Handbook of Education Policy Research
 Gary Sykes, Barbara Schneider, David N. Plank, 2012-09-10
 Co-published by Routledge for the American Educational Research Association (AERA). Educational policy continues to be of major concern. Policy debates about economic growth and national competitiveness, for example, commonly focus on the importance of human capital and a highly educated workforce. Defining the theoretical boundaries and methodological approaches of education policy research are the two primary themes of this comprehensive AERA-sponsored Handbook. Organized into seven sections, the Handbook focuses on:

1. disciplinary foundations of educational policy
2. methodological perspectives
3. the policy process
4. resources management and organization
5. teaching and learning policy
6. actors and institutions
7. education access and differentiation

Drawing from multiple disciplines, the Handbook's over one hundred authors address three central questions: What policy issues and questions have oriented current policy research? What research strategies and methods have proven most fruitful? And what issues, questions, and methods will drive future policy research? Topics such as early childhood education, school choice, access to higher education, teacher accountability, and testing and measurement cut across the 63 chapters in the volume. The politics surrounding these and other issues are objectively analyzed by authors and commentators. Each of the seven sections concludes with two commentaries by leading scholars in the field. The first considers the current state of policy design, and the second addresses the current state of policy research. This book is appropriate for scholars and graduate students working in the field of education policy and for the growing number of academic, government, and think tank researchers.

Designing Education Policy for Sub-Saharan African Countries Elizabeth Bifuh-Ambe, 2024-09-16 Designing Education Policy for Sub-Saharan African Countries is the culmination of five years of extensive research and analysis of global educational systems as they compare with the challenges and opportunities in Sub-Saharan Africa with a lens on Southern Cameroon. As African youths demonstrate purpose and a desire for sovereignty and self-governance, quality education remains critical in realizing these aspirations. Drawing from over 35 years of experience as an educator on various continents, Elizabeth Bifuh-Ambe courageously confronts the complex interactions of education with colonialism and other systems that perpetuate inequalities within the continent. She highlights the transformative power of education as a source of cultural pride and a conduit for socio-economic development that is essential if Africa must break free from historical patterns of dependency in the ongoing fight for genuine independence.

Shaping Education Policy Douglas E. Mitchell, Dorothy Shipps, Robert L. Crowson, 2017-09-27 Shaping Education Policy is a comprehensive overview of education politics and policy which provides conceptual guideposts for future policy development and strategies for change. Leading scholars explore the interacting social processes and the dynamics of power politics as they intersect with democratic ideals and shape school performance. Chapters cover major themes that have influenced education including the Civil Rights Movement, federal involvement, the accountability movement, family choice, and development of nationalization and globalization. This edited collection examines how education policy in the United States has evolved over the last several decades and how the resulting policies are affecting schools and the children who attend them. This important book is a necessary resource for understanding the evolution, current status, and possibilities of educational policy and politics.

New State Formations in Education Policy Laura Engel, 2009-01-01 New State Formations in Education Policy: Reflections from Spain explores globalization, shifting state spaces, and education in relation to a diverse set of processes including democratization, decentralization, and Europeanization. The book offers a unique perspective on education policy formation in the modern nation-state in which education policy makers have to take into account and negotiate not only pressures related to devolution and regionalization but also policy ideas emanating from the developing European agenda and notions circulating within the global space. In this way, education policy concepts are not only formed in relation to national/regional dynamics but are influenced more broadly by a complex set of supranational and global considerations While the book focuses on Spain this study reflects the growing influence of globalization on national systems of education The book therefore will be of interest to those engaged in studies of globalization and education and those with an interest in the contemporary political cultural and educational context of Europe
