Reports ,1971      Books in Print ,1977      California Journal of Educational Research ,1971      Man Bac Marc F.
Oxenham,Hirofumi Matsumura,Nguyen Kim Dung,2011-05-01 The site of Man Bac in the Red River Delta of Vietnam one of the most meticulously excavated and carefully analysed of Southeast Asian archaeological sites in the past few years is emerging as a key site in the region This book carefully analyses the human and animal remains and puts them into context
The authors describe in detail the health status the unusual demographic profile and the interestingly divergent affinities of the cemetery population and discuss their meaning particularly in association with evidence for the use of marine and terrestrial animal resources they argue convincingly that the site documents a time when the face of the region s population was undergoing a fundamental shift associated with a changing economic subsistence base Physical anthropologists and archaeologists have argued for years over the timeline the manner and the very nature of Southeast Asian population history and this book is essential reading in this debate Two supporting appendices describe the individual remains in detail The Human Lineage Matt Cartmill, Fred H. Smith, 2011-09-20 This textbook aimed at advanced undergraduates and postgraduates in paleoanthropology courses tackles a rather difficult task that of presenting the substantial body of paleontological genetic geological and archaeological evidence regarding human evolution and the associated scientific history in a logical and readable way without sacrificing either clarity or detail the sheer quality of the writing and explanatory synthesis in this book will undoubtedly make it a valuable resource for students for many years

PaleoAnthropology 2010 This book focuses on the last ten million years of human history from the hominoid radiations to the emergence and diversification of modern humanity It draws upon the fossil record to shed light on the key scientific issues principles methods and history in paleoanthropology The book proceeds through the fossil record of human evolution by historical stages representing the acquisition of major human features that explain the success and distinctive properties of modern Homo sapiens Key features Provides thorough coverage of the fossil record and sites with data on key variables such as cranial capacity and body size estimates Offers a balanced critical assessment of the interpretative models explaining pattern in the fossil record Each chapter incorporates a Blind Alley box focusing on once prevalent ideas now rejected such as the arboreal theory seed eating single species hypothesis and Piltdown man Promotes critical thinking by students while allowing instructors flexibility in structuring their teaching Densely illustrated with informative well labelled anatomical drawings and photographs Includes an annotated bibliography for advanced inquiry Written by established leaders in the field providing depth of expertise on evolutionary theory and anatomy through to functional morphology this textbook is essential reading for all advanced undergraduate students and beginning graduate students in biological anthropology

The Evolution of Human Populations in Arabia Michael D. Petraglia,Jeffrey I. Rose,2009-11-27 The romantic landscapes and exotic cultures of Arabia have long captured the interests of both academics and the general public alike The wide array and incredible variety of environments found across the Arabian peninsula are truly dramatic tropical coastal plains are found bordering up against barren sandy deserts high mountain plateaus are deeply incised by ancient river courses As the birthplace of Islam the recent history of the region is well documented and thoroughly studied However legendary explorers such as T E Lawrence Wilfred Thesiger and St John Philby discovered hints of a much deeper past during their travels across the subcontinent Drawn to Arabia by the magnificent solitude of its vast sand seas these intrepid adventurers learned from the Bedouin how to penetrate its deserts and returned with stirring accounts of lost civilizations among the wind swept dunes We now know that prior to recorded history Arabia housed countless peoples living a variety of lifestyles including some of the world's earliest pastoralists, communities of incipient farmers, fishermen, dubbed the Ichthyophagi by ancient Greek geographers, and Paleolithic big game hunters who were among the first humans to depart their ancestral homeland in Africa. In fact, some archaeological investigations indicate that Arabia was inhabited by early hominins extending far back into the Early Pleistocene, perhaps even into the Late Pliocene.

This volume brings together prominent archaeologists working in areas outside Western Europe to discuss the most recent evidence for the origins of the early Upper Paleolithic and its relationship to the origin of modern humans. With a wealth of primary data from archaeological sites and regions that have never before been published, and discussions of materials from difficult-to-find sources, the collection urges readers to reconsider the process of modern human behavioral origins. Archaeological evidence continues to play a critical role in debates over the origins of anatomically modern humans. The appearance of novel Upper Paleolithic technologies, new patterns of land use, expanded social networks, and the emergence of complex forms of symbolic communication point to a behavioral revolution beginning sometime around 45,000 years ago. Until recently, most of the available evidence for this revolution derived from Western European archaeological contexts that suggested an abrupt replacement of Mousterian Middle Paleolithic with Aurignacian Upper Paleolithic adaptations. In the absence of fossil association, the behavioral transition was thought to reflect the biological replacement of archaic hominid populations by intrusive modern humans. The contributors present new archaeological evidence that tells a very different story. The Middle Upper Paleolithic transitions in areas as diverse as the Levant, Eastern Central Europe, and Central and Eastern Asia are characterized both by substantial behavioral continuity over the period 45,000–25,000 years ago and by a mosaic-like pattern of shifting adaptations. Together, these essays will enliven and enrich the discussion of the shift from archaic to modern behavioral adaptations.
