EMBRYO EXPERIMENTATION. ETHICAL, LEGAL, AND SOCIAL ISSUES, Edited by Peter Singer, Stephen Buckle, Pascal Kasimba, Helga Kuhse, and Karen Dawson. Cambridge: Cambridge University Press, 1990. Paperback edition 1993. 263pp with index. ISBN 0 521 38359 5 £37.50/$49.95 hb. ISBN 0 521 43588 9 £11.95/$17.95 pb.

This volume is a collection of essays on ethical, legal, and social aspects of human embryo research. It largely reflects the debate and developments in the state of Victoria, Australia, and in Great Britain in the late 1980's. Published in 1990, the enduring quality of the book's ethical analysis will be very useful to readers where embryo research is debated under public or private auspices. Although the perspective of virtually all contributors favours embryo research with legal and regulatory restrictions to curb abuses, those who oppose embryo research or have not reflected on its impact on received moral beliefs can learn much from the contents of this volume. Any defense of a ban or moratorium on embryo research that did not take account of the array of powerful responses in this volume to arguments against embryo research would be deficient.

Willingness to examine received moral beliefs and to learn from factual, logical, and moral errors is a special mark of civilized debate. The embryo research debate will undoubtedly continue well into the next century, and it will require that those on all sides enter the debate with such willingness. In the United States, an ad hoc Panel on Human Embryo Research is only now advising the Director of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) and the Secretary of Health and Human Services (HHS) on this issue. The Panel is working in the context of a moratorium that began in 1975. This book under review has already been valuable to the Panel and to some preparing testimony or papers for the Panel's consideration, including myself.

The volume evolved from a project that began in 1985, when the National Health and Medical Research Council supported a grant to a research team at the Monash University Centre for Human Bioethics to study bioethical issues in the use of human fetal tissue, in vitro human gametes and embryos. Ethical Issues in Human Stem Cell Research , 1999 The Human Embryo Research Debates Ronald M.

Green, 2001-06-28 Research on the early human embryo has long been recognized as essential to progress in a host of biomedical areas from reproductive medicine to the treatment of pediatric cancers Now with the possibility of stem cell research and cell replacement therapies embryo research holds out the promise of cures for many serious disease conditions such as diabetes and Alzheimer s disease Despite its importance however human embryo research has met powerful opposition Drawing on his experience as a member of the NIH s Human Embryo Research Panel Green offers a first hand account of the embryo research debates In telling this story he periodically pauses to reflect on some of the leading philosophical challenges posed by embryo research and new interventions at the start of life Among the questions he examines are What is the impact of new biological information on our thinking about life's beginning May parents risk injuring a child in order to have it What role should religion play in shaping biomedical policy in a controversial area like this This is a fascinating insider's account of one of the most important if unsuccessful recent efforts to come to terms with a controversial area of scientific research Embryo Experimentation, 1993 Genetic Turning Points James C. Peterson, 2001-04-09 This timely volume clearly lays out the central ethical questions raised by today's rapid advances in biotechnology James Peterson sorts through the maze of clinical decisions occasioned by human genetic intervention organizing the range of moral considerations that now face us and exploring their practical impact on individuals families and communities The ethical questions are covered in the order of how soon the particular technologies that raise them are becoming available This unique format allows readers to go directly to issues of particular interest Peterson assumes no prior knowledge of genetics or ethics making his work one of the most accessible discussions of bioethics available today The Bibliography of Australasian Judaica 1788-2008 Serge Liberman, 2018-11-01 This bibliography includes all traceable self-contained books monographs pamphlets and chapters from books which in some way pertain to Jews in Australia and New Zealand between 1788 and 2008 Born in Russia in 1942 Serge Liberman came to Australia in 1951 where he now works as a medical practitioner As author of several short story collections including On Firmer Shores A Universe of Clowns The Life That I Have Led and The Battered and the Redeemed he has three times received the Alan Marshall Award and has also been a recipient of the NSW Premier's Literary Award In addition he is compiler of two previous editions of A Bibliography of Australian Judaica Several of his titles have been set as study texts in Australian and British high schools and universities His literary work has been widely published he has been Editor and Literary Editor of several respected journals and has contributed to many other publications Intervening in the Brain Reinhard Merkel, G. Boer, J. Fegert, T. Galert, D. Hartmann, B. Nuttin, S. Rosahl, 2007-07-28 The wealth of insights into the brain's functioning gained by neuroscience in recent years led to the development of new possibilities for intervening in the brain such as neurotransplantation neural prostheses and brain stimulation techniques Moreover new and safer classes of psychopharmaceutical drugs lend themselves to neuroenhancement applications i.e. they could be used to enhance cognitive capacities or emotional well-being without therapeutic need This book offers extensive state-of-the-art accounts for these novel kinds of intervention indicates future developments and discusses the relevant philosophical ethical and legal issues Conceptual Systems Harold I. Brown, 2007-01-24 Exploring how new concepts are entered into our systems along with sufficient continuity with older ideas to ensure understanding this text highlights the different aspects that present an insightful view into the various theories of concepts The Nature of Human Persons Jason T. Eberl, 2020-06-25 For a human being to exist does it require an immaterial mind a physical body a functioning brain a soul Is there a shared nature common to all human beings What essential qualities might define this nature These questions are among the most widely discussed topics in the history of philosophy and remain subjects of perennial interest and controversy The Nature of Human Persons offers a metaphysical investigation of the composition of the human essence Jason Eberl also considers the criterion of identity for a developing human being that is what is required for a human being to continue existing as a person despite undergoing physical and psychological changes over time Eberl places Thomas Aquinas's account of human nature into direct comparison with several prominent contemporary theories substance dualism emergentism animalism constitutionalism four dimensionalism and embodied mind theory These theories inform conclusions regarding when human beings first come into existence at conception during gestation or after birth how we ought to define death for human beings and whether and if so how human beings may survive death Ultimately The Nature of Human Persons argues that the Thomistic account of human nature addresses the matters of human nature and survival more holistically than other theories and offers a cohesive portrait of one's continued existence from conception through life to death and beyond

Persons, Moral Worth, and Embryos Stephen Napier, 2011-06-21 Bioethicists have achieved consensus on two ideas pertaining to beginning of life issues 1 persons are those beings capable of higher order cognition or self consciousness and 2 it is impermissible to kill only persons As a consequence a consensus is reached regarding the permissibility of both destroying human embryos for research purposes and abortion The present collection aims to interact critically with this consensus Authors address various aspects of this orthodoxy Issues discussed include theories of personhood and in particular the role of thought experiments used in support of such theories the notion of an intrinsic potential and the moral relevance of having one new formulations of the virtue argument against abortion rights four dimensionalism and abortion the notion of moral status and who or what has it scientific accounts of what a human being is as well as addressing empirical evidence of fetal consciousness and analysis of the public policy implications given the epistemic status of pro choice arguments Given the issues discussed and that the arguments in critical focus are fairly new the collection provides a novel comprehensive and rigorous analysis of contemporary pro choice arguments

Bioethics is primarily an applied ethics of health related issues It is considered an important guide for health care and its discourses and practices Health related technology such as information technology is changing rapidly Bioethics should arguably address such change as well as continue to address more established areas of health care and emerging areas of social concern such as climate change and its relation to health This book illustrates the range of bioethics in the 21st century The book is intentionally not comprehensive but rather illustrative of established emerging and speculative bioethics such as ethics of mental health care ethics of nano technology in health care and ethics of cryogenics respectively Hopefully the book will motivate readers to reflect on health care as a work in progress that requires continuous ethical deliberation and guidance Personal Ontology Andrew Brenner, 2024-03-14 What are we Are we for example souls organisms brains or something else This book discusses the main competing accounts of personal ontology that we are either souls or we are composite physical objects of some sort and includes a detailed discussion of the metaphysics of several afterlife scenarios
