Women's Writing, Englishness and National and Cultural Identity M. Joannou, 2012-07-17 An original mapping of women's writing in the 1940s and 1950s this book looks at Englishness and national identity in women's writing and includes writing from Scotland Wales Ireland the Indian subcontinent and Africa The authors discussed include Virginia Woolf Daphne Du Maurier Doris Lessing and Muriel Spark

Historical Romance Fiction Lisa Fletcher, 2016-04-22 The first book length study of romance novels to focus on issues of sexuality rather than gender Historical Romance Fiction moves the ongoing debate about the value and appeal of heterosexual romance onto new ground testing the claims of cutting edge critical theorists on everything from popular classics by Georgette Heyer to recent bodice rippers to historical fiction by John Fowles and A S Byatt Beginning with her nomination of I love you as the romance novel's defining speech act Lisa Fletcher engages closely with speech act theory and recent studies of performativity The range of texts serves to illustrate Fletcher's definition of historical romance as a fictional mode dependent on the force and familiarity of the speech act I love you and permits Fletcher to provide a detailed account of the genre's history and development in both its popular and literary manifestations Written from a feminist and anti-homophobic perspective Fletcher's subtle arguments about the romantic speech act serve to demonstrate the genre's dependence on repetition Romance can only quote and the shaky ground on which the romance's heterosexual premise rests Her exploration of the subgenre of cross-dressing novels is especially revealing in this regard With its deft mix of theoretical arguments and suggestive close readings Fletcher's book will appeal to specialists in genre speech act and performativity theory and gender studies

Mad and Bad Bea Koch, 2020-09-01 Discover a feminist pop history that looks beyond the Ton and Jane Austen to highlight the Regency women who succeeded on their own terms and were largely lost to history until now Regency England is a world immortalized by Jane Austen and Lord Byron in their beloved novels and poems The popular image of the Regency continues to be mythologized by the hundreds of romance novels set in the period which focus almost exclusively on wealthy white Christian members of the upper classes But there are hundreds of fascinating women who don't fit history books' limited perception of what was historically accurate for early 19th century England Women like Dido Elizabeth Belle whose mother was a slave but was raised by her white father's family in England Caroline Herschel who acted as her brother's assistant as he hunted the heavens for comets and ended up discovering eight on her own Anne Lister who lived on her own terms with her common-law wife at Shibden Hall and Judith Montefiore a Jewish woman who wrote the first English-language Kosher cookbook As one of the owners of the successful romance-only bookstore The Ripped Bodice Bea Koch has had a front-row seat to controversies surrounding what is accepted as historically accurate for the wildly popular Regency period Following in the popular footsteps of books like Ann Shen's Bad Girls Throughout History Koch takes the Regency one of the most loved and idealized historical time periods and a huge inspiration for American pop culture and reveals the independent-minded standard-breaking real historical women who lived life on their terms She also examines broader questions of culture in chapters that focus on the LGBTQ and Jewish communities the lives of women of color in the Regency and women who broke barriers in fields like astronomy and paleontology In Mad and Bad we look beyond popular perception of the Regency into the even more vibrant diverse and fascinating historical truth
