French for Communication, 1979-1990 Roy Dunning, 1994. This book sets out the background to the communicative language teaching project pioneered in Leicestershire bringing together LEAs, examination boards, advisers, teachers and researchers. The author contrasts the integrated language approach of the project with the discrete skills basis of the National Criteria and the GCSE.

are anglicized French phrases that came into use on the Western Front during the First World War as British troops struggled to communicate in French Over four years of war they created an extraordinary slang which reflects the period and brings the conflict to mind whenever it is heard today Julian Walker in this original and meticulously researched book explores the subject in fascinating detail In the process he gives us an insight into the British soldiers experience in France during the war and the special language they invented in order to cope with their situation He shows how French place names were anglicized as were words for food and drink and he looks at what these slang terms tell us about the soldiers perception of France their relationship with the French and their ideas of home He traces the spread of Tommy French back to the Home Front where it was popularized in songs and on postcards and looks at the French reaction to the anglicization of their language The volume of the affections; or, Bridal offering Thomas Harttree Cornish,1836
