mitigations and demonstrating the benefits of evidence based inter disciplinary policy      Diet for a Large Planet Chris Otter,2023-06-05 In this magisterial study Chris Otter traces Britain s transition to a diet rich in animal proteins and refined carbohydrates like wheat and sugar a diet that required more acreage than that of Britain itself and that if followed everywhere would soon deplete the planet s resources as the title announces this was truly a diet for a large planet From the late 1700s to the end of World War II Otter accounts for the structures practices and ideologies generated by Britain s nutrition transition He shows how Britain was the first nation to undergo the population explosion urbanization and industrialization we associate with modernity and how it managed the unprecedented problem of how to feed its growing population Its radical solution would be to outsource its food production leading away from a locally produced plant based diet to one reliant on global markets international trade networks and enormous agro food systems that would have planetary effects on famine war the world economy and the wider earth system Not only did this phase in Britain s history make the consumption of meat white bread sugar and butter a coveted diet linked to development luxury and power it also opened up a new phase in economic history one whose dramatic effects endure to this day whether in terms of health problems eating disorders or the seemingly endless world food crisis      Plant Microevolution and Conservation in Human-influenced Ecosystems David Briggs,2009-11-26 With particular emphasis on plants this thought provoking text examines the implications of human influences on micro evolutionary processes      Reader's Guide to British History David Loades,2020-12-17 The Reader sGuide to British History is the essential source to secondary material on British history This resource contains over 1 000 A Z entries on the history of Britain from ancient and Roman Britain to the present day Each entry lists 6 12 of the best known books on the subject then discusses those works in an essay of 800 to 1 000 words prepared by an expert in the field The essays provide advice on the range and depth of coverage as well as the emphasis and point of view espoused in each publication      Agricultural Knowledge Networks in Rural Europe, 1700-2000 Yves Segers,Leen Van Molle,2022 An examination of how farming expertise could be shared and extended over four centuries All kinds of knowledge from traditional know how to modern science are socially contingent and the product of an age long and permanent social struggle This book unravels the creation and the exchange of agronomic knowledge in rural Europe from the early eighteenth century up until the end of the twentieth It explores the spreading of knowing through the lens of knowledge networks where did agricultural knowledge come from and how did one learn to run a farm Who was involved in this process of knowledge exchange Which strategies and communicative methods were employed and what kind of networks were active The answers to these questions mirror as the book illustrates the inventiveness of the actors on the scene the creativity of a French naturalist in establishing links with local farmers to stop the circulation of a devastating grain moth the power of the agricultural press to instill proper values into Hungarian farming practices or to shape the identity of the Galician agrarian movement and the agency of post war British farmers in selecting their own information from sources such as lectures to the Young Farmers Club visits by public advisors and representatives of commercial firms and radio programs From the start of the agricultural Enlightenment increasingly farmers have been besieged by a growing army of experts telling them what to do when and how In a sense farming has become one of the most patronised professions But farmers can resist and carve their own path The chapters here reveal the continuous tensions between science based agriculture and practice based farming between the expert image of an ideal agriculture and the less known self image of being a good farmer The dominant process as this book shows is that of an instrumental top down transmission of knowledge from the lab to the field But between these two poles complex and flourishing networks developed functioning as trading zones in which knowledge and experience could be circulated put to the test forgotten altered rejected and sometimes imposed Weed Control Nicholas E. Korres, Nilda R. Burgos, Stephen O. Duke, 2018-12-19 In light of public concerns about sustainable food production the necessity for human and environmental protection along with the evolution of herbicide resistant weeds call for a review of current weed control strategies Sustainable weed control requires an integrated approach based on knowledge of each crop and the weeds that threaten it This book will be an invaluable source of information for scholars growers consultants researchers and other stakeholders dealing with either arable row cash vegetables orchards or even grassland based production systems The uniqueness of this book comes from the balanced coverage of herbicide effects on humans and environment in relation to best weed control practices of the most important cropping systems worldwide Furthermore it amalgamates and discusses the most appropriate judicious and suitable weed control strategies for a wide range of crops It reviews the available information and suggests solutions that are not merely feasible but also optimal
