Education For Freedom:

Freedom of Choice in Education Virgil C. Blum, 1958 A roman Catholic priest explains his view that all students should be able to attend private schools of their own choosing and that this should be effected by means of government subsidy to the students or their parents      On education and freedom Harold Taylor, 1954      Education for Freedom Robert Maynard Hutchins, 1943      Education for Freedom and Responsibility Edmund Ezra Day, 1952      On Education and Freedom Harold Taylor, 1967-04      Education for Freedom and World Understanding Conference on the ideals of american freedom and the international dimensions of education (1962. Washington), 1962      The Dialectic of Freedom Maxine Greene, 1988 Special 2018 Edition From the new Introduction by Michelle Fine Graduate Center CUNY Why now you may ask should I return to a book written in 1988 Because in Maxine s words When freedom is the question it is always time to begin In The Dialectic of Freedom Maxine Greene argues that freedom must be achieved through continuing resistance to the forces that limit condition determine and too frequently oppress Examining the interrelationship between freedom possibility and imagination in American education Greene taps the fields of philosophy history educational theory and literature in order to discuss the many struggles that have characterized Americans quests for freedom in the midst of what is conceived to be a free society Accounts of the lives of women immigrants and minority groups highlight the ways in which Americans have gone in search of openings in their lived situations learned to look at things as if they could be otherwise and taken action on what they found Greene presents a unique overview of American concepts and images of freedom from Jefferson s time to the present She examines the ways in which the disenfranchised have historically understood and acted on their freedom or lack of it in dealing with perceived and real obstacles to expression and empowerment Strong emphasis is placed on the focal role of the arts and art experience in releasing human imagination and enabling the young to reach toward their vision of the possible The author concludes with suggestions for approaches to teaching and learning that can provoke both educators and students to take initiatives to transcend limits and to pursue freedom not in solitude but in reciprocity with others not in privacy but in a public space      Freedom to Learn Carl Ransom Rogers, 1969 Focuses on the real problems of contemporary man family stability crime personal growth peace the good life Poses vital foundation questions Approaches science as a human concern not one of rigid rules and approved procedures Cites defects in present methods of educating scientists Deals with the question of human values in science      Teach Freedom Charles M. Payne, Carol Sills Strickland, 2008-04-12 The self conscious use of education as an instrument of liberation among African Americans is exactly as old as education among African Americans This dynamic anthology is about those forms of education intended to help people think more critically about the social forces shaping their lives and think more confidently about their ability to react against those forces Featuring articles by educator activists this collection explores the largely forgotten history of attempts by African Americans to use education as a tool of collective liberation Together these contributions explore the variety of forms those attempts
