Strengthening Auditing and Accounting Performance in Sub-Saharan Africa: the Education and Training Factors

In many countries in Sub-Saharan Africa (SSA), accounting and auditing performance has been unsatisfactory over the past many years. This is due primarily to a critical shortage of accountants at all levels, the lack of recognized and accepted accounting and auditing standards, and the inadequacy of accounting development. Given that resources are limited in Africa, it is vital that those are put to the best use, and are not lost through poor decision-making and inefficient financial management. Increasingly, accounting is providing the basis for performance evaluation of business entities, and the development of the accounting and auditing profession is important in achieving this. Training professional accountants is a slow process, and there are more vacancies than qualified personnel.

Numerous studies of accounting in SSA have concluded that sustained economic growth cannot be maintained without a sound accounting infrastructure and an appropriately trained accounting profession. The way in which accountants are educated and the sophistication of that education are critical to the ability of the profession to carry out its responsibilities. A 1993 UN global survey of accounting education found a positive correlation between the status of the profession, and the quality of accounting education. Attempts to improve accounting education are only likely to yield significant success when the quality and status of the profession are high. An educational program that prepares students for a low-status profession does not attract the best teachers and students, does not gain government and private sector funding, and does not offer a promise for a fulfilling career.

Education and Training of Accountants in Sub-Saharan Anglophone Africa Sonia R. Johnson, 1996 Financial Sector Development in Sub-Saharan African Countries Mr. Peter C. Hayward, Mr. George Iden, Mr. Tonny Lybek, Mr. Hassanali Mehran, Mr. Stephen Swaray, Mr. Piero Ugolini, Jean-Pierre Briffaut, 1998-10-01 This study takes stock of progress made so far in the financial sectors of sub saharan African countries It recommends further reforms and specific measures in the areas of supervision development of monetary operations and financial markets external sector liberalization central bank autonomy and accountability payments system and central bank accounting and auditing Sector Investment Programs in Africa Stephen P. Jones, 1997-01-01 South Asia has made much progress in deregulation and liberalization in the 1990s but it still remains one of the least integrated regions in the world However this general trend masks wide disparities among South Asian nations the larger economies tend to be more highly protected with low import penetration rates while the smaller economies are relatively more open If the current reform program continues the benefits of liberalization will translate into higher growth This report reviews the regions economic performance from an international perspective and the steps taken to increase integration especially in terms of financial integration increased foreign direct investment portfolio and capital flows and regional integration intra regional trade regional arrangements Chapters also discuss the economic outlook for the region and prospects for South Asian exports such as textiles and clothing Strengthening Auditing and Accounting Performance in Sub-Saharan Africa Sonia R. Johnson, 2012 This study provides an overview of the accounting profession and the education and training of accountants in Sub Saharan Anglophone Africa It looks at the profession accounting examinations accounting degrees the education of accountants and accounting technicians the training of accountants and accounting technicians and continuing professional education CPE This study provides an overview of the accounting profession and the education and training of accountants in Sub Saharan Anglophone Africa The study found that there were good and poor examples of accounting education in Anglophone Africa On the good side are colleges like the Zambia Centre for Accountancy Studies ZCAS and the Strathmore College in Kenya which are providing quality accounting education In contrast Uganda fares somewhat poorly It has only just established an accounting body it has no national examinations and the accounting training institutions are struggling to prepare students for overseas examinations External support for accounting education in Anglophone Africa has been reasonably successful with donor funded colleges such as ZCAS obtaining pass rates almost twice the worldwide average Assistance however is still required to help the profession develop Evolution of Agricultural Services in Sub-Saharan Africa Venkatachalam Venkatesan, Jacob Kampen, 1998-01-01 This paper traces the evolution of World Bank support to agricultural services particularly agricultural extension and research in Sub Saharan Africa It describes the Bank s experience with the implementation of national programs in agricultural extension and research and how these are evolving to face the problems of the future The paper concludes that participation of the beneficiaries in the design and implementation of programs is critical and will ensure the programs convergence towards rural development

Review of Early Childhood Policy and Programs in Sub-Saharan Africa Amy Jo Reinhold, 1997-01-01 The collaborative efforts of Colombia's Department of National Planning DNP and the World Bank has produced the National Evaluation System of Public Sector Performance SYNERGY Put in place by the Special Division for Evaluation in DNP this system has been designed and implemented to change the public sector from an inward looking process oriented body which sometimes restrains economic and social progress into a more dynamic results oriented partner of the community and private sector in development This report explores the critical factors in making SYNERGY a successful evaluation system Such factors include ways of making it an effective management tool promoting civil society participation by focusing on results for people and leveraging on their energy and resource defining a constructive learning process for implementation and providing an enabling environment for a results oriented public sector

Financial Market Fragmentation and Reforms in Sub-Saharan Africa Ernest Aryeetey, 1997-01-01 FIAS Occasional Paper No 9 Many developing countries have made dramatic progress in promoting private sector participation in their infrastructure sectors especially with the help of foreign investors However this has not been the case in Southern and Eastern Africa which have been perceived as relatively unattractive locations for investment This paper describes the state of infrastructure in the region takes stock of actual and potential projects in the various sectors and analyzes the main impediments to private investment in the region's infrastructure services

Privatization and Restructuring in Central and Eastern Europe Gerhard Pohl, 1997-01-01 Why do women in most developing countries lag behind men in literacy Why do women get less schooling than men This anthology examines the educational decisions that deprive women of an equal education It assembles the most up to date data organized by region Each paper links the data with other measures of economic and social development This approach helps explain the effects different levels of education have on women's fertility mortality rates life expectancy and income Also described are the effects of women's education on family welfare The authors look at family size and women's labor status and earnings They examine child and maternal health as well as investments in children's education Their investigation demonstrates that women with a better education enjoy greater economic growth and provide a more nurturing family life It suggests that when a country denies women an equal education the nation's welfare suffers Current strategies used to improve schooling for girls and women are examined in detail The authors suggest an ambitious agenda for educating women It seeks to close the gender gap by the next century Published for The World Bank by The Johns Hopkins University Press

The Condition of Young Children in Sub-Saharan Africa Nat J. Colletta, Jayshree Balachander, Xiaoyan Liang, 1996-01-01 Reviews the World Bank's experience in industrial restructuring in 46 countries during the past 14 years The study finds that for most completed public enterprise restructuring operations sustainability of benefits was a large problem mainly because of fragile sector reforms and inadequate governance and management Those completed for the private sector experienced poor outcomes from inadequate attention to country economic conditions and policy distortions To overcome such problems the study recommends that future restructuring operations be designed and implemented to have an impact at the firm level
