From Children's Services To Children's Spaces Public Policy Children And Childhood:

From Children's Services to Children's Spaces Peter Moss, Pat Petrie, 2005-08-09 At the turn of the millennium attitudes and actions towards children are increasingly contradictory and complex This work explores these apparent contradictions and complexities through a critique of the concept of children's services From Children's Services to Children's Spaces Peter Moss, 1999

The Child's Curriculum Colwyn Trevarthen, Jonathan Delafield-Butt, Aline-Wendy Dunlop, 2018-08-30 All children are born with emotional talent But if left untended those talents can wane during the first five years of life Children are sensitive and social beings from birth exhibiting an innate enthusiasm for communication that must be satisfied for healthy development If their feelings agency and motivations are met with affection if they are respected and nurtured then children will respond creatively and that inherent desire for companionship will flourish However with the recent changes in political and educational systems early years education has seen a decline in focus on the emotional wellbeing of children and the development of their creativity Those systems need to adapt if educators are to bring out the best in our future generations By nurturing creativity and emotional wellbeing in the first five years of life long term social benefits can be wrought The book focusses on children's readiness for learning It addresses the natural joy explicit in children's early conversations and engagement with music and their development through play with both adults and other children This kind of education allows children to develop their bodies and skills accept and understand their feelings build relationships and progress both their imagination and their problem solving skills In this way play with others drives development With contributors from the fields of psychological educational and political spheres this book will be of interest to anyone concerned for the future of our children

Child-Initiated Play and Learning Annie Woods, 2013-03-05 Planning is central to the role of any early years practitioner and involves careful consideration of resources and the learning environment learning outcomes observation and assessment and the unique abilities of individual children This is a big ask and in a busy setting it can be a challenge to adopt a flexible creative approach to planning that embraces the unexpected rather than relying on templates or existing schemes of work This book takes a fresh look at planning to consider the possibilities that should be encouraged when playing alongside young children It shows how a creative approach that allows for spontaneous adventures in play through child led projects leads to rich learning experiences that build on children's own interests Drawing on practice from Reggio Emilia New Zealand Scandinavia and settings in the UK the book covers all aspects of planning including using observations of children to enable them to lead projects organisation of indoor and outdoor learning environments inclusive practice learning through risk taking and adventure play working with parents and carers encouraging the team to consider different ways of working Including encounters from authentic settings and provocative questions for reflective practice this timely new text aims to give students and practitioners the confidence to adopt a flexible approach to planning that will better meet the needs of the children in their care The authors are experienced lecturers practitioners mentors and assessors Working with students visiting placements training teachers and early years professionals they provide a sense of real purpose in their writing and enjoyment in the themes made explicit throughout this book

Young Children and the Environment Julie M. Davis, 2010-02-11 Young Children and the Environment tackles one of the biggest contemporary issues of our times the changing environment and demonstrates how early education can contribute to sustainable living An essential text for students in early childhood education and a practical resource for child care practitioners and primary school teachers it is designed to promote education for sustainability from birth to 8 years The text refers to national and international initiatives such as Sustainable Schools Child Friendly Cities and Health Promoting Schools and explores their existing and potential links with early childhood education Groundbreaking content draws on recent literature in the areas of organisational educational and cultural change and environmental sustainability Early childhood case studies and vignettes exemplify leadership in practice and Provocations are integrated throughout to inspire new ways of thinking about the environment the wider world young children and the transformative power of early education

Spirituality across Disciplines: Research and Practice: Marian de Souza, Jane Bone, Jacqueline Watson, 2016-06-29 This book collects multiple disciplinary voices which explore current research and perspectives to discuss how spirituality is understood interpreted and applied in a range of contexts It addresses spirituality in combination with such topics as Christian mysticism childhood and adolescent education midwifery and sustainability It links spirituality to a variety of disciplines including cognitive neuroscience sociology and psychology Finally it discusses the application of spirituality within the context of social work teaching health care and occupational therapy A final chapter provides an analytical discussion of the different voices that appear in the book and offers a holistic description of spirituality which has the potential to bring some unity to the meaning expression and practice of spirituality across a variety of disciplines as well as across cultural religious and secular worldviews A strength of the book is that each chapter is characterized by a fearless confronting of oppositional perspectives and use of the latest research in addressing them The book takes the difficult topic of spirituality into almost every nook and cranny of personal and professional life There is a persistent grasping of the contentiousness of the topic together with addressing counter positions and utilizing updated research across a range of fields in doing this The opening and closing chapters serve as book ends that keep the whole volume together Terence Lovat The University of Newcastle Australia The interdisciplinary nature of the work is by far the strongest aspect of this volume It has the potential to contribute to a dialogue between different professions and disciplines This prospective publication promises to promote a more holistic approach to the study of spirituality This volume takes into consideration a wide variety of issues The way the editors have structured the sequence of chapters contributes to facilitate any possible dialogue between the different areas Adrian Mario Gellert University of Malta Malta

Participation, Facilitation, and Mediation Claudio Baraldi, Vittorio Iervese, 2013-06-19 Traditionally children have been considered from a

primarily developmental perspective in need of education in order to achieve autonomy growth and eventually adulthood Childhood studies have recently underlined an alternate way to look at children starting from the consideration that children are competent social actors and can actively participate in social life However there has been relatively little attention paid to the ways in which adults can actively empower children s agency and participation This book aims to highlight this important aspect explaining the position of adults as facilitators and mediators in the process of constructing childhood Rethinking Play as Pedagogy Sophie Alcock,Nicola Stobbs,2019-03-06 The conceptualisation and practice of play is considered core to early childhood pedagogy In this essential text contributors from a range of countries and cultures explore how play might be defined encouraged and interpreted in early childhood settings and practice Rethinking Play as Pedagogy provides a fresh perspective of play as a purposeful pedagogy offering multi layered opportunities for learning and development Written to provoke group discussion and extend thinking opportunities for international comparison points for reflection and editorial provocations this volume will help students engage critically with a variety of understandings of play and diverse approaches to harnessing children s natural propensity to play Considering the role of the learning environment the practitioner the wider community and policy chapters are divided into four key sections which reflect major influences on practice and pedagogy Being alongside children Those who educate Embedding families and communities Working with systems Offering in depth discussion of diverse perceptions potentials and practicalities of early childhood play this text will enhance understanding support self directed learning and provoke and transform thinking at both graduate and postgraduate levels particularly in the field of early childhood education and care for students educators integrated service providers and policy makers Becoming Children AA.VV.,2017-05-15 The book is a reflection on childhood dealing especially with children s wellbeing and the implementation of their rights Starting from the recognition first expressed in the 1924 Declaration of the Rights of the Child and reaffirmed in the 2000 Treaty of Nice as well as in more recent initiatives of the European Union that children must be granted the right to be considered as persons and afforded the best possible living conditions the book s aim is to create a dialog among scholars with different backgrounds For this reason it draws on a range of different vocabularies conceptual apparatuses and methodologies as we are convinced that it is reductive to confine research and theory within specific disciplinary bounds This is particularly true of a topic as complex as that of childhood today especially in the light of the changes within the family that have taken place or are still in the making Accordingly the key terms in the text are agency and autonomy participation and well being But what does each of them actually mean How do they can be analysed and measured What initiatives can be taken The ontological overturning of the status of childhood that has emerged in recent years whereby children are now considered as social actors and subjects in their own right urges us to keep the focus on the contexts in the light of the unexpected consequences of applying the fundamental principles of the new sociology of childhood The book is addressed not only to a small audience of specialists but also to students practitioners and those who are curious about the topic providing them with fresh insights and information Multiprofessional Communication: Making Systems Work For Children Glenny, Georgina, Roaf, Caroline, 2008-08-01 Communications

Transforming Children's Spaces Alison Clark, 2010-02-25 Based on two actual building projects this book demonstrates the possibilities of including young children's perspectives in the design and review of children's spaces

The SAGE Handbook of Social Work Mel Gray, James Midgley, Stephen A Webb, 2012-06-22 This Handbook is the world's first generic major reference work to provide an authoritative guide to the theory, method and values of social work in one volume. The result is this invaluable resource collection that not only reflects upon the condition of social work today but also looks to future developments. Split into seven parts, the Handbook investigates Policy, dimensions, Practice, Perspectives, Values and ethics, The context of social work, Research, Future challenges. It is essential reading for all students, practitioners, researchers and academics engaged in social work.

African Human Rights Law Journal Volume 20 No 2 2020, 2020-01-01 In 2020 the African Human Rights Law Journal (AHRLJ) or Journal celebrates 20 years since it first was published. The AHRLJ is the only peer-reviewed journal focused on human rights-related topics of relevance to Africa. Africans and scholars of Africa. It is a time for celebration. Since 2001, two issues of the AHRLJ have appeared every year. Initially published by Juta in Cape Town, South Africa, in 2013 it became an open access journal published by the Pretoria University Law Press (PULP). PULP is a non-profit open access publisher focused on advancing African scholarship. The AHRLJ contains peer-reviewed articles and recent developments discussing the latest court decisions and legal developments in the African Union (AU) and regional economic communities. It contains brief discussions of recently published books. With a total of 517 contributions in 40 issues, 436 articles and 81 recent developments (not counting book reviews), on average the AHRLJ contains around 13 contributions per issue. The AHRLJ is accredited with the International Bibliography of the Social Sciences (IBSS) and the South African Department of Higher Education, Science and Innovation and appears in a number of open access portals including AfricanLii, the Directory of Open Access Journals and SciELO. Over the 20 years of its existence, many significant articles appeared in the AHRLJ. According to Google Scholar, the most-cited articles that have appeared in the Journal over this period are: i) T Metz, 'Ubuntu as a moral theory and human rights in South Africa', 2011 11 African Human Rights Law Journal 532-559 with 273 citations; ii) D Cornell and K van Marle, 'Exploring ubuntu: Tentative reflections', 2005 5 African Human Rights Law Journal 195-220 with 97 citations; iii) S Tamale, 'Exploring the contours of African sexualities: Religion, law and power', 2014 14 African Human Rights Law Journal 150-177 with 85 citations; K Kindiki, 'The normative and institutional framework of the African Union relating to the protection of human rights and the maintenance of international peace and security: A critical appraisal', 2003 3 African Human Rights Law Journal 97-117 with 59 citations; and T Kaime, 'The Convention on the Rights of the Child and the cultural legitimacy of children's rights in Africa: Some reflections', 2005 5

African Human Rights Law Journal 221 238 with 54 citations This occasion allows some perspective on the role that the Journal has played over the past 20 years It is fair to say that the AHRLJ contributed towards strengthening indigenous African scholarship in general and human rights related themes specifically Before the Journal there was no academic outlet devoted to human rights in the broader African context Both in quantity and in quality the Journal has left its mark on the landscape of scholarly journals The AHRLJ has provided a forum for African voices including those that needed to be fine tuned Different from many other peerreviewed journals the AHRLJ has seen it as its responsibility to nurture emerging but not yet fully flourishing talent This approach allowed younger and emerging scholars to be guided to sharpen their skills and find their scholarly voices The AHRLJ has evolved in tandem with the African regional human rights system in a dialogic relationship characterised by constructive criticism When the Journal was first published in 2001 the Protocol on the Establishment of an African Court on Human and Peoples Rights African Court Protocol was not yet in force Over the years the Journal tracked the evolution of the African Court on Human and Peoples Rights African Court from a faltering start through a phase when it increasingly expressed itself in an emerging jurisprudence to the current situation of push back by states signalled by the withdrawal by four states of their acceptance of the Court s direct individual access jurisdiction The same is largely true for the African Committee of Experts on the Rights and Welfare of the Child African Children s Committee It was in 2001 that the AU elected the first members of this Committee It first met in 2002 and its first decade or so was lackluster The Committee examined its first state report only in November 2008 and decided its first communication in March 2011 Articles by authors such as Mezmur and Sloth Nielsen who also served as members of the Committee and Lloyd placed the spotlight on the work of the Committee Initially these articles primarily served to describe and provide information that otherwise was largely inaccessible but over time they increasingly provided a critical gaze and contributed to the constructive evolution of the Committee s exercise of its mandate By 2011 the African Commission on Human and Peoples Rights African Commission was already quite well established but it also underwent significant growth over the subsequent 20 year period Numerous articles in the Journal trace and analyse aspects of this evolution Contributions in the Journal also cover most of the AU human rights treaties and soft law standards A number of issues contain a special focus section dealing with a thematic issue of particular relevance or concern such as the focus on the Protocol to the African Charter on the Rights of Women 2006 no 1 30 years of the African Charter 2011 no 2 and sexual and reproductive rights and the African Women s Protocol 2014 no 2 The scope of the Journal extends beyond the supranational dimension of human rights Over the years many contributions explored aspects of the domestic human rights situation in countries such as the Democratic Republic of the Congo Eswatini Ethiopia Lesotho Malawi Mauritius Nigeria South Africa Tanzania Uganda and Zimbabwe From time to time the specific focus sections also veered towards domestic human rights protection See for instance the focus on 20 years of the South African Constitution 2014 no 2 on adolescent sexual and reproductive rights in the African region 2017 no 2 on the rule of law in sub Saharan Africa 2018 no 1 and on dignity taking and dignity restorations 2018 no 2

Teaching Early Years Amanda Thomas, Karen McInnes, 2017-10-23 This textbook focuses on the main areas of teaching young children covering the 3-7 years age range that spans the early years and primary phases. The majority of chapters are written by both an academic and practitioner reflecting a genuine theory and practice approach and this helps the reader to set theoretical discussion in the context of real practice. Key themes explored within the book include Play and playfulness in the curriculum, Child development in practice, Literacy development and subject pedagogy, Creativity and outdoor learning. Packed full of learning features such as case studies, reflective questions and lesson plans, Teaching Early Years is an essential resource for both students and practitioners and will enhance your knowledge of how young children think and learn.

Children as Climate Citizens Kata Dozsa, 2023-09-15 This book provides a socio-legal analysis of the public participation of children in climate change matters whilst developing a range of tools through which their participation can be increased. Climate change affects young people in many ways causing severe threats to child survival, health and wellbeing, food security and nutrition and access to education. But this book maintains that children and youth are not to be identified solely with their vulnerability to climate change. They are also key stakeholders in the sustainable implementation of long-term climate change policies and their inclusion in decision-making processes is a measure of intergenerational equity. Children's rights law is vague about the right to public participation or the environmental rights of children as such. In response, this book examines the often informal network of pathways through which the public participation of children takes place from high-level conferences and governance structures to grassroots youth movements and climate change litigation. Exploring the difficulties but also the opportunities and aspirations of children as citizens challenging the current climate change regime, the book proposes legal and policy tools for children's participation in global climate change governance as it outlines a concept of children's climate citizenship. This book will appeal to scholars in the areas of socio-legal studies, environmental and climate change law, children's rights and social movements as well as policy makers and young people with interests in climate activism.

From Child Welfare to Child Well-Being Sheila Kamerman, Shelley Phipps, Asher Ben-Arieh, 2009-10-23 This chapter provides a brief overview of the book highlighting the modest progress from child welfare to child well-being reflected in these chapters and the parallel movement in Kahn's career and research as his scholarship developed over the years. It then moves to explore the relationship between two overarching themes: child and family policy stressing a universal approach to children and social protection stressing a more targeted approach to disadvantaged and vulnerable individuals including children and the complementarity of these strategies.

Introduction To a large extent Alfred J Kahn was at the forefront of the developments in the field of child welfare services: protective services, foster care, adoption and family preservation and support. Over time his scholarship moved to a focus on the broader policy domain of child and family policy and the outcomes for child wellbeing His work as is true for this volume progressed from a focus on poor disadvantaged and vulnerable children to a focus on all children He was convinced that children by definition are a vulnerable population group and that targeting all children employing a universal policy as a strategy would do more for poor children than a narrowly focused policy targeted on poor children alone As we first argued more than three decades ago Not for the Poor Alone Universalism and Income Testing in Family Policy one could target the most disadvantaged within a universal framework and this would lead to more successful results than targeting only the poor
