The Transformation of Southeast Asian Economies Teofilo C. Daquila,2007 This book analyses the growth development and crisis experiences of the Southeast Asian economies in particular Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand also known as ASEAN 5 The proposition is developed that the robust economic performance of the Southeast Asian economies during the past four decades has been attributed to the various factors developments and independent national policies which have been pursued by the individual member countries rather than to any regional economic framework The book covers eleven topics which is suitable for a one semester course on the economics of Southeast Asia Also it has a narrower area coverage as it focuses only on the five economies namely Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Singapore and Thailand The sectoral treatment of the crisis impact and the analytical treatment of policy responses to the crisis differentiate this book from other publications on the same topic Finally the book provides an analysis of national developments policies and factors which have contributed to the economic transformation of the respective Southeast Asian economies Institutional Change in Southeast Asia Fredrik Sjöholm, José Tongzon, 2004-11-05

Includes a comprehensive analysis of different countries in the region Contributors include experts from the region and Europe The Asian economic crisis and its aftermath is a huge area of study so this book will appeal to a broad market

Institutions and Economic Change in Southeast Asia Colin Barlow, 1999-12-21 This work scrutinizes the role of institutional change with special reference to Southeast Asia It suggests that the nature of institutional arrangements such as households community groups firms and formal governance systems can significantly affect human activity and economic success Southeast Asia's Misunderstood Miracle Jomo K.S., 2019-06-04

The debate on the major factors contributing to Southeast Asian industrialization continues unabated As might be expected there is much at stake in this debate The debate is largely ideological in nature and partly centers on the role and contribution of state interventions and other institutions in market processes in the context of late industrialization At the risk of caricaturing the debate on the one hand one finds the dominant and more influential position held by those who blame the state for all that has gone wrong and credit the market for all that has turned out right on the other hand the minority statist extreme position basically credits most major economic achievements in East Asia to appropriate interventions by developmentalist states While very few people would actually fully identify with either of these caricatured extremes much of the discussion actually gravitates around either of these poles

Asia beyond Crises and Traps Boo Teik Khoo, Keiichi Tsunekawa, Motoko Kawano, 2017-09-18 This book examines five countries in South East Asia that are instructive case studies of how the region has had to negotiate pathways of development beyond crises and traps At two ends of just one decade 1997 2007 Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Thailand and Vietnam all had to weather the shocks of an East Asian financial crisis and a global financial crisis Some economies might have buckled completely under those shocks and been condemned to long term stagnation Yet these five economies part of the larger Asian region emerged with continued if slower economic growth An important theme of this book is that their resilience has been partly derived from the pursuit of growth and competitiveness along less known or recommended pathways The chapters of this book take a novel approach to South East Asia s search for growth and improvement They do not begin by evaluating how far macro level performances would take a particular country towards high income status Instead they provide original insights into actual cases of intermediate ways of achieving growth upgrading and income improvement in non privileged sectors Such cases may hold more relevant lessons for the majority of developing countries than the experiences of highly developed economies

Poverty and Global Recession in Southeast Asia Aris Ananta, Richard R. Barichello, 2012 This book started with an objective to understand the impact of high inflation on poverty and food security in Southeast Asia However the global economy moved quickly into recession in 2008 Anticipating that the impact of global recession would be more severe than that of high inflation in Southeast Asia we re focused the title of the book to Poverty Food and Global Recession in Southeast Asia By early 2010 people were already optimistic that the global recession was over or would be over soon However the evidence was mounting that the poor had suffered and were still suffering from the current global crisis even if the richer individuals may have recovered Therefore an important question arises Is the crisis really over for the poor This then became the sub title of this book This book aims to contribute a better understanding on poverty and food security in Southeast Asia during the recent global recession considering both recent developments and the previous major crisis of 1997 98

Southeast Asian-centred Economies Or Economics? Mason C. Hoadley, 1999 This book is not a definitive research statement nor yet another account of Asia s financial crisis Rather it offers Southeast Asian perspectives quite at variance to orthodox Western economic thinking Topics range from macro perspectives of Indonesia s Ekonomi Pancasila and Thailand s Buddhist Economics through Malaysia s Islamic financial institutions to regional and international perspectives of the remaining ASEAN countries and the IMF World Bank all tied up by setting them within a diachronic historical framework In so doing this volume looks to open up challenging and provocative fields of research essential for a real understanding of Southeast Asia and its current economic situation
