The War Against the Professions Judith J. Slater,David M. Callejo Pérez,Stephen M. Fain,2008-01-01 The modern American university has for more than a century been the frontier where those who aspired to social and economic advancement ventured Initially the guides for the aspirants were the professors who having earned the trust of both the general public and practitioners provided the necessary foundation for entry into the profession It was understood that what took place in the academy was an introductory experience as all professions require some form of supervised practical experience prior to being admitted into the profession Research done by members of the academy served as the primary source of knowledge advancing the professions Finally those who were engaged in these acts of knowledge production were actively involved establishing pre professional curriculum teaching and evaluation and they were held in high regard for this work The final quarter of the twentieth century marked a shift in the general attitude toward the professorate and the academy Trust was replaced with accountability and the high regard once enjoyed was undermined by suspicion The traditional model of the academy once seen as a community of scholars was replaced by a new corporate mind set Production became more important than inquiry These shifts resulted in a university where students were trained in response to the needs of others who defined the frontier for them This shift responds to the mitra of the day Social Education Erling Messer Hunt,1979 Includes section Book reviews Restructuring Schools Maureen T. Deportation Silvia Rodriguez Vega, 2023-02-14 Illustrates how the children of immigrants use art to grapple with issues of citizenship state violence and belonging Young immigrant children often do not have the words to express how their lives are shaped by issues of immigration legal status and state sanctioned violence Yet they are able to communicate its effects on them using art Based on ten years of work with immigrant children as young as six years old in Arizona and California and featuring an analysis of three hundred drawings theater performances and family interviews Silvia Rodriguez Vega provides accounts of children's challenges with deportation and family separation during the Obama and Trump administrations While much of the literature on immigrant children depicts them as passive when viewed through this lens they appear as agents of their own stories The volume provides key insights into how immigrant children in both states presented creative out of the box powerful solutions to the dilemmas that anti immigrant rhetoric and harsh immigration laws present Through art they demonstrated a righteous indignation against societal violence dehumanization and death as a tool for navigating a racist anti immigrant society When children are the agents of their own stories they can reimagine destructive situations in ways that adults sometimes cannot offering us alternatives and hope for a better future At once devastating and revelatory
