Faster Higher Further:

Faster, Higher, Farther Jack Ewing, 2017 A shocking exposé of Volkswagen's fraud by the New York Times reporter who covered the scandal. In mid 2015 Volkswagen proudly reached its goal of surpassing Toyota as the world's largest automaker. A few months later the EPA disclosed that Volkswagen had installed software in 11 million cars that deceived emissions testing mechanisms. By early 2017 VW had settled with American regulators and car owners for 20 billion with additional lawsuits still looming. In Faster Higher Farther Jack Ewing rips the lid off the conspiracy. He describes VW's rise from the people's car during the Nazi era to one of Germany's most prestigious and important global brands touted for being green. He paints vivid portraits of Volkswagen chairman Ferdinand Piëch and chief executive Martin Winterkorn arguing that the corporate culture they fostered drove employees working feverishly in pursuit of impossible sales targets to illegal methods. Unable to build cars that could meet emissions standards in the United States honestly engineers were left with no choice but to cheat. Volkswagen then compounded the fraud by spending millions marketing clean diesel only to have the lie exposed by a handful of researchers on a shoestring budget resulting in a guilty plea to criminal charges in a landmark Department of Justice case. Faster Higher Farther reveals how the succeed at all costs mentality prevalent in modern boardrooms led to one of corporate history's farthest reaching cases of fraud with potentially devastating consequences. Higher, Further, Faster Stewart Ross, 2008-08-06 Sport is undergoing a global technological revolution. Year on year records are smashed, equipment gets more sophisticated, facilities improve almost beyond recognition. These changes are impacting on all areas of sport from shoes to cycles and stadia. Is this making sport more exciting for participants and spectators? Or are talent and determination becoming secondary to money and technology devaluing honest competition? In Higher Further Faster Stewart Ross looks at these questions and much more. Starting with a description of technology's impact on elements common to various sports such as bats, balls, pitches and special clothing, he then examines the controversies that arise almost daily from golf club technology to the use of Hawk eye in tennis. He also looks ahead to the techno future of major sports such as football, tennis, golf, cricket, cycling and motor sport and asks where they are going. Are referees and umpires becoming redundant? If drugs will always win, do we really have a choice about using them? Will we ever see a Super Human Olympics? Is modern professional sport more about technology than talent? Can athletes from the developing world ever hope to compete in modern sport? This book is a must read for all participants and fans who want to understand the technological upheaval that is shaking modern sport to its very foundations. One thing's for sure, whether you find it stimulating or just plain scary, the future will be very, very different. About the author: Stewart Ross is a full-time writer with some 200 published titles to his credit. He is also an occasional journalist and broadcaster, a frequent lecturer notably on the QE2 and at ICES La Roche sur Yon France where he lectures to science students and a much sought after presenter of workshops to schools and adult groups. www.stewartross.net Faster, Higher, Farther: How One of the World's Largest
