he has the interest and the capacity to tune in to others in such a fresh manner Counselling The Journal of the British Association for Counselling The core of psychotherapy can be seen as a process in which the client comes to tell and then re author an individual life story or personal narrative The author of thi The Oxford Handbook of Human Development and Culture Lene Arnett Jensen,2015 The Oxford Handbook of Human Development and Culture provides a comprehensive synopsis of theory and research on human development with every chapter drawing together findings from cultures around the world This includes a focus on cultural diversity within nations cultural change and globalization Expertly edited by Lene Arnett Jensen the Handbook covers the entire lifespan from the prenatal period to old age It delves deeply into topics such as the development of emotion language cognition morality creativity and religion as well as developmental contexts such as family friends civic institutions school media and work Written by an international group of eminent and cutting edge experts chapters showcase the burgeoning interdisciplinary approach to scholarship that bridges universal and cultural perspectives on human development This cultural developmental approach is a multifaceted flexible and dynamic way to conceptualize theory and research that is in step with the cultural and global realities of human development in the 21st century Culture and Attachment Robin L. Harwood,Joan G. Miller,Nydia Lucca Irizarry,1997-04-18 Examining attachment from the perspective of culture and evaluating two different cultures from the vantage point of mothers perceptions of attachment behavior this book provides a unique view of desirable child behavior and long term socialization goals among Anglo and Puerto Rican mothers of infants and toddlers The authors integrate in depth interviews with quantitative methods to shed light on variations both between cultures and among different socioeconomic groups within each culture while at the same time delineating coherent conceptual frameworks that can be used to guide future research
