3.1 Deregulation (Reconfiguring Power Systems)

Traditionally, utilities were 'regulated monopoly' business and their structure was vertically integrated. The power sector was characterized by operation of a single utility generating, transmitting and distributing electrical energy in its area of operation. Electric power was looked upon as a service and not a commodity.

- Power industry was economical only in large and centralized form and needed massive investment.
- Monopoly status was granted to companies to protect their large investment.
- Single utility in one area of operation and universal supply obligation (USO)
- Regulations were introduced to prevent utilities misusing their monopoly and harming the customers.
