Awesome Wonders of our Amazing World Elaine L. Mroczka, 2023-01-20 Lessons Learned from Our Travels Travel broadens our minds but until we leave our safe home space and have seen how other people live we really can't grasp that concept Until one ventures out into the world all we really know is our own existence We really have no idea how others around the world survive what they're experiencing or the conditions others are facing to meet their needs When one witnesses firsthand the extreme poverty in many parts of the world it is truly an eye opener Some people are forced to sell their children in order to buy food to survive Many cultures still persecute people and prevent them from many of the accepted freedoms we have here in America Wars are being fought in many parts of the world with people barely surviving We are so blessed in this country to have the freedoms that we have but are often taken for granted Travel allows us to really see the world as it is today and how we should never take anything for granted again Having traveled to most parts of the world we ve found that people are all basically the same No matter what our ethnicity race religion gender or culture we all need the same basic things Shelter food and clothing are most necessary to provide comfort in our lives They may look different taste different or be different but they still serve the same purposes for all of us After those basic needs are met most humans want good jobs to provide a decent living for themselves and their families People all over the world want their children to succeed and be happy Peace health safety education security and acceptance are also desired by mostly everyone no matter where they live in the world My grandma and parents always taught me the golden rule to treat others the way I would want to be treated I have found that when I applied that simple rule it was a great way to get along with people in any part of the world Greeting people with a kind smile sharing thoughtful words and showing an interest in another person s culture are simple things to do but accomplish much If people would just realize that we re all very much alike embrace the few differences we have and show respect for one another then possibly our world could truly experience peace on earth
