Iberia stands at the center of key trends in Atlantic and world histories largely because Portugal and Spain were the first European kingdoms to go global. The Early Modern Hispanic World engages with new ways of thinking about the early modern Hispanic past as a field of study that has grown exponentially in recent years. It focuses predominantly on questions of how people understood the rapidly changing world in which they lived, how they defined, visualized, and constructed communities from family and city to kingdom and empire. To do so, it incorporates voices from across the Hispanic World and across disciplines. The volume considers the dynamic relationships between circulation and fixedness, space and place, and how new methodologies are reshaping global history and Spain's place in it Atenas Ioli Vingopoulou, Melina Casulli, 1999 The Works of John Ruskin John Ruskin, 1912 Dawn of the Golden Age Wouter T. Kloek, Rijksmuseum (Amsterdam, Pays-Bas), Rijksmuseum (Netherlands), J. Bruyn, Hessel Miedema, Christian Schuckman, 1993-01-01
Designed as a catalogue for an exhibition at the Rijksmuseum in 1994, this offers a survey of the paintings, drawings, prints, sculpture, and applied art produced 1580-1620. The book contains five essays followed by a catalogue which reproduces work from the era along with data on the artists Lisbona. Ediz. spagnola Emilia Ferreira, Jorge Cabello, 1997 The Bookman, 1906 Making Space Public in Early Modern Europe Angela Vanhaelen, Joseph P. Ward, 2013-04-26
Broadening the conversation begun in Making Publics in Early Modern Europe 2009, this book examines how the spatial dynamics of public making changed the shape of early modern society. The publics visited in this volume are voluntary groupings of diverse individuals that could coalesce through the performative uptake of shared cultural forms and practices. The contributors argue that such forms of association were social productions of space as well as collective identities. Chapters explore a range of cultural activities such as theatre performances, travel, and migration practices of persuasion, the embodied experiences of lived space, and the central importance of media and material things in the creation of publics and the production of spaces. They assess a multiplicity of publics that produced and occupied a multiplicity of social spaces where collective identity and voice could be created, discovered, asserted, and exercised. Cultural producers and consumers thus challenged dominant ideas about just who could enter the public arena greatly expanding both the real and imaginary spaces of public life to include hitherto excluded groups of private people The consequences of this historical reconfiguration of public space remain relevant especially for contemporary efforts to meaningfully include the views of ordinary people in public life Le livre d'or de Seville Carlos Pascual,1988
