

The background image is a sepia-toned photograph of the interior of a large Gothic cathedral. It shows the nave with its high vaulted ceiling, ribbed arches, and a triforium with small arched windows. Light filters through the large clerestory windows, creating a warm, atmospheric glow. The architecture is characterized by its verticality and the intricate stonework of the Gothic style.

In Search of the Unknown in Medieval Architecture John James, 2007-12-31 John James is an Australian architect and medieval historian Since 1969 he has been searching for the origins of the Gothic style beginning with a five year study of Chartres cathedral At that time there were no coherent techniques for analysing the detailed construction history of existing stone structures This he created He expanded his research to include all the early Gothic churches in the Paris region with a three year survey of over 3500 buildings His most important discovery has been that all churches of this period were constructed in many short campaigns by mobile building teams and that major innovation was more likely to occur in the smaller buildings than in the larger This volume makes available 42 of the author's studies on the development of Gothic architecture in France

Lateness and Modernity in Medieval Architecture, 2023-05-08 How have the concepts of lateness and modernity inflected the study of medieval and early modern architecture This volume seeks to re-situate monuments from the 14th 16th centuries that are indebted to medieval building practices and designs within the more established narratives of art and architectural history Drawing on case studies from Cyprus to the Dominican Republic the book explores historiographical methodological and theoretical concerns related to the study of medieval architecture bringing to the fore the meanings and functions of the Gothic in specific contexts of use and display The development of local styles relative to competing traditions and instances of coexistence and hybridization are considered in relation to workshop practices and design theory the role of ornament the circulation of people and knowledge spatial experiences as well as notions of old and new Contributors are Jakub Adamski

The Four Modes of Seeing ElizabethCarson Pastan,2017-07-05 Borrowing its title from Madeline Harrison Caviness s influential work on the modes of seeing articulated by the twelfth century cleric Richard of Saint Victor this interdisciplinary collection brings together the work of thirty scholars from England France Germany Italy Switzerland and the United States Each author has contributed an original article that engages with ideas formulated in Caviness's wide-ranging scholarship. The historiographic introduction discusses themes in Caviness's publications and their importance for art historical and medieval studies today. The book's thematic matrix groups together essays concerned with The Material Object, Documentary Reconstruction, Post-Disciplinary Approaches, Multiple Readings, Gender and Reception, Performativity, Text and Image, Collecting and Consumption, and Politics and Ideology. The contributors include curators, art historians, historians, and literary scholars. Their subjects range from medieval stained glass to the nineteenth-century Gothic Revival, the Sachsenspiegel and Mel Gibson's The Passion of the Christ. Many foreground issues of gender, reception, and textuality which have permeated Caviness's scholarship. Some also present approaches to sites that have been the subject of important studies by Caviness, including Canterbury, Chartres, Reims, Saint Denis, Sens, and Troyes. The volume offers a broad range of methodological approaches to key topics in the study of medieval imagery and thus highlights the vitality of the field today.

The Medieval Chantry in England Julian M. Luxford, 2024-11-01. Chantries were religious institutions endowed with land, goods, and money. At their heart was the performance of a daily mass for the spiritual benefit of their founders and the souls of all faithful dead. To Church reformers, they exemplified some of medieval Catholicism's most egregious errors, but to the orthodox, they offered opportunities to influence what occurred in an unknowable afterlife. The eleven essays presented here lead the reader through the earliest manifestations of the chantry, the origins and development of stone-chapel chapels, royal patronage of commemorative art and architecture, the chantry in the late medieval parish, the provision of music and textiles, and a series of specific chantries created for William of Wykeham, Edmund Audley, Thomas Spring, and Abbot Islip, to the eventual history and the cultural consequences of their suppression in the mid-16th century.

Abbot Suger of St-Denis Lindy Grant, David Bates, 2016-02-04. Based on a fresh reading of primary sources, Lindy Grant's comprehensive biography of Abbot Suger (1081-1151) provides a reassessment of a key figure of the twelfth century. Active in secular and religious affairs alike, Suger was Regent of France and also abbot of one of the most important abbeys in Europe during the time of the Gregorian reforms. But he is primarily remembered as a great artistic patron whose commissions included buildings in the new Gothic style. Lindy Grant reviews him in all these roles and offers a corrective to the current tendency to exaggerate his role as architect of both French royal power and the new gothic form.

The Massacre of the Innocents Warren Carter, 2023-01-30. In The Massacre of the Innocents: Studies in the Cultural Afterlife of a Gospel Scene, Warren Carter examines some fifty instances of the interpretation of the Matthean Massacre of the Innocents (Matt 2:16-18). He emphasizes the agency of interpreters who, in their particular contexts and media, think with the shocking Matthean scene to address the often tragic circumstances of their audiences. He argues throughout that the structure of the Gospel scene facilitates this thinking. The scene is structured as a triad of power relations with a tyrant (Herod), victims (infants and parents), and violent means of tyranny (the massacre). Interpreters use this triad of power relations to identify tyrant's victims and means of tyranny in their own situations Carter illustrates the use of this triad of power relations across two millennia in numerous socio political contexts and media as diverse as sermons images poems and hymns dramas and festivals films novels Christmas carols and Children s Bibles Rhetoric Beyond Words Mary Carruthers,2010-04-08 This book analyses collaborative activities across the visual arts to show the power of non verbal rhetoric in the Middle Ages

Medieval Allegory and the Building of the New Jerusalem Ann Raftery Meyer,2003 The chantry movement in late medieval England is situated in this context and leads to a demonstration of the movement s associations with the highly wrought poem Pearl and its companion poems the book analyses Pearl as medieval architecture offering fresh perspectives on its elaborate construction and historical context BOOK JACKET
