York,Alan S. Tinkler,Barri E. Tinkler,2018-11-01 Throughout the 90s and early 2000s service learning research was intensely focused on the student outcomes That body of research has effectively brought service learning from the fringes into the mainstream of institutionalized pedagogies In the past decade service learning research has experienced an infusion of exploration in three distinct ways first large scale quantitative methodologies second a proliferation of research that has explored how different sub groups of students experience the pedagogy differently thusly resulting in variation among outcomes and third a focus on the experiences and outcomes associated for communities and community partners engaged in service learning In an effort to support these movements this volume of the Advances in Service Learning Research series Service Learning to Advance Access Success Bridging Institutional and Community Capacity focuses on how service learning can advance access and success Not simply access and success of students but the ways that service learning can advance access and success for all through bridging institutional and community capacity building The chapters in this volume serve as a testament to the ways in which service learning research continue to be advanced by thoughtful scholar practitioners The 12 chapters included in this volume are organized into three sections The first section focuses on how institutional and community partnerships can be leveraged to build community capacity The second section focuses on how institutions might build their own capacity to effect change for the good of society The third and final section focuses on six studies exploring the relationship service learning pedagogy has with access and success for students Of the six studies three are situated within the context of teacher preparation programs

Employing Community-Based Experiential Learning in Teacher Education Gary Harfitt, Jessie Mei Ling Chow, 2020-07-18 This book positions itself at the intersection of the interrelationship between three key areas of initial teacher education constructivist learning theories teaching practicum and the promotion of reflective practices It presents an innovative approach to teacher preparation at undergraduate and postgraduate levels by critically examining the implementation of a mandatory experiential learning block across subject disciplines on undergraduate and postgraduate teacher preparation courses This book presents multiple examples and case studies of these varied experiential learning projects that will inform academics teachers and policymakers Through these rich examples the authors set out to address the theory practice dilemma in teacher education where teachers to be are often positioned as consumers of educational research in classrooms read reference books and academic papers on teaching and observe university and school experts before applying the same acquired theories and practices in their own classes In the book the authors argue for a shift away from this conventional teacher learning curriculum that is characterised by the separation of theory and practice choosing instead to promote pedagogy and methods courses where practice underpins all learning These pedagogical perspectives include the promotion of a diverse range of learning contexts including on and off campus learning sites for student teachers to experience during their time on teacher education courses
