Surviving the French Revolution Bette W. Oliver, 2013-06-10 The unleashing of the French Revolution in 1789 resulted in the acceleration of time coupled with an inability to predict what might happen next As unprecedented events outpaced the days those caught up in the whirlwind had little time to make judicious decisions about which course of action to follow The lack of reliable information and delays in communication between Paris and the provinces only exacerbated the situation Consequently some fled into exile in Europe and the United States while others remained to take advantage of new opportunities provided by the revolutionary government Between 1789 and 1794 the government moved from a position of hopeful cooperation to one of desperate measures instigated during the Terror of 1793 1794 As a result those French citizens who had fled early in the revolution including many aristocrats and the king's brothers as well as the artist Elisabeth Vigée LeBrun could not return until many years later while those who had remained such as Vigée LeBrun's husband the art dealer Jean Baptiste Pierre LeBrun as well as the artist Jacques Louis David the writers Sébastien Chamfort and André Chénier and expelled Girondin deputies chose survival strategies that they hoped would be successful For all those concerned timing was key to survival and those who lived found that they had crossed a bridge between the Ancien Régime and the beginning of the modern world It would not be possible to grasp the full import of the period between 1789 and 1795 until time had decelerated to a more reasonable level after the fall of Robespierre in 1794 Yet few could have then imagined that almost one hundred years would pass before a stable French republic would be established

Henri Bertin and the Representation of China in Eighteenth-Century France John Finlay, 2020-07-09 This is an in-depth study of the intellectual, technical and artistic encounters between Europe and China in the late eighteenth century, focusing on the purposeful acquisition of information and images that characterized a direct engagement with the idea of China. The central figure in this story is Henri-Lonard Bertin (1720-1792) who served as a minister of state under Louis XV and briefly Louis XVI. Both his official position and personal passion for all things Chinese placed him at the center of intersecting networks of like-minded individuals who shared his ideal vision of China as a nation from which France had much to learn. John Finlay examines a fascinating episode in the rich history of cross-cultural exchange between China and Europe in the early modern period, and this book will be an important and timely contribution to a very current discussion about Sino-French cultural relations. This book will be of interest to scholars in art history, visual culture, European and Chinese history.

French Paintings in The Metropolitan Museum of Art from the Early Eighteenth Century through the Revolution Katharine Baetjer, 2019-04-15 This publication catalogues The Met's remarkable collection of eighteenth-century French paintings in the context of the powerful institutions that governed the visual arts of the time: the Académie Royale de Peinture et de Sculpture, the Académie de France à Rome and the Paris Salon. At the height of their authority during the eighteenth century, these institutions nurtured the talents of artists in all genres. The Met's collection encompasses stunning examples of work by leading artists of the period, including Antoine Watteau, Mezzetin, Jean-Siméon Chardin, The Silver Tureen, François Boucher, The Toilette of Venus, Joseph-Siffred Duplessis, Benjamin Franklin, Jean-Baptiste Greuze, Broken Eggs, Hubert Robert, the Bagatelle decorations, Jacques-Louis David, The Death of Socrates, the Van Blarenberghes, The Outer Port of Brest, and François Gérard, Charles-Maurice de Talleyrand-Périgord. In the book's introduction, author Katharine Baetjer provides a history of the Académie, its establishment, principles and regulations, along with a discussion of the beginnings of public art discourse in France, taking us through the reforms unleashed by the Revolution. The consequent democratizing of the Salon, brought about by radicals under the leadership of Jacques-Louis David, encouraged the formation of new publics with new tastes in subject matter and genres. The catalogue features 126 paintings by 50 artists. Each section includes a short biography of the artist and in-depth discussions of individual paintings, incorporating the most up-to-date scholarship.
