The Onset of Literacy Paul Bertelson, 1987. The Onset of Literacy addresses one of the main questions in the field of reading research: why the acquisition of skills in reading and writing appears to be so much more difficult than the earlier acquisition of speech communication. As well as posing a major theoretical puzzle, the question has important implications for both instructional practices and ways of dealing with dyslexic children. Research on the reading process has made important progress in recent years thanks to conceptual and methodological advances in cognitive psychology, psycholinguistics, and neuropsychology, which have made it possible to deal with complex issues that in the past seemed to defy rational analysis. The Onset of Literacy presents a selective sample of work by major contemporary specialists who focus on current information processing approaches to the reading process and their interface with research on the development of reading and related skills. An introduction by the editor summarizes and places the various contributions within current analyses of reading inspired by the information processing approach. The chapters and their authors are: The Ability to Manipulate Speech Sounds Depends on Knowing Alphabetic Writing, Charles Read; Zhang Yun, Fei Nie, Hong Yin, and Ding Baoqing; Literacy Training and Speech Segmentation, Jos Morais; Paul Bertelson; Luz Cary and Jesus Alegria; Phonological Awareness: The Role of Reading Experience, Virginia A. Mann; Word Recognition in Early Reading: A Review of the Direct and
