Elusive Citizenship John S. W. Park, 2004-06 Asian American immigration citizenship law The Racial Logic of Politics Thomas P. Kim, 2007 As he systemically studies the barriers that Asian Americans face in the electoral and legislative processes Thomas Kim shows how racism is embedded in America's two party political system Here Kim examines the institutional barriers that Asian Americans face in the electoral and legislative processes Utilizing approaches from ethnic studies and political science including rational choice theory he demonstrates how the political logic of two party competition actually works against Asian American political interests According to Kim political party leaders recognize that Asian Americans are tagged with ethnic markers that label them as immutably foreign and as such parties cannot afford to be too closely associated with racialized Asian Americans In publicly repudiating Asian American efforts to gain political power Kim asserts party elites are making rational strategic calculations Although other commentators have blamed the diversity of the Asian American population for its lack of political success Kim argues convincingly that race itself is the chief barrier to political participation and it will not be overcome simply by electing or appointing more Asian Americans to political office citizenship and belonging through the lens of American popular culture      Constitutional Law for a Changing America Lee Epstein, Thomas G. Walker, 2015-08-28 Judicial decisions are influenced by myriad political factors from lawyers and interest groups to the shifting sentiments of public opinion to the ideological and behavioral inclinations of the justices In Constitutional Law for a Changing America Rights Liberties and Justice Ninth Edition authors Lee Epstein and Thomas G Walker show how these dynamics shape the development of constitutional doctrine Known for fastidious revising and streamlining the authors incorporate the latest scholarship in the fields of both political science and legal studies and offer rock solid analysis of both classic and contemporary landmark cases including key opinions handed down through the 2015 session Filled with additional supporting material photographs of the litigants sidebars comparing the U S with other nations and Aftermath boxes that tell the stories of the parties lives after the Supreme Court has acted the text encourages greater student engagement with the material and a more complete understanding of the American constitution      Race, Nation, and Refuge Doug Coulson, 2017-10-01 From 1870 to 1940 racial eligibility for naturalization in the United States was limited to free white persons and aliens of African nativity and persons of African descent and many interpreted these restrictions to reflect a policy of Asian exclusion based on the conclusion that Asians were neither white nor African Because the distinction between white and Asian was considerably unstable however those charged with the interpretation and implementation of the naturalization act faced difficult racial classification questions Through archival research and a close reading of the arguments contained in the documents of the US Bureau of Naturalization especially those documents that discussed challenges to racial eligibility for naturalization Doug Coulson demonstrates that the strategy of foregrounding shared external threats to the nation as a means of transcending perceived racial divisions was often more important to racial classification than legal doctrine He argues that this was due to the rapid shifts in the nation s enmities and alliances during the early twentieth century and the close relationship between race nation and sovereignty      The Oxford Encyclopedia of American Political and Legal History Donald T. The Nation and Its Peoples John Park, Shannon Gleeson, 2014-02-03 With this volume The University of California Center for New Racial Studies inaugurates a new book series with Routledge Focusing on the shifting and contradictory meaning of race The Nation and Its Peoples underscores the persistence of structural discrimination and the ways in which race has formally disappeared in the law and yet remains one of the most powerful underlying unacknowledged and often unspoken aspects of debates about citizenship about membership and national belonging within immigration politics and policy This collection of original essays also emphasizes the need for race scholars to be more attentive to the processes and consequences of migration across multiple boundaries as surely there is no place that can stay fixed racially or otherwise when so many people have been moving This book is ideal as required reading in courses as well as a vital new resource for researchers throughout the social sciences

Kyunghee Pyun, 2015 Postmodernism and Aesthetics Collide or Steer presents twenty two artists who were awardees of the contemporary visual art competition by the AHL Foundation All of them spent their youth in the 1990s as immigrant artists or as fine art students studying abroad in the United States While postmodernism gained momentum in South Korea during an economic boom in the 1990s a milieu of fine arts departments at major universities as well as art markets in Seoul still maintained a purity of high modernism in abstract painting Organized by curator and professor Kyunghee Pyun at the Fashion Institute of Technology this exhibition overviews the current status of twenty two artists from Korea living and working in the United States The show divided artists and their works into most popular binary themes of postmodernism and high modernism such as appropriation originality local international simulacra real banal avant garde and personal universal Disciplinary Futures Nadia Y. Kim, Pawan Dhingra, 2023-06-20 Reimagines how race ethnicity imperialism and colonialism can be central to social science research and methods There is a growing consensus that the discipline of sociology and the social sciences broadly need to engage more thoroughly with the legacy and the present day of colonialism Indigenous settler colonialism imperialism and racial capitalism in the United States and globally In Disciplinary Futures a cross section of scholars comes together to engage sociology and the social sciences by way of these paradigms particularly from the influence of disciplines of American Ethnic and Indigenous Studies With original essays from scholars such as Y n L Espiritu Sunaina Maira H k lani K Aikau Salvador Vidal Ortiz Ben Carrington Yvonne Sherwood and Gilda L Ochoa among others Disciplinary Futures offers concrete pathways for how the social sciences can expand from the limiting frameworks they traditionally use to study race and racism namely the black white binary the privileging of the nation state the fixation on the US mainland the underappreciation of post and settler colonial studies the liberal assumptions and the limited conception of what constitutes data In turn the contributors reveal that sociology has many useful questions methodologies and approaches to offer scholars of American Ethnic and Indigenous Studies Disciplinary Futures is an important work one which renders these disciplines more intellectually expansive and thus better able to tackle urgent issues of injustice

Policing Immigrants Doris Marie Provine, Monica W. Varsanyi, Paul G. Lewis, Scott H. Decker, 2016-06-14 The United States deported nearly two million illegal immigrants during the first five years of the Obama presidency more than during any previous administration President Obama stands accused by activists of being deporter in chief Yet despite efforts to rebuild what many see as a broken system the president has not yet been able to convince Congress to pass new immigration legislation and his record remains rooted in a political landscape that was created long before his election Deportation numbers have actually been on the rise since 1996 when two federal statutes sought to delegate a portion of the responsibilities for immigration enforcement to local authorities Policing Immigrants traces the transition of immigration enforcement from a traditionally federal power exercised primarily near the US borders to a patchwork system of local policing that extends throughout the country's interior Since federal authorities set local law enforcement to the task of bringing suspected illegal immigrants to the federal government's attention local responses have varied While some localities have resisted the work others have aggressively sought out unauthorized immigrants often seeking to further their own objectives by putting their own stamp on immigration policing Tellingly how a community responds can best be predicted not by conditions like crime rates or the state of the local economy but rather by the level of conservatism among local voters What has resulted the authors argue is a system that is neither just nor effective one that threatens the core crime fighting mission of policing by promoting racial profiling creating fear in immigrant communities and undermining the critical community based function of local policing

Subverting Exclusion Andrea Geiger, 2011-11-29 Concerned with people called variously eta burakumin buraku jumin buraku people outcastes or the lowest of the low this book examines how their experience of caste status based discrimination in 19th century Japan affected their experience of race based discrimination in the West of the US and Canada in the 19th and early 20th centuries
