Theorising National Cinema Valentina Vitali, Paul Willemsen, 2019-07-25 Why do we think of clusters of films as national cinema Why has the relationship between the nation and film become so widely and uncritically accepted Theorising National Cinema is a major contribution to work on national cinema by many of the leading scholars in the field It addresses the knotty and complex relationship between cinema and national identity showing that the nationality of a cinema production company and the films that its made have not always been seen as pertinent The volume begins by reviewing and rethinking the concept of national cinema in an age of globalisation and it goes on to chart the parallel developments of national film industries and the idea of a nation state in countries as diverse as Japan South Korea Russia France and Italy The issues of a national cinema for nation states of contested status with disputed borders or displaced peoples is discussed in relation to film making in Taiwan Ireland and Palestine The contributors also consider the future of national cinema in an age of trans national cultural flows exploring issues of national identity and cinema in Latin America Asia the Middle East India Africa and Europe Theorising National Cinema also includes a valuable bibliography of works on national cinema

Brazilian National Cinema Lisa Shaw, Stephanie Dennison, 2014-05-01 Brazilian cinema is one of the most influential national cinemas in Latin America and this wide ranging study traces the evolution of Brazilian film from the silent era to the present day including detailed studies of more recent international box office hits such as Central Station 1998 and City of God 2002 Brazilian National Cinema gives due importance to traditionally overlooked aspects of Brazilian cinema such as popular genres ranging from musical comedies the chanchada to soft core porn films the porno-chanchada and horror films and also provides a fresh approach to the internationally acclaimed avant garde Cinema Novo of the 1960s Lisa Shaw and Stephanie Dennison apply recent theories on stardom particularly relating to issues of ethnicity race and gender to both well known Brazilian performers such as Carmen Miranda and Sonia Braga and lesser known domestic icons such as the Afro Brazilian comic actor Grande Otelo Big Othello and the uberblonde children s TV and film star and media mogul Xuxa This timely addition to the National Cinemas series provides a comprehensive overview of the relationship between Brazilian cinema and issues of national and cultural identity

French War Films and National Identity Noah McLaughlin, 2010 The relationship of French national identity to its cinema is a well established field Yet so far most studies have either taken a broad historical approach or focused on a particular director or period Using various theoretical approaches this book investigates an area that is as of today either ill or untreated by scholars what is the relationship of film form to the historical and social reflections of a given work whether they be overt or hidden To answer this question Noah McLaughlin conducts a close formal analysis of ten French war films from across the twentieth century His subjects range from Abel Gance s 1919 J Accuse to Jean Pierre Jeunet s 2004 Un long dimanche de fian ailles and his theoretical approaches change to best examine each one This study builds upon the broader histories of French cinema by Alan Williams Republic of Images and Susan Hayward French National Cinema Its approaches to the intersection of cinema and history owe a particular debt to Robert Rosentstone Film on History History on Film There are very few book length studies of French films about war A close look at French cinematic explorations of war gives us a glimpse at the evolution of French identity over the course of the 20th century It equally illuminates the story of how that nation s cinema has spent the past hundred years growing up from its first steps leaning upon the coffee table of older literary conventions to its current adulthood as a means of cultural expression and critical exploration One significant challenge is that the French war film is quite different from its Anglo American counterpart This book works through to a useful definition It is a kind of cinematic creation that treats through form or content real armed conflicts that have significance in French history The genre is often hybrid in nature and frequently uses metaphor Its subjects are most often characterized collectively and in order to understand the past psychology is emphasized over physical violence Its plot structure is frequently non linear and other forms over time have developed to place modernist historiography in doubt Increasingly sophisticated it has attained a point where historic meditations are often seamlessly but visibly integrated into both form and content This is an important book for people interested in film studies and French studies as well as historians and historiographers

French Blockbusters Michael Charlie Michael, 2019-07-17 The digitised spectacles conjured by a word like blockbuster may create a certain cognitive dissonance with received ideas about French cinema long celebrated as a model for philosophical economic and aesthetic resistance to globalised popular culture While the Gallic cultural exception remains a forceful current to this day this book shows how the onslaught of Hollywood mega franchises and new media platforms since the 1980s has also provoked an overtly commercialised response from

French producers eager to redefine the stakes and scope of their own traditions From English language action vehicles like Valrian and the City of a Thousand Planets Besson 2017 to revisionist historical films like Of Gods and Men Beauvois 2011 and crowd pleasing comedies like Intouchables Toldano Nakache 2011 the variously filiated local blockbusters from contemporary France brim with the seeds of cultural contradiction but also with the energy of a forceful counter history Cutting across a swath of recent French produced cinema French Blockbusters offers the first book length consideration of the theoretical implications historical impact and cultural consequences of a recent grouping of popular films that are rapidly changing what it means to make or to see a French film today Malaysian Cinema, Asian Film William Van der Heide,2002

Themes and topics covered include the social, political, and cultural contexts of recent French cinema; contemporary filmmakers and performers; genres, cycles, and cinematic forms; gender and sexuality; and emerging trends and innovative new filmmaking forms. Among the French films examined in depth are hit comedies including Bienvenue chez les Ch'tis and Intouchables; blockbusters such as The Crimson Rivers; police films like 36th Precinct; historical films such as Farewell My Queen and Days of Glory; celebrated animated features such as Kirikou and the Sorcereress; films representative of the new French extreme such as Romance, Baisemoi, and Trouble Every Day; and numerous auteur films ranging from Bruno Dumont's Hors Satan and François Ozon's shorts to Pascale Ferran's Lady Chatterley and Alain Guiraudie's L'Inconnu du lac. Combining cutting-edge scholarship with wide-ranging methodological approaches and perspectives, A Companion to Contemporary French Cinema is an invaluable resource for students and scholars of French film as well as all those interested in the evolution of this celebrated cinematic tradition. Contemporary French Cinema Guy Austin, 1996-11-15 Examines popular French film of the last 25 years. Films discussed include masterpieces such as Renoir's La Bête Humaine and Carne; Les Enfants du Paradis; popular classics such as Les Vacances de Monsieur Hulot and Ma Nuit chez Maud; landmarks of the New Wave such as Les 400 Coups and A bout de souffle; important films of the 1990s such as Nikita and La Haine. The films are considered in relation to such issues as the history of French cinema, the social and cultural contexts of their production and reception, the relationship with Hollywood cinema, gender politics, authorship, and genre. Each article is accompanied with a guide to further reading and a filmography of the director, and the new edition also includes a fully revised introduction and a bibliography on French cinema. Unraveling French Cinema T. Jefferson Kline, 2011-09-22 Unraveling French Cinema provides a much-needed introduction to the complexities of French film for students, cineastes, and the movie-loving public. Looks at the differences between French and American national cinema. Explores how French directors shape their films around two potentially divergent goals: the narration of a story and an elaboration of some theory about film itself. Demystifies the difficulty of French cinema, allowing the American moviegoer to enjoy films that are too often perplexing at a first viewing.

Offers extended analyses of classic New Wave and contemporary French films including L'Atalante, Adele H, The Rules of the Game and Cache The Cinema Book Bloomsbury Publishing, 2019-07-25 The Cinema Book is widely recognised as the ultimate guide to cinema. Lavishly illustrated in colour, this edition features a wealth of exciting new sections and in-depth case studies. Sections address Hollywood and other World cinema histories, key genres in both fiction and non-fiction film, issues such as stars, technology and authorship, and major theoretical approaches to understanding film.

Cinema, Space, and Polylocality in a Globalizing China Yingjin Zhang, 2009-10-09 In this milestone work, prominent China film scholar Yingjin Zhang proposes polylocality as a new conceptual framework for investigating the shifting spaces of contemporary Chinese cinema in the age of globalization. Questioning the national cinema paradigm, Zhang calls for comparative studies of underdeveloped areas beyond the imperative of transnationalism. The book begins by addressing theories and practices related to space, place and polylocality in contemporary China, before focusing on the space of scholarship and urging scholars to move beyond the current paradigm and explore transnational and comparative film studies. This is followed by a chapter that concentrates on the space of production and surveys the changing landscape of post-socialist filmmaking and the transformation of China's urban generation of directors. Next is an examination of the space of polylocality and the cinematic mappings of Beijing and a persistent reel contact with polylocality in hinterland China. In the fifth chapter, Zhang explores the space of subjectivity in independent film and video and contextualizes experiments by young directors with various documentary styles. Chapter 6 calls attention to the space of performance and addresses issues of media and mediation by way of two kinds of playing: the first with documentary as troubling information, the second with piracy as creative intervention. The concluding chapter offers an overview of Chinese cinema in the new century and provides production and reception statistics. Combining inspired critical insights, original observations and new information, Cinema Space and Polylocality in a Globalizing China is a significant work on current Chinese film and a must-read for film scholars and anyone seriously interested in cinema more generally or contemporary Chinese culture.

Cultural Diversity in the French Film Industry Sarah Walkley, 2018-09-22 This is the first book to examine whether France's ongoing defence of the cultural exception as a means to maintain cultural policies and defend cultural diversity is justifiable in the digital age. It questions whether the arrival of new players such as Apple and Netflix makes defence impossible and whether an explosion in the number of films available makes policies for cultural promotion increasingly unnecessary. The book takes a critical look at French film policy to establish whether it promotes cultural diversity across cinema and video on demand and the implications for ongoing defence of the cultural exception. Sarah Walkley ultimately makes the case for a more disciplined approach to discussion of the cultural exception and cultural diversity in France, supporting ideological arguments about competition, freedom of expression, consumer choice and national identity with concrete evidence of the success of French policies in countering US film market dominance French B Movies David A. Pettersen, 2023-03-07 In the impoverished outskirts of French cities known as the banlieues minority communities are turning to American culture history and theory to make their own voices cultures and histories visible Filmmakers have followed suit turning to Hollywood genre conventions to challenge notions of identity belonging and marginalization in mainstream French film French B Movies proposes that French banlieue films far from being a fringe genre offer a privileged site from which to understand the current state of the French film industry in an age of globalization This gritty style appears in popular arthouse films such as Mathieu Kassovitz's La Haine and Bande de filles Girlhood along with the major Netflix hit series Lupin David Pettersen traces how in these works and others directors fuse features of banlieue cinema with genre formulas associated with both Hollywood and Black cultural models as well as how transnational genre hybridizations such as B movies have become part of the ecosystem of the French film industry By combining film analysis cultural history critical theory and industry studies French B Movies reveals how featuring banlieues is as much about trying to imagine new identities and production models for French cinema as it is about representation World Cinemas, Transnational Perspectives Nataša Durovicová, Kathleen E. Newman, 2009-09-10 SCMS Award Winner Best Edited Collection The standard analytical category of national cinema has increasingly been called into question by the category of the transnational This anthology examines the premises and consequences of the coexistence of these two categories and the parameters of historiographical approaches that cross the borders of nation states The three sections of World Cinemas Transnational Perspectives cover the geopolitical imaginary transnational cinematic institutions and the uneven flow of words and images
