The Geopolitics of Australia's Regional Relations D. Rumley, 2001-06-30 The origins of this book go back 30 years to the stimulation and interest generated by the political geography seminars led by John House at the University of Newcastle Upon Tyne I was very fortunate to graduate among its extremely capable sporty and enthusiastic class of 68 from where several academic geographers emerged Equally fortunately some of them and their predecessors had already blazed a trail to undertake graduate studies in Canada At the University of British Columbia I was supervised at different times by Julian Minghi and Victor Prescott both of whom are not only extremely capable academics but are also very fine people I owe an enormous debt to John Julian and Victor and to the British and Canadian taxpayers who provided financial support for my University studies In 1974 I began an academic career at the University of Western Australia where I have been ever since save for a two year period from 1991-3 as Professor of Australian Studies in the Department of International Relations at the University of Tokyo Viewing Australia and the Asia Pacific region from this different perspective within an extremely supportive Japanese environment had a profound impact I am especially grateful for the support provided by so many Japanese academic colleagues and friends beginning as early as 1976 Three individuals deserve special mention for their help guidance and enduring friendship George Ohshima Hiroshi Tanabe and Akihiro Kinda

Fantasy City John Hannigan, 2005-07-20 Fantasy City analyses the post industrialist city as a site of entertainment By discussing examples from a wide variety of venues including casinos malls heritage developments and theme parks Hannigan questions urban entertainments economic foundations and historical background He asks whether such areas of fantasy destroy communities or instead create new groupings of shared identities and experiences The book is written in a student friendly way with boxed case studies for class discussion

Contested Worlds Martin Phillips, 2017-09-29 Contested Worlds provides an introduction both to a multitude of geographical worlds which are currently being actively constructed and contested and to a range of different perspectives on these worlds being adopted and contested by geographers It is unique in its focus on the role of contestation in both the construction of geographical studies and in the geographies these studies seek to address These issues are explored through a combination of general theoretical discussion and detailed international case studies The areas discussed range in scale from the global through the regional and national to the local worlds of the inner city the neighbourhood and the village with connections drawn between these scales The book concludes that geography is being made in quite different ways It asserts that geography is intrinsically a contested enterprise and that this should be embraced as part of geographers becoming more critically involved in the making and studying of new contemporary human geographies

Crafting Peace Caroline A. Hartzell, Matthew Hoddie, 2015-10-29 The recent efforts to reach a settlement of the enduring and tragic conflict in Darfur demonstrate how important it is to understand what factors contribute most to the success of such efforts In this book Caroline Hartzell and Matthew Hoddie review data from all negotiated civil war settlements between 1945 and 1999 in order to identify these factors What they find is that settlements are more likely to produce an enduring peace if they involve construction of a diversity of power sharing and power dividing arrangements between former adversaries The strongest negotiated settlements prove to be those in which former rivals agree to share or divide state power across its economic military political and territorial dimensions This finding is a significant addition to the existing literature which tends to focus more on the role that third parties play in mediating and enforcing agreements Beyond the quantitative analyses the authors include a chapter comparing contrasting cases of successful and unsuccessful settlements in the Philippines and Angola respectively

Hidden Agendas John Pilger, 2010-09-02 In this powerful book journalist and film maker John Pilger strips away the layers of deception dissembling language and omission that prevent us from understanding how the world really works From the invisible corners of Tony Blair's Britain to Burma Vietnam Australia South Africa and the illusions of the media age power he argues has its own agenda Unchallenged it operates to protect its interests with a cynical disregard for people shaping and often devastating millions of lives By unravelling the hidden histories of contemporary events Pilger allows us to read between the lines He also celebrates the eloquent defiance and courage of those who resist oppression and give us hope for the future Tenaciously researched and written with passion and wit Hidden Agendas will change the way you see the world      Geopolitics at the End of the Twentieth Century Nurit Kliot, David Newman, 2013-11-05 An excellent examination of how the collapse of the Soviet Union and the impact of globalization have brought about changes not only to the territorial configuration sovereignty of states and their boundaries but also to traditional notions of state boundaries sovereignty and social order These essays focus on the key regional and geopolitical characteristics of this global reordering with an emphasis on Eastern Europe and South Asia They discuss the territorial reordering which is taking place at the level of the state as boundaries are redemarcated in line with ethno territorial demands as borders are transversed by the movement of peoples information and finance and as the lines of territorial demarcation are perceived not only in terms of their fixed characteristics but as part of a process through which regional and ethnic identities continue to be formed and reformed Each section ends with articles which focus on literature on geopolitics and boundaries This is an invaluable addition to our understanding of contemporary world affairs      International Migration Douglas S. Massey, J. Edward Taylor, 2004-03-25 International Migration Prospects and Policies offers a comprehensive up to date survey of global patterns of international migration and the policies employed to manage the flows It shows that international migration is not rooted in poverty or rapid population growth but in the expansion and consolidation of global markets As nations are structurally transformed by their incorporation into global markets people are displaced from traditional livelihoods and become international migrants In seeking to work abroad they do not necessarily move to the closest or richest destination but to places already connected to their countries of origin socially economically and politically When they move migrants rely heavily on social networks created by earlier waves of immigrants and in recent years professional migration brokers have become increasingly common Developing countries generally benefit from international migration because migrant savings and remittances provide foreign earnings to finance balance of payments deficits and make productive investments Some developing nations have gone so far as to establish programs or ministries dedicated to the export of workers Developed nations in contrast focus more on the social and economic costs of immigrants and seek to reduce their numbers regulate their characteristics and limit their access to social services Over time receiving nations have gravitated toward a similar set of restrictive policies yielding undocumented migration as a worldwide phenomenon Globalization also creates infrastructures of transportation communication and social networks to put developed societies within reach In the latter ageing populations and segmenting markets create a persistent demand for immigrant workers All these trends are likely to intensify in the coming years to make immigration policy a key political issue in the twenty first century      Security Strategies in the Asia-Pacific A. Tan, 2011-08-01 This book argues that given the existence of a discrete Malay archipelago security complex it is a fallacy for the United States to approach this region primarily through the prism of global counter terrorism      Foreign Operation Methods Lawrence S. Welch, Gabriel R. G. Benito, Bent Petersen, 2008-01-01 New insights and a provocative perspective characterized this book by Professors Welch Benito and Petersen Managers will find the
