Empirical Perspectives On Object Relations Theory:

Empirical Perspectives on Object Relations Theory Joseph M. Masling, Robert F. Bornstein, 1994-01-01 As was true of the earlier volumes in the Empirical Studies of Psychoanalytic Theories series all of the contributors to the present volume have through their research efforts worked to keep psychoanalytic theory alive and consistent with modern scientific canon Our goal is not to defend psychoanalytic constructs nor to focus only on those data that support psychodynamic hypotheses Rather we hope to test to refine and to extend psychoanalytic theory allowing the data to lead us wherever they must In this way the Empirical Studies series can help to reinvigorate psychoanalytic theory and practice and can contribute to the ongoing effort to provide psychoanalysis with a rigorous empirical foundation Introduction PsycINFO Database Record c 2006 APA all rights reserved

The Psychological Assessment of Abused and Traumatized Children Francis D. Kelly, 1999-03-01 The past decade has seen more and more clinicians involved in the assessment and treatment of abused and traumatized children They have contributed to an impressively large body of literature on the impact of abuse and trauma at all ages the focus of which has been the short and long term sequelae apparent in the child's behavior emotional experience and social interaction But there have been few efforts to investigate the ways in which abuse and trauma damage the intrapsychic systems and structures that often guide direct and inform the child's manifest adjustment and functioning The need to redress the balance was the major impetus for this book Kelly offers a clinical paradigm for the personality assessment of abused or traumatized children via projective instruments the TAT and Rorschach and shows how various projective measures and indices can be utilized as sensitive barometers of changes in self object and ego functioning following therapeutic interventions and other corrective experiences But further integrating the tenets of trauma theory and those of psychoanalytic theory he sets this clinical paradigm in a meaningful theoretical context and draws on both theory and clinical experience to develop a comprehensive psychological composite of the child who has been maltreated Part I provides an overview of theoretical models relevant to the assessment and diagnosis of the maltreated child Contemporary psychoanalytic theory serves as one frame and is discussed first with particular emphasis on object relations and ego functions Equal attention is devoted to developmental psychology as another frame Part II reviews relevant research The Mutuality of Autonomy Scale MOA and the Social Cognition and Object Relations Scale SCORS are introduced as examples of reliable and valid instruments readily employed to assess the impact of abuse or trauma on a child s object relations functioning Additional Rorschach indices boundary disturbance measures thought disorder indices trauma markers and defensive functions measures are discussed as measures of the impact on different facets of ego functioning These various projective measures can be utilized as sensitive barometers of changes in self object and ego functioning following therapeutic interventions and other corrective experiences Part III includes a variety of extended clinical illustrations Seven cases of boys and girls subjected to varying degrees of abuse and trauma are presented to demonstrate the clinical utility of projective material for assessment diagnosis and treatment planning For the clinician who takes the idiographical phenomenological approach appropriate given the uniqueness of each situation of abuse or trauma and the frequent brevity and barrenness of the protocol such material can open a window onto a rich vista of the child s psychological terrain The resulting map can point the way to wise decisions about type timing and level of therapeutic intervention the resolution of such process issues as transference and countertransference plus additional questions Two cases of adult women who were abused as children and find themselves continuing to struggle with enduring unresolved issues vis a vis their own children are also presented These cases underscore the value of TAT and Rorschach material and object relations measures in assessing and understanding the abusive and potentially abusive parent

Creativity and Reason in Cognitive Development James C. Kaufman, John Baer, 2006-05-29 To what extent do creativity and imagination decline in childhood What factors might influence a decline Theories of cognitive development show only unidirectional progress although theorists may disagree whether such progress occurs steadily in small continuous improvements or comes in stages separated by plateaus during which developmental gains are consolidated Declines in levels of skill are quite uncommon yet many have observed just such an unusual pattern with regard to the development of creativity and of the imagination Is there something about the development of one kind of thinking that undermines imaginative and creative thinking Is it perhaps the process of schooling itself with its focus on the acquisition of knowledge and the production of correct rather than imaginative answers which promotes this decline This book explores these questions from a variety of perspectives Essays from psychologists and educators from diverse backgrounds discuss the relationships among creativity reason and knowledge      Theoretical Models of Counseling and Psychotherapy Kevin A. Kaslow, Louise Maxfield, 2011-01-31 Starting with the Foreword by Daniel Siegel MD the Handbook demonstrates in superb detail how you can combine EMDR's information processing approach with family systems perspectives and therapy techniques An impressive and needed piece of work Handbook of EMDR and Family Therapy Processes provides a clear and comprehensive bridge between individual and family therapies
