Changes by Competition Hyeong-ki

Kwon,2021-02-11 By tracing the evolution of South Korean state led capitalism and comparing it with other economies this book critiques prevalent theories including neoliberalism the developmental state and institutionalism and proposes a theoretical alternative focusing on endogenous changes through elites competition within and outside the state Unlike the arguments of neoliberals this volume asserts that the state can still play an active role in reconstituting the national economy through globalization The Korean state successfully fosters economic growth by nurturing industrial commons through globalization rather than by adopting a neoliberal free market system This volume asserts that the Korean economy has successfully grown over the past 50 years because it has moved toward a new version of state led developmentalism In order to better account for the evolution of state led developmentalism this book proposes changes by competition within as well as outside the state in order to bring about changes in developmentalism and the ability to adjust to new contexts Unlike prevalent accounts of developmental state theory Changes by Competition argues that the state is neither unitary nor cohesive but a locus of competition

Capital Mobility and Distributional Conflict in Chile, South Korea, and Turkey

Kurtuluş Gemici,2020-05-04 Why did many emerging countries pursue risky financial opening policies in a reckless manner even after the painful example of the Latin American debt crisis Unlike trade liberalization which has mostly been beneficial in emerging countries the removal of capital controls has led to boom bust patterns in many countries It is not simply driven by class or sectoral interests nor is it just a result of ideational changes in policy making circles or international pressure Gemici argues that to fully understand the motivation for these policies we need to take into account distributional struggles prior to their enactment In this book Gemici shows that conflictual distributional relations significantly increase the likelihood of capital account liberalization Through in depth comparative case studies he also demonstrates that countries which liberalize in the most comprehensive manner tend to be the countries characterized by a high degree of distributional conflict The case studies Argentina Chile South Korea and Turkey have been chosen to maximise variation in distributional relations and to escape regional clustering showing quite different trajectories of capital account liberalization This will be of great interest to readers in sociology international political economy and heterodox economics as well as specialists in the countries examined

Lewis, Amadu Sesay, 2013-07-04 Korea faces two challenges in the twenty first century unification and globalization Both entail problems of economic political and cultural integration In the past Koreans successfully unified in various forms and globalized in many ways This book is a study of the theme of globalization addressing various aspects of Korea's integration into the global community from a social scientific or humanistic perspective This investigation begins with a focus on contemporary South and North Korea the globalized southern daily life South Korean labour as a global player the southern development state and the cultural division that poses the greatest threat to reunification Moving outwards in concentric circles chapters address Korea's connections with its region and Koreans contributions to the wider world Relations with Japan Korea's most difficult bilateral relationship are surveyed to identify both patterns and images The thirteenth century Tripitaka Koreana is the most complete collection of Buddhist scripture in Chinese and its recent digitization points towards a renaissance of this world religion South Korea's pursuit of a Nobel Prize in Literature is put in perspective when one considers Korean contribution to the pre modern Sinitic literary world South Korea may owe its existence to the United Nations but since entering the UN in 1991 it has taken to heart the altruistic urge of global peacekeeping

Developmental Mindset Elizabeth Thurbon, 2016-03-31 The Asian financial crisis of 1997 1998 was supposed to be the death knell for the developmental state The International Monetary Fund supplied emergency funds for shattered economies but demanded that states liberalize financial markets and withdraw from direct involvement in the economy Financial liberalization was meant to spell the end of strategic industry policy and the state directed policy lending it involved Yet largely unremarked by analysts South Korea has since seen a striking revival of financial activism Policy lending by state owned development banks has returned the state to the core of the financial system Korean development banks now account for one quarter of all loans and take the lead in providing low cost finance to local manufacturing firms in strategic industries Elizabeth Thurbon argues that an ideational analysis can help explain this renewed financial activism She demonstrates the presence of a developmental mindset on the part of political leaders and policy elites in Korea This mindset involves shared ways of thinking about the purpose of finance and its relationship to the productive economy The developmental mindset has a long history in Korea but is subject to the vicissitudes of political and economic circumstances Thurbon traces the structural institutional political and ideational factors that have strengthened and at times weakened the developmental consensus culminating in the revival of financial activism in Korea In doing so Thurbon offers a novel defense of the developmental state idea and a new framework for investigating the emergence and evolution of developmental states She also canvasses the implications of the Korean experience for wider debates concerning the future of financial activism in an era of financialization energy insecurity and climate change
