The Imperialism of French Decolonisation Ryo Ikeda, 2016-01-12 This book examines French motivations behind the decolonisation of Tunisia and Morocco and the intra Western Alliance relationships It argues that changing French policy towards decolonisation brought about the unexpectedly quick process of independence of dependencies in the post WWII era

French Negotiating Behavior Charles Cogan, 2003 Even before it led opposition to the recent war on Iraq France was considered the most difficult of the United States major European allies Each side tends to irritate the other not least at the negotiating table where Americans complain of French pretensions and arrogance and the French fulminate against U S hegemonism and egoism But whether they like it or not the two nations are going to have to deal with one another for a long time to come Charles Cogan's timely and insightful study can't guarantee to make those encounters more fruitful but it will help France's negotiating counterparts understand how and why French officials behave as they do With impressive objectivity and authority Cogan first explores the cultural and historical factors that have shaped the French approach and then dissects its key elements Mixing rationalism and nationalism rhetoric and brio self importance and embattled vulnerability French negotiators often seem more interested in asserting their country's universal mission than in reaching agreement Three recent case studies illustrate this distinctively French malaise Yet agreement is by no means always elusive Cogan offers practical suggestions for making negotiations more cooperative and productive although he also emphasizes the long term damage inflicted by the crisis over Iraq Drawing on candid interviews with many of today's leading players on the French American British and German sides this engaging volume will inform and stimulate both seasoned practitioners and academics as well as students of France and the negotiating process This book is the recipient of the Prix Ernest L. Monod from L'Académie des Sciences Morales et Politiques 2006

French International Arbitration Law Reports: 1963-2007 Thomas Clay,Philippe Pinsolle,Thomas Voisin,2014-04-01 The French law of international arbitration has a beginning 1963 and a culminating point 2007 but fortunately it does not have an ending Indeed it does not cease to evolve to improve to perfect itself Thus it invites one to carefully observe it But before undertaking this careful observation by annually identifying the most important decisions as this collection has been doing since 2008 it is important to recall the origins of French law on international arbitration how it was built and in so doing predict where it is heading Looking into the past to anticipate the future that is also the interest of a book like the present one This selection necessarily subjective is also shaped by the advantages that a retrospective look offers The benefit of hindsight allows one to confidently distinguish between the decisions that deserve mention and those which did not make it into history Only the former are printed in the following pages but all of such decisions are included Conversely all decisions from 2008 onwards will be methodically published in the annual reports of this collection of which two editions have already been released for the years 2008 and 2009 Aimed for practitioners and academics alike the knowledge of French case law is indispensable to understanding international arbitration and its important influence around the world

Trusting Enemies Nicholas J. Wheeler, 2018-03-09. How can two states with enemy relations transform their relationship? Nicholas Wheeler argues that the discipline of International Relations has not done a good job of answering this question because its focus has been on the state and the individual levels of analysis. In this ground-breaking book, he argues for the importance of a new level of analysis: interpersonal relationships between state leaders. In doing so, he makes two key contributions: Firstly, developing a new theory of interpersonal trust that can be applied to the international level; and secondly, showing how this theory contributes to the literature on signalling in IR. The theory of interpersonal trust developed in the book provides a novel response to the central problem identified by signalling theory in IR: whether the receivers of signals interpret them in the way intended by their senders. The author argues that in fact, trust between two leaders is causally prior to the accurate interpretation of the signals they send, with the aim of communicating peaceful intent. Trust therefore does away with the problem of the ambiguity of signal interpretation. He goes on to examine exactly how a new relationship of trust emerges between two leaders who represent states with enemy relations through face-to-face interaction and the crucial process of bonding between them that this makes possible. This powerful new theory of interpersonal trust is applied to three cases: the personal interactions between US and Soviet leaders Ronald Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev in ending the Cold War; the face-to-face interactions between Indian Prime Minister Atal Bihari Vajpayee and Pakistani Prime Minister Nawaz Sharif in reducing conflict between India and Pakistan in 1998-1999; and the interactions in 2009-10 between Barack Obama and Ayatollah Ali Khamenei that failed to achieve a breakthrough in US-Iran nuclear relations.

Nuclear Weapons and International Security Ramesh Thakur, 2015-02-11. This volume brings together more than three decades of research and writings by Professor Ramesh Thakur on the challenges posed by nuclear weapons. Following an introduction to the current nuclear state of play, the book addresses the challenge of nuclear weapons in three parts. Part I describes the scholar-practitioner interface in trying to come to grips with this challenge: the main policy impact on security strategy and the various future nuclear scenarios. Part II addresses regional nuclear challenges from the South Pacific to East South and West Asia and thereby highlights serious deficiencies in the normative architecture of the nuclear arms control and disarmament regime. In the third and final part, the chapters discuss regional nuclear weapon-free zones, NPT anomalies and their implications for the future of the nuclear arms control regime and finally assess the global governance architecture of nuclear security in light of the three Nuclear Security

Summits between 2010 and 2014 The concluding chapter argues for moving towards a world of progressively reduced nuclear weapons in numbers reduced salience of nuclear weapons in national security doctrines and deployments and ultimately a denuclearized world This book will be of much interest to students of nuclear proliferation global governance international organisations diplomacy and security studies
