Fabrication Of Aboriginal History:

The Fabrication of Aboriginal History: Van Diemen's Land, 1803-1847 Keith Windschuttle, 2002 This is the first volume in a series that re appraises the now widely accepted story about conflict between colonists and Aborigines in Australian history Beginning in Tasmania and eventually covering the whole of the Australian mainland the volumes find that the academic historians of the last thirty years have greatly exaggerated the degree of violence that occurred In a close re examination of the primary sources used by historians Keith Windschuttle concludes that much of their case is poorly founded other parts are seriously mistaken and some of it is outright fabrication The author finds the British colonization of the Australia was the least violent of all Europes encounters with the New World It did not meet any organized resis tance Conflict was sporadic rather than systematic The notion of frontier warfare is fictional To describe the process as genocide is to use hyperbole that is unsupported by the historical evidence

The Fabrication of Aboriginal History Keith Windschuttle, Whitewash Robert Manne, 2003 An important reply to Keith Windschuttle s The Fabrication of Aboriginal History Volume One Whitewash provides not only a demolition of Windschuttle s revisionism but also a vivid and illuminating history of one of the most famous and tragic episodes in the history of the British empire the dispossession of the Tasmanian Aborigines Contributors include Henry Reynolds Cassandra Pybus Lyndall Ryan and Martin Krygier

The Fabrication of Aboriginal History: The stolen generations, 1881-2008 Keith Windschuttle, 2002 Argues against the widely held belief that in the 20th century up to one in three Aboriginal children were forcibly removed from their parents in order to put an end to Aboriginality In 1997 the Human Rights Commission made the most notorious accusation ever directed against Australia It accused this country of committing genocide against the Aborigines by stealing their children The purported intention of governments and welfare officials was to institutionalise and assimilate the children into white society and thus rid Australia of its Aboriginal people In 2008 Prime Minister Kevin Rudd apologised to Aboriginal people for these policies This book is based on an exhaustive examination of the archival records of child removals and of government policies and laws It also scrutinizes the work of the historians on whom the Human Rights Commission relied It finds the historical research that created this interpretation was shoddy and untrustworthy Aboriginal children were never removed from their families in order to put an end to Aboriginality or indeed for any improper government policy or program The small numbers of Aboriginal child removals in the twentieth century were almost all based on traditional grounds of child welfare Most children affected had been orphaned abandoned destitute neglected malnourished or subject to various forms of domestic violence sexual exploitation and sexual abuse The notion that this amounted to genocide came from creative interpretations of selected evidence taken out of context by politically motivated historians There were no Stolen Generations NB Volume Three is published out of sequence Volume Two and Volume Four will be published later

Washout John Graham Dawson, 2010

The Fabrication of Aboriginal History: Van Diemen's Land, 1803-1847 Keith Windschuttle, 2003 This is the first volume in a series that re appraises the now widely accepted story about conflict between colonists and Aborigines in Australian history Beginning in Tasmania and eventually covering the whole of the Australian mainland the volumes find that the academic historians of the last thirty years have greatly exaggerated the degree of violence that occurred In a close re examination of the primary sources used by historians Keith Windschuttle concludes that much of their case is poorly founded other parts are seriously mistaken and some of it is outright fabrication The author finds the British colonization of the Australia was the least violent of all Europes encounters with the New World It did not meet any organized resis tance Conflict was sporadic rather than systematic The notion of frontier warfare is fictional To describe the process as genocide is to use hyperbole that is unsupported by the historical evidence

Washout John Dawson,2004 Washout is major contribution to the debate over the History Wars It is a dissection of the Robert Manne edited book Whitewash on Keith Windshuttle s Dissection of Aboriginal History Dawson shows that the authors of Whitewash have manipulated the evidence and failed to establish their case

White Christ Black Cross Noel Loos,2007 This book frames the Church of England s missionary outreach to Aboriginal people within the reality of frontier violence government control segregation and neglect As missionary control diminished Aboriginal people responded more overtly and autonomously Some regarded white Christianity as irrelevant while others adopted it in culturally satisfying ways Through the Australian Board of Missions ABM the Church of England sought to convert Aboriginal people into a Europeanized compliant sub caste The separation of children from their families was the first step The book also shows how the ABM found itself increasingly embroiled in emerging broader social issues and changing government policies requiring it to rethink its own policies

Culture and Civilization Irving Horowitz,2018-02-06 Intellectual activity in the twentieth century took place largely under the banner of science and society As the new millennium develops it is becoming evident that science and society are not words that represent an unmitigated good nor for that matter do they exhaust what is new in the human condition Past writing on the theme of culture has emphasized the growth and expansion of human capabilities Recent use of the term civilization has placed great emphasis on the fall from grace of human beings The use of both terms is rapidly changing Culture and Civilization develops critical ideas intended to produce a positive intellectual climate one that is prepared to confront threats and alert us to the opportunities of the twenty first century It recognizes that the twenty first century presents people in all fields and of all faiths with shared challenges Culture and Civilization embraces the work of novelists journalists cultural figures technologists physical sciences historians and policy personnel who range beyond social science areas What they have in common is a view that civilization is under assault and that it represents a cause worth advancing and defending This publication does not embrace idiosyncratic visions of the clash of world civilizations or the end of Western civilization It does attempt to bring together immediate issues of the century that are substantially new and challenging We see that the essential polarity between democracy and autocracy has now taken on larger deeper dimensions in a different political economic and ecological terrain the central issue of our day is now civilization versus barbarism The character of democratic culture is central to the global equation and the systemic challenge This publication is a sober response to such a challenge

Sovereign Subjects Aileen Moreton-Robinson, 2020-08-02 Indigenous rights in Australia are at a crossroads Over the past decade neo liberal governments have reasserted their claim to land in Australia and refuse to either negotiate with the Indigenous owners or to make amends for the damage done by dispossession Many Indigenous communities are in a parlous state under threat both physically and culturally In Sovereign Subjects some of Indigenous Australia s emerging and well known critical thinkers examine the implications for Indigenous people of continuing to live in a state founded on invasion They show how for Indigenous people self determination welfare dependency representation cultural maintenance history writing reconciliation land ownership and justice are all inextricably linked to the original act of dispossession by white settlers and the ongoing loss of sovereignty At a time when the old left political agenda has run its course and the new right is looking increasingly morally bankrupt Sovereign Subjects sets a new rights agenda for Indigenous politics and Indigenous studies
