Religion in Multicultural Education Farideh Salili, Rumjahn Hoosain, 2006-05-01 The National Association for Multicultural Education in Washington D C listed a number of issues that the school curriculum should address with reference to multicultural education including racism sexism classism linguisticism ableism ageism heterosexism and religious intolerance It is noteworthy that of all these issues religion is about the only one that throughout history people are willing to die for although whether what is at issue is really religion or other things such as territory is another matter It is also interesting that all the others have isms in their names

but religious issues are characterized by intolerance Perhaps we should try to understand this intolerance and look at what steps might help to alleviate it However while intolerance might seem a simple thing understanding what is behind it and how it plays such a crucial role in religion requires what we refer to in the Introduction chapter as a multifaceted approach at multiple levels It is not enough just to try to dispel stereotypes of followers of other religions or to point out commonalities in world religions We should for example try to understand and appreciate how adherents of other religions try to answer questions regarding their adaptation to the contemporary environment It is through understanding how different religions coexist side by side at various levels that we truly come to learn about religion in multicultural education Teaching

Private Education Geoffrey Walford, 2005-11-24 Private schools are central to the reproduction of social inequality For example whilst in the UK providing only about seven per cent of the school population about half of the undergraduates at Oxford and Cambridge still come from the private sector Private schools have long been associated with privilege and elitism While this traditional elitist aspect to the private sector is still central the private school sector is actually far more diverse that is usually acknowledged It now includes many small schools and faith based schools that may not offer the traditional advantages of the private sector but which provide a particular environment deemed desirable by parents In spite of their educational and social importance there has been very little academic research and writing on private schools The proposed book will be the culmination of Professor Walford's research into private schools over the past twenty years
