Freedom To Play We Made Our Own Fun:

Freedom to Play Norah L. Lewis, 2010-09-29 When we were children we made our own fun is a frequent comment from those who were children in pre television times But what games activities and amusements did children enjoy prior to the mid 1950s Recollections of older Canadians selections from writings by Canadian authors and letters written to the children s pages of agricultural publications indicate that for most children play was then as now an essential part of childhood Through play youngsters developed the physical mental and emotional skills that helped them cope with life and taught them to get along with other children In both rural and urban settings children were generally free to explore their environment They were sent outdoors to play by both parents and teachers Their games were generally self organized and physically active with domestic animals acting as important companions and playmates Children frequently made their own toys and equipment and since playing rather than winning was important most children were included in games Special days holidays and organizations for children and youth provided welcome breaks from daily routines Their lives were busy but there was always time for play always time for fun Norah Lewis has provided an entertaining view of the toys games and activities in Canada and pre confederate Newfoundland from approximately 1900 through 1955 Her book will be of interest to historians educators and sociologists as well as anyone who lived through or wants to know more about those early years in Canada and the games children used to play With Children and Youth Kiaras Gharabaghi, Hans A. Skott-Myhre, Mark Krueger, 2014-09-15 With Children and Youth provides a snapshot of emerging theories and perspectives in the field of child and youth care across North America Well known scholars and researchers present new and innovative critical perspectives written in a provocative manner and reflecting outside the box thinking The book examines from scholarly and practical viewpoints the purpose of child and youth care practice relational practice post modern approaches to thinking about theory and practice and new and innovative thinking about the professionalization and accreditation of the discipline itself Some chapters merge thinking about child and youth care with esoteric and literary prose others use humour and satire as a way to represent both foundational and entirely new directions in the field With Children and Youth provides no set conclusions or findings about the field instead it guides the reader to spaces of controversy contention and opportunities for innovation and change Child and youth care practice and theory it is argued is based fundamentally on engagement across generations cultures and social positions and this book exemplifies precisely that Cold War Comforts Tarah Brookfield, 2012-05-01 Cold War Comforts examines Canadian women s efforts to protect children s health and safety between the dropping of the first atomic bomb in Hiroshima in 1945 and the end of the Vietnam War in 1975 Amid this global insecurity many women participated in civil defence or joined the disarmament movement as means to protect their families from the consequences of nuclear war To help children affected by conflicts in Europe and Asia women also organized foreign relief and international adoptions In Canada women pursued different paths to peace and security From all walks of life and from all parts of the country they dedicated themselves to finding ways to survive the hottest periods of the Cold War What united these women was their shared concern for children s survival amid Cold War fears and dangers Acting on their identities as Canadian citizens and mothers they characterized with their activism the genuine interest many women had in protecting children s health and safety In addition their activities offered them a legitimate space to operate in the traditionally male realms of defence and diplomacy Their efforts had a direct impact on the lives of children in Canada and abroad and influenced changes in Canada s education curriculum immigration laws welfare practices defence policy and international relations Cold War Comforts offers insight into how women employed maternalism nationalism and internationalism in their work and examines shifting constructions of family and gender in Cold War Canada It will appeal to scholars of history child and family studies and social policy

The Dominion of Youth Cynthia Comacchio,2008-10-08 Adolescence like childhood is more than a biologically defined life stage it is also a sociohistorical construction The meaning and experience of adolescence are reformulated according to societal needs evolving scientific precepts and national aspirations relative to historic conditions Although adolescence was by no means a discovery of the early twentieth century it did assume an identifiably modern form during the years between the Great War and 1950 The Dominion of Youth Adolescence and the Making of Modern Canada 1920 to 1950 captures what it meant for young Canadians to inhabit this liminal stage of life within the context of a young nation caught up in the self formation and historic transformation that would make modern Canada Because the young at this time were seen paradoxically as both the hope of the nation and the source of its possible degeneration new policies and institutions were developed to deal with the problem of youth This history considers how young Canadians made the transition to adulthood during a period that was developmental both for youth and for a nation also working toward individuation During the years considered here those who occupied this dominion of youth would see their experiences more clearly demarcated by generation and culture than ever before With this book Cynthia Comacchio offers the first detailed study of adolescence in early twentieth century Canada and demonstrates how young Canadians of the period became the nation s first modern teenagers

Ontario Boys Christopher J. Greig, 2014-03-24 Ontario Boys explores the preoccupation with boyhood in Ontario during the immediate postwar period 1945-1960 It argues that a traditional version of boyhood was being rejuvenated in response to a population fraught with uncertainty and suffering from insecurity instability and gender anxiety brought on by depression era and wartime disruptions in marital familial and labour relations as well as mass migration rapid postwar economic changes the emergence of the Cold War and the looming threat of atomic annihilation In this sociopolitical and cultural context concerned adults began to cast the fate of the postwar world onto children in particular boys In the decade and a half immediately following World War II the version of boyhood that became the ideal was one that stressed selflessness togetherness honesty fearlessness frank determination and emotional toughness It was thought that investing boys with this version of masculinity was essential if they were to grow into the kind of citizens capable of governing protecting and defending the nation and of course maintaining and regulating the social order Drawing on a wide variety of sources Ontario Boys demonstrates that although girls were expected and encouraged to internalize a special kind of citizenship as caregivers and educators of children and nurturers of men the gendered content and language employed indicated that active public citizenship and democracy was intended for boys An appropriate boyhood in the postwar period became if nothing else a metaphor for the survival of the nation
