Mobilizing for Development Kristen E. Looney, 2020-05-15 Mobilizing for Development tackles the question of how countries achieve rural development and offers a new way of thinking about East Asia's political economy that challenges the developmental state paradigm Through a comparison of Taiwan 1950s 1970s South Korea 1950s 1970s and China 1980s 2000s Kristen E Looney shows that different types of development outcomes improvements in agricultural production rural living standards and the village environment were realized to different degrees at different times and in different ways She argues that rural modernization campaigns defined as policies demanding high levels of mobilization to effect dramatic change played a central role in the region and that divergent development outcomes can be attributed to the interplay between campaigns and institutions The analysis departs from common portrayals of the developmental state as wholly technocratic and demonstrates that rural development was not just a byproduct of industrialization Looney's research is based on several years of fieldwork in Asia and makes a unique contribution by systematically comparing China's development experience with other countries Relevant to political science economic history rural sociology and Asian Studies the book enriches our understanding of state led development and agrarian change China beyond the Headlines Lionel M. Jensen, Timothy B. Weston, 2000-03-22 This unique book takes the reader beyond the headlines to explore a China few Westerners have seen The authors argue that the great gap between what specialists understand and the general public believes has led to distorted and potentially dangerous misunderstandings of China Seeking to bridge that gap a group of prominent scholars and activists challenge readers to move past the usual images of China presented by the media and to think about the common problems shared by China and the United States In a morally engaged spirit they explore such issues as environmental degradation unemployment growing inequality ethnicity human rights corruption and changing images of women to bring to life the fabric of contemporary Chinese life and how it twines around the political consciousness of Americans The End of the Village Nick R. Smith, 2021-06-08 How China's expansive new era of urbanization threatens to undermine the foundations of rural life Since the beginning of the twenty first century China has vastly expanded its urbanization processes in an effort to reduce the inequalities between urban and rural areas Centered on the mountainous region of Chongqing which serves as an experimental site for the country's new urban development policies The End of the Village analyzes the radical expansion of urbanization and its consequences for China's villagers It reveals a fundamental rewriting of the nation's social contract as villages that once organized rural life and guaranteed rural livelihoods are replaced by an increasingly urbanized landscape dominated by state institutions Throughout this comprehensive study of China's urban rural coordination policy Nick R Smith traces the diminishing autonomy of the country's rural populations and their subordination to larger urban networks and shared administrative structures Outside Chongqing's urban centers competing forces are at work in reshaping the social political and spatial organization of its villages While municipal planners and policy makers seek to extend state power structures beyond the boundaries of the city village leaders and inhabitants try to maintain control over their communities uncertain futures through strategies such as collectivization shareholding real estate development and migration As China seeks to rectify the development crises of previous decades through rapid urban growth such drastic transformations threaten to displace existing ways of life for more than 600 million residents Offering an unprecedented look at the country's contentious shift in urban planning and policy The End of the Village exposes the precarious future of rural life in China and suggests a critical reappraisal of how we think about urbanization
