the clients served not by the type of legal service rendered In fact the distinction between corporate and individual clients divides the bar into two remarkably separate hemispheres Using data from extensive personal interviews with nearly 800 Chicago lawyers the authors show that lawyers who serve one type of client seldom serve the other Furthermore lawyers political ethno religious and social ties are very likely to correspond to those of their client types Greater deference is consistently shown to corporate lawyers who seem to acquire power by association with their powerful clients Heinz and Laumann also discover that these two hemispheres of the legal profession are not effectively integrated by intraprofessional organizations such as the bar courts or law schools The fact that the bar is structured primarily along extraprofessional lines raises intriguing questions about the law and the nature of professionalism questions addressed in a provocative and far ranging final chapter This volume published jointly with the American Bar Foundation offers a uniquely sophisticated and comprehensive analysis of lawyers professional lives It will be of exceptional importance to sociologists and others interested in the legal profession in the general study of professions and in social stratification and the distribution of power
