Urban Governance in Southern Europe Abel Albet, 2016-02-11 The concept of governance has evolved into one of the most important but also controversial concepts in urban politics While it encourages co operation participation and collective construction at the same time it has brought about new forms of public demission oligarchic regimes and less local democracy The dilemmas accompanying these changes are particularly relevant when observing the cities of Southern Europe whose socio cultural specificities very much structure local political and policy materialisations Bringing together a team of leading scholars from across the social sciences this volume examines the issues of urban governance in the Southern European context Illustrated by case studies of several main cities and metropolises on the North Mediterranean coast it introduces and critically analyses the latest theories and approaches to urban governance It questions how the real or socio cultural notion of city seems to have been separated from that of the political city and explores how more integrated socio political forms might be developed. It looks at current structures, dynamics and cultures of governance in urban development and questions whether they are well adapted to new realities and challenges or whether there are significant imbalances causing limited or fragmented political administrative visions. By considering both the long Mediterranean history along with the recent but enduring global economic and political developments, this book argues that Southern European cities will have to depend greatly upon its own socio cultural networks, dynamics and cosmopolitan evolution, making the most of the region's characteristic urban strengths as trading hubs with rich hinterlands and large and varied population. Handbook of Urban Studies Ronan Paddison, 2001. The Handbook of Urban Studies provides the first comprehensive up to date account of the urban condition relevant to a wide readership from academics to researchers and policymakers. It provides a theoretically and empirically informed account embracing all the different disciplines contributing to urban studies. Leading authors identify key issues and questions and future trends for further research and present their findings so that where appropriate they are relevant to the needs of policymakers. Using the city as a unifying structure, the Handbook provides an holistic appreciation of urban structure and change and of the theories by which we understand the structure, development and changing character of cities.

Urban Planning in Sub-Saharan Africa Carlos Nunes Silva, 2015-06-03. Cities in Sub-Saharan Africa are unequally confronted with social, economic and environmental challenges, particularly those related with population growth, urban sprawl and informality. This complex and uneven African urban condition requires an open discussion of past and current urban planning practices and future reforms. Urban Planning in Sub-Saharan Africa gives a broad perspective of the history of urban planning in Sub-Saharan Africa and a critical view of issues, problems, challenges and opportunities confronting urban policy makers. The book examines the rich variety of planning cultures in Africa, offers a unique view on the introduction and development of urban planning in Sub-Saharan Africa and makes a significant contribution against the tendency to over generalize Africa's urban problems and Africa's urban planning practices. Urban Planning in Sub-Saharan Africa is written for postgraduate students and advanced undergraduates, researchers, planners and other policy makers in the multidisciplinary field of Urban Planning, in particular for those working in Spatial Planning, Architecture, Geography and History. Dialogues in Urban and Regional Planning Thomas L. Harper, Michael Hibbard, Heloisa Costa, Anthony Gar-On Yeh, 2010-12. This fourth volume of some of the best award winning writing from around the world's planning schools promotes further discussion and thought. The international authors address a broad spectrum of planning issues including safety in urban spaces, rebuilding post Katrina and planning and governance in urban Zimbabwe. Major French Cities facing Metropolization Alain Bourdin, 2024-05-27. This book characterizes a type of city, i.e. the metropolis, by using characteristics which have very little to do with its size. It distinguishes between metropolises and megacities and defines these different characteristics by bringing together elements related to facilities, accessibility and economic power on one hand and other elements which relate more to the capacity for innovation and more generally to the knowledge society and economy All of which demonstrate the process of metropolization as well as elements of daily life and more generally elements which relate to the urban experience To live in a metropolis is not only to benefit from more urban amenities but also to live in a different way in particular in a world which is much more diverse in every respect Based on a series of metropolization criteria constructed and discussed this book goes beyond ordinary statistical approaches to integrate the interterritorial scale of metropolitan systems as well as their qualitative dimension Following in Simmel s footsteps it shows that a city is also an atmosphere a mentality a spirit all of which are poorly captured by statistical data As such the book focuses on five major themes networks economic development social issues urban form and the ecological and digital transition The books makes an interesting read for urban planners sociologists planners and architects and all specialists working in this field
