Revisiting The Chinese Learner Carol K.K. Chan, Nirmala Rao, 2010-03-10 It is seventeen years since I first formulated The paradox of the Chinese learner in a conference in Kathmandu Nepal My original formulation of the paradox was that westerners saw Chinese students as rote learning massive amounts of information in fierce exam dominated classrooms yet in international comparisons students in the Confucian heritage classrooms greatly outperformed western students learning in progressive western classrooms This seeming paradox raised all sorts of questions to which many others have contributed important answers especially that by Ference Marton on how Chinese learners construed the roles of memory and understanding in ways that were foreign to typical western educators Much of this work was brought together in The Chinese Learner 1996 edited by David Watkins and myself That work raised more questions still especially about educational contexts beliefs and practices which were investigated in contributions to Teaching the Chinese Learner 2001 And now we have Revisiting the Chinese Learner which is a very timely collection of excellent contributions that take into account the many changes that have taken place since 2001 changes such as 1 The globalisation of education especially through educational technology and enormous socio economic changes especially in China itself 2 Changes in educational policy aims curriculum and organization and decentralisation of educational decision making in many Confucian heritage cultures 3

Metacognitive Approaches to Developing Oracy Roy Evans,Deborah Jones,2013-09-13 The acquisition of speech and language represent significant achievements for all children These aspects of child development have received substantial attention in the research literature and a considerable body of theoretical knowledge exists to chart progress from infancy to maturity Cross cultural studies have identified the common purposes served by the acquisition of oral language by children and the essential similarity in the sequence through which speech develops irrespective of geography and culture What is less clear is precisely how children learn to say what they mean and how teachers and parents can support and enhance the development of meaningful speech in their children Until now children s speech has been underused as a means of promoting learning in the formal school setting New requirements within the National Curriculum are trying to address this gap but there remains a lack of clarity as to what this means for practice and how it relates to the broad base of curricular objectives This book brings together a body of work from different countries it offers an improved understanding of how strategies for developing speaking and listening may impact metacognitive awareness and raise standards of literacy and dialogic thinking for all children This book was previously published as a special issue of Early Child Development and Care Multilingual Literacy Esther Odilia Breuer,Eva Lindgren,Anat Stavans,Elke Van Steendam,2021-01-21 This book investigates multilingual literacy practices explores the technology applied in different educational frameworks the centrality of multilingual literacy in non formal informal and formal educational contexts as well as its presence in everyday life Thematically clustered in four parts the chapters present an overview of theory related to multilingual literacy address the methodological challenges of research in the area describe and evaluate projects set up to foster multilingual literacy in a variety of educational contexts analyze the literacy practices of multilinguals and their contribution to language and literacy acquisition This volume aims to initiate a change in paradigms shifting from structured and conservative problematizations to inclusive and diverse conceptualizations and practices To that end the book showcases explorations of different methodologies and needs in formal and non formal educational systems and it serves as a springboard for developing multivocal participatory spaces with opportunities for learning and identity building for all multilinguals across different settings languages ages and contexts
