Extinct And Vanishing Animals:

Extinct and Vanishing Animals Vinzenz Ziswiler, 2012-12-06 In the limited scope of this book I wish to present a brief review of the progressive destruction of nature particularly in the domain of animal life and at the same time to illustrate some of the possibilities by which man can prevent this destruction. As the mightiest creation of nature, man extends his influence into all of nature's provinces and in his habits all zones of the earth. Civilization and technology, ultimate consequences of his unique cerebral development, have promoted man to this position of omnipotence. An enormous population increase in recent centuries has made him one of the most numerous of all animal forms. A comparison of the alarming climb of earth's population curve (Fig. 1a) with the graphical representation of exterminated animal species (Fig. 1b) establishes a striking conformity. The steeper the human population curve climbs, the higher the stretch of the bars representing the number of exterminated animal species. 1650 1700 17150 1800 1850 1900 1950 2000 species

Here they are joined with a stimulating text by Dr. Kurt Benirschke, affording the reader an opportunity to discover the lives and habits of these animals and what the outlook is for their survival. Extinction, the tragic and permanent loss of entire species of animals, should be a concern for everyone. This concern and a strong desire to take action toward preventing the loss of more animals has brought about an unusual collaboration between art and science. The result is this beautiful volume in which artist and scientist have joined efforts to inform and inspire others to take action. It is hoped that these fascinating and striking portrayals will stimulate readers to join their own energies and talents to this important fight against the loss of more species. This book brings some of the less well-known endangered animals to the reader's attention. These animals deserve just as much attention as the giant panda or the mountain gorilla, about which so much has already been said. Naturally, the animals presented here are very personal choices having been selected from a virtually endless supply of animals whose last hour is rapidly approaching.
