

A close-up photograph of a flower, possibly a tulip, with soft, warm lighting. The petals are a mix of light pink and orange. A black rectangular box with white text is centered over the middle of the image. The text is a quote by Hugo Black about freedom of publication. The background shows the intricate details of the flower's petals and the soft glow of the light.

Freedom to publish means freedom for all and not for some. Freedom to publish is guaranteed by the constitution but freedom to continue to prevent others from publishing is not.

Freedom of the Press in China Yi Guo, 2025-10-01 Western commentators have often criticized the state of press freedom in China arguing that individual speech still suffers from arbitrary restrictions and that its mass media remains under an authoritarian mode Yet the history of press freedom in the Chinese context has received little examination Unlike conventional historical accounts which narrate the institutional development of censorship and people's resistance to arbitrary repression Freedom of the Press in China A Conceptual History 1831-1949 is the first comprehensive study presenting the intellectual trajectory of press freedom It sheds light on the transcultural transference and localization of the concept in modern Chinese history spanning from its initial introduction in 1831 to the establishment of the People's Republic of China in 1949 By examining intellectuals' thoughts common people's attitudes and official opinions along with the social cultural factors that were involved in negotiating Chinese interpretations and practices in history this book uncovers the dynamic and changing meanings of press freedom in modern China

The Collapse of Freedom of Expression Jordi Pujol, 2023-02-15 This book offers a holistic account of the problems posed by freedom of expression in our current times and offers corrective measures to allow for a more genuine exchange of ideas within the global society The topic of free speech is rarely addressed from a historical philosophical or theological perspective In The Collapse of Freedom of Expression Jordi Pujol explores both the modern concept of the freedom of expression based on the European Enlightenment and the deficiencies inherent in this framework Modernity has disregarded the traditional roots of the freedom of expression drawn from Christianity Greek philosophy and Roman law which has left the door open to the various forms of abuse censorship and restrictions seen in contemporary public discourse Pujol proposes that we rebuild the foundations of the freedom of expression by returning to older traditions and incorporating both the field of pragmatics of language and theological and ethical concepts on human intentionality as new complementary disciplines Pujol examines emblematic cases such as Charlie Hebdo free speech on campus and online content moderation to elaborate on the tensions that arise within the modern concept of freedom of expression The book explores the main criticisms of the contemporary liberal tradition by communitarians libertarians feminists and critical race theorists and analyzes the gaps and contradictions within these traditions Pujol ultimately offers a reconstruction project that
