From Forager to Farmer in Flint Michael D. Stafford, 1999 The transition from foraging to farming in prehistoric Denmark has been a topic of debate over the past sixty years Michael Stafford contributes to this discussion via an analysis of stone tools from several well known sites in Denmark spanning the transition to agriculture Results of this analysis are applied to several recent theoretical approaches seeking to explain how and when the transition happened and a new perspective is synthesised and defended Lithic Analysis George H. Odell, 2006-03-28 This practical volume does not intend to replace a mentor but acts as a readily accessible guide to the basic tools of lithic analysis The book was awarded the 2005 SAA Award for Excellence in Archaeological Analysis Some focuses of the manual include history of stone tool research procurement manufacture and function assemblage variability It is an incomparable source for academic archaeologists cultural resource and heritage management archaeologists government heritage agencies and upper level undergraduate and graduate students of archaeology focused on the prehistoric period Europe's First Farmers T. Foraging and Farming David R. Harris, Gordon C. Hillman, 2014-10-30 This book is one of a series of more than 20 volumes resulting from the World Archaeological Congress September 1986 attempting to bring together not only archaeologists and anthropologists from many parts of the world as well as academics from contingent disciplines but also non academics from a wide range of cultural backgrounds This volume develops a new approach to plant exploitation and early agriculture in a worldwide comparative context It modifies the conceptual dichotomy between hunter gatherers and farmers viewing human exploitation of plant resources as a global evolutionary process which incorporated the beginnings of cultivation and crop domestication The studies throughout the book come from a worldwide range of geographical contexts from the Andes to China and from Australia to the Upper Mid West of North America This work is of interest to anthropologists archaeologists botanists and geographers Originally published 1989 The Transition from Foraging to Farming and the Origin of Agriculture in China Tracey Lie Dan Lu, 1999 This book explores the origins of agriculture in China It includes archaeological data from the terminal Pleistocene to the early Holocene found in the Yellow and Yangzi River valleys botanical data on wild millet and wild rice data on palaeoclimates and palaeoenvironments and comparative ethnographic data Lithic evidence indicates cultural continuity through this period and archaeological discoveries illustrate that wild cereal exploitation was practised prior to the emergence of agriculture As the dry and cold palaeoclimate forced prehistoric people to search for new sources of food intensive cereal exploitation might have resulted in a sedentary way of life Increasing population size triggered attempts to increase the productivity of food It is also argued that the invention of pottery was prompted by the need to boil cereal grains As cereals became staple foods demands for increased production triggered cereal cultivation and domestication Annual Report New Jersey.
