Farmers As Hunters The Implications Of Sedentism:

Farmers as Hunters Susan Kent,1989-08-31 Farmers as hunters analyses from an essentially ethnographic perspective the role of hunters in small scale farming societies The twelve contributors examine the effects of hunting and mobility on behaviour diet economy and material culture at both culture specific and cross cultural levels The influence of sedentism and the increasing use of domesticates is also explored across a wide range of societies from the American southwest and Amazonian to Africa New Guinea and the Phillipines Differing perceptions of the status of animals and plants are reviewed and cultural values are throughout given due weight in a field where discussion too often verges on the economically deterministic

Hunters and Herders of Southern Africa Alan Barnard,1992-02-28 A study of the influence of environment on culture and social organization among the Khoisan a cluster of southern African peoples comprised of the Bushmen or San hunters the Khoekhoe herders and the Damara also herders The Anthropology of Hunter-Gatherers Vicki Cummings,2020-07-12 This book provides a basic introduction to key debates in the study of hunter gatherers specifically from an anthropological perspective but designed for an archaeological audience Hunter gatherers have been the focus of intense anthropological research and discussion over the last hundred years and as such there is an enormous literature on communities all over the world Yet among the diverse range of peoples studied there are a number of recurrent themes including not only the way in which people make a living hunting gathering and fishing but also striking similarities in other areas of life such as belief systems and social organisation These themes are described and then explored through archaeological case studies The overarching theme throughout the volume is the use of ethnographic analogy and how archaeologists should be critical in its use The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology and Anthropology of

Hunter-Gatherers Vicki Cummings,Peter Jordan,Marek Zvelebil,2014-04-24 For more than a century the study of hunting and gathering societies has been central to the development of both archaeology and anthropology as academic disciplines and has also generated widespread public interest and debate The Oxford Handbook of the Archaeology and Anthropology of Hunter Gatherers provides a comprehensive review of hunter gatherer studies to date including critical engagements with older debates new theoretical perspectives and renewed obligations for greater engagement between researchers and indigenous communities Chapters provide in depth archaeological historical and anthropological case studies and examine far reaching questions about human social relations attitudes to technology ecology and management of resources and the environment as well as issues of diet health and gender relations all central topics in hunter gatherer research but also themes that have great relevance for modern global society and its future challenges The Handbook also provides a strategic vision for how the integration of new methods approaches and study regions can ensure that future research into the archaeology and anthropology of hunter gatherers will continue to deliver penetrating insights into the factors that underlie all human diversity The Interpretation of Archaeological Spatial Patterning Ellen M. Kroll,T. Douglas Price,2013-06-29

Investigations of archaeological intrasite spatial patterns have generally taken one of two directions studies that introduced and explored methods for the analysis of archaeological spatial patterns or those that described and analyzed the formation of spatial patterns in actualistic ethnographic experimental or natural contexts The archaeological studies were largely quantitative in nature concerned with the recognition and definition of patterns the actualistic efforts were often oriented more toward interpretation dealing with how patterns formed and what they meant Our research group on archaeological spatial analysis at the University of Wisconsin Madison has been working for several years on both quantitative and interpretive problems Both lines of investigation are closely related and are important complements In order to demonstrate the convergence of archaeological and actualistic studies for the understanding of intrasite spatial patterns we organized a symposium at the 52nd Annual Meeting of the Society of American Archaeology in Toronto Canada in May 1987 The symposium titled The Interpretation of Stone Age Archaeological Spatial Patterns was organized into two sessions The six papers presented in the morning session five of which comprise Part I of this volume focused on ethnoarchaeological and experimental research Michael Schiffer was the discussant for this half of the symposium Our intention for the ethnoarchaeological contributions to the symposium and volume was the delineation of some of the significant accomplishments achieved thus far by actualistic studies regarding the formation of spatial patterns

The Archaeology of Native-Lived Colonialism Neal Ferris, 2011-10 In reconsidering Native adaptation and resistance to colonial British rule Ferris reviews five centuries of interaction that are usually read as a single event viewed through the lens of historical bias He first examines patterns of traditional lifeway continuity among the Ojibwa demonstrating their ability to maintain seasonal mobility up to the mid nineteenth century and their adaptive response to its loss He then looks at the experience of refugee Delawares who settled among the Ojibwa as a missionary sponsored community yet managed to maintain an identity distinct from missionary influences And he shows how the archaeological history of the Six Nations Iroquois reflected patterns of negotiating emergent colonialism when they returned to the region in the 1780s exploring how families managed tradition and the contemporary colonial world to develop innovative ways of revising and maintaining identity

Hunting and Fishing in the Neolithic and Eneolithic Selena Vitezovic, Christoforos Arampatzis, 2024-05-02 This volume contains 13 papers on hunting and fishing techniques weapons and prey in the area from Anatolia to the Gibraltar region Papers include specific case studies as well as syntheses of wider data sets and provide the latest methodological and theoretical perspectives on the role of hunting and fishing in early agricultural societies Farming, Hunting, and Fishing in the Olmec World Amber M. VanDerwarker, 2010-01-01 The Olmec who anciently inhabited Mexico's southern Gulf Coast organized their once egalitarian society into chiefdoms during the Formative period 1400 BC to AD 300 This increase in political complexity coincided with the development of village agriculture which has led scholars to theorize that agricultural surpluses gave aspiring Olmec leaders control over vital resources and thus a power base on which to build authority and exact tribute In this book Amber VanDerwarker conducts the first multidisciplinary analysis of subsistence patterns at two Olmec settlements to offer a fuller understanding of how the development of political complexity was tied to both agricultural practices and environmental factors She uses plant and animal remains as well as isotopic data to trace the intensification of maize agriculture during the Late Formative period She also examines how volcanic eruptions in the region affected subsistence practices and settlement patterns Through these multiple sets of data VanDerwarker presents convincing evidence that Olmec and epi Olmec lifeways of farming hunting and fishing were driven by both political and environmental pressures and that the rise of institutionalized leadership must be understood within the ecological context in which it occurred The Cambridge World Prehistory Colin Renfrew,Paul Bahn,2014-06-09 The Cambridge World Prehistory provides a systematic and authoritative examination of the prehistory of every region around the world from the early days of human origins in Africa two million years ago to the beginnings of written history which in some areas started only two centuries ago Written by a team of leading international scholars the volumes include both traditional topics and cutting edge approaches such as archaeolinguistics and molecular genetics and examine the essential questions of human development around the world The volumes are organised geographically exploring the evolution of hominins and their expansion from Africa as well as the formation of states and development in each region of different technologies such as seafaring metallurgy and food production The Cambridge World Prehistory reveals a rich and complex history of the world It will be an invaluable resource for any student or scholar of archaeology and related disciplines looking to research a particular topic tradition region or period within prehistory Northwest Lands, Northwest Peoples Dale D. Goble,Paul W. Hirt,2012-03-15 It can be said that all of human history is environmental history for all human action happens in an environment in a place This collection of essays explores the environmental history of the Pacific Northwest of North America addressing questions of how humans have adapted to the northwestern landscape and modified it over time and how the changing landscape in turn affected human society economy laws and values Northwest Lands and Peoples includes essays by historians anthropologists ecologists a botanist geographers biologists law professors and a journalist It addresses a wide variety of topics indicative of current scholarship in the rapidly growing field of environmental history The Origins of Human Society Peter Bogucki,2000-01-04 The Origins of Human Society traces the development of human culture from its origins over 2 million years ago to the emergence of literate civilization In addition to a global coverage of prehistoric life the book pays specific attention to the origins and dispersal of anatomically modern humans the development of symbolic expression the transition from mobile foraging bands to sedentary households early agriculture and its consequences the emergence of social differentiation and hereditary ranking and the prehistoric roots of ancient states and empires The Blackwell History of the World Series The goal of this ambitious series is to provide an accessible source of knowledge about the entire human past for every curious person in every part of the world It will comprise some two dozen volumes of which some provide synoptic views of the history of particular regions while others consider the world as a whole during a particular period of time The volumes are narrative in form giving balanced attention to social and cultural history in the broadest sense as well as to institutional development and political change Each provides a systematic account of a very large subject but they are also both imaginative and interpretative The Series is intended to be accessible to the widest possible readership and the accessibility of its volumes is matched by the style of presentation and production

Maya Zooarchaeology Kitty F. Emery, 2004-12-31 A comprehensive work combining traditional zooarchaeological reports and various state of the art summaries of methods and theoretical perspectives This combination of detailed discussions of basic zooarchaeological data with reviews of important themes in Maya zooarchaeology emphasizes the central issues that guide our research from basic data collection through final comparative interpretation The chapters emphasize the newest developments in technical methods the most recent trends in the analysis of social zooarchaeology and the broadening perspectives provided by a new geographic range of investigations The main focus of the volume remains on fostering cooperation among Mesoamerican zooarchaeologists at the levels of both preliminary analysis and final theoretical reconstruction

Foraging and Farming David R. Harris, Gordon C. Hillman, 2014-10-30 This book is one of a series of more than 20 volumes resulting from the World Archaeological Congress September 1986 attempting to bring together not only archaeologists and anthropologists from many parts of the world as well as academics from contingent disciplines but also non academics from a wide range of cultural backgrounds This volume develops a new approach to plant exploitation and early agriculture in a worldwide comparative context It modifies the conceptual dichotomy between hunter gatherers and farmers viewing human exploitation of plant resources as a global evolutionary process which incorporated the beginnings of cultivation and crop domestication The studies throughout the book come from a worldwide range of geographical contexts from the Andes to China and from Australia to the Upper Mid West of North America This work is of interest to anthropologists archaeologists botanists and geographers Originally published 1989

Architecture and Order Michael Parker Pearson, Colin Richards, 2003-09-02 This book offers contributions ranging from studies of hunter gatherer camp organization to the use of space in Classical and Medieval worlds

Cultural Diversity Among Twentieth-Century Foragers Susan Kent, 1996-02-15 This book examines variability within broadly defined African forager societies Foragers have been seen as culturally similar as they all pursue a subsistence strategy emphasising hunting and gathering However new research suggests there may be more diversity among groups than has been acknowledged Here leading scholars contrast groups within forager societies Chapters range in scope from symbolic to ecological and behavioural providing invaluable data on hunter gatherer life for anyone concerned with past or present foragers

The Lifeways of Hunter-Gatherers Robert L. Kelly, 2013-04-15 In this book Robert L Kelly challenges the preconceptions that hunter gatherers were Paleolithic relics living in a raw state of nature instead crafting a position that emphasizes their diversity and downplays attempts to model the original foraging lifeway or to use foragers to depict human nature stripped to its core Kelly reviews the anthropological literature for variation among living foragers in terms of diet mobility sharing land tenure technology exchange male female relations division of labor marriage descent and political organization Using the paradigm of human behavioral ecology he analyzes the diversity in these areas and seeks to explain rather than explain away variability and argues for an approach to prehistory that uses archaeological data to test theory rather than one that uses ethnographic analogy to reconstruct the past Emergence and Collapse of Early Villages

Timothy A. Kohler, Mark D. Varien, 2012-04-10 Comparing simulations from agent based models with the precisely dated archaeological record from this area this text will interest archaeologists working in the Southwest and in Neolithic studies as well as anyone applying modeling techniques to understanding how human societies shape and are shaped by the environment The Ebb and Flow of the Gḥurid Empire David C. Thomas, 2018-05-15 The iconic minaret of J m stands in a remote mountain valley in central Afghanistan the finest surviving monument of the enigmatic 12th century Gh rid dynasty The re discovery of the minaret half a century ago prompted renewed interest in the Gh rids and this has intensified since their summer capital at J m became Afghanistan s first World Heritage site in 2002 Two seasons of archaeological fieldwork at J m the detailed analysis of satellite images and the innovative use of Google Earth as a cultural heritage management tool have resulted in a wealth of new information about known Gh rid sites and the identification of hundreds of previously undocumented archaeological sites across Afghanistan Drawing inspiration from the Annales School and the concept of an archipelagic landscape Thomas has used these data to re assess the Gh rids and generate a more nuanced understanding of this significant Early Islamic polity In addition to complementing the v nements which form the focus of the urban based historical sources the new archaeological data are used by Thomas to reconsider the urban characteristics of the Gh rids summer capital Throughout The Ebb and Flow of the Gh rid Empire Thomas uses this to explore the issues of Gh rid identity ideology and the sustainability of their polity Reproductive Ecology and Human Evolution Peter T. Ellison, 2017-09-04 The study of human reproductive ecology represents an important new development in human evolutionary biology Its focus is on the physiology of human reproduction and evidence of adaptation and hence the action of natural selection in that domain But at the same time the study of human reproductive ecology provides an important perspective on the historical process of human evolution a lens through which we may view the forces that have shaped us as a species In the end all actions of natural selection can be reduced to variation in the reproductive success of individuals Peter Ellison is one of the pioneers in the fast growing area of reproductive ecology He has collected for this volume the research of thirty one of the most active and influential scientists in the field Thanks to recent noninvasive techniques these contributors can present direct empirical data on the effect of a broad array of ecological behavioral and constitutional variables on the reproductive processes of humans as well as wild primates Because biological evolution is cumulative however organisms in the present must be viewed as products of the selective forces of past environments The study of adaptation thus often involves inferences about formative ecological relationships that may no longer exist or not in the same form Making such inferences depends on carefully weighing a broad range of evidence drawn from studies of contemporary ecological variation comparative studies of related taxonomies and paleontological and genetic evidence of evolutionary history The result of this inquiry sheds light not only on the functional aspects of an organism s contemporary biology but also on its evolutionary history and the selective forces that have shaped it through time Encompassing a range of viewpoints controversy along with consensus this far ranging collection offers an indispensable guide for courses in biological anthropology human biology and primatology along with

Constructing Community Alison E. Rautman, 2014-11-27 In Constructing Community Alison E Rautman uses the Salinas District in New Mexico to examine the relationships of subsistence practices mobility and settlement Rautman tackles a very broad topic how archaeologists use material evidence to infer and imagine how people lived in the past how they coped with everyday decisions and tensions and how they created a sense of themselves and their place in the world
