German Doll Studies Jurgen Cieslik, Marianne Cieslik, 1999-01-01      Making To-Live-For Dolls Celia

Desmond, 2013-04 This book is a must read for anyone making a porcelain doll wanting to enter in a competition In the book you will find tips and information from notes taken at seminars and private lessons with the top doll makers in the world today There are two main categories of porcelain dolls modern and antique Modern dolls are those sculpted by modern artists Antique dolls are those that were first introduced and sold either more than fifty years ago or by some definitions more than one hundred years ago Actual antique dolls can be purchased for enjoyment and possibly to use as models for the making of reproductions Excellent reproductions of the antique dolls can be made by modern day artists Modern dolls are those sculpted by current day sculptors Modern dolls can be painted and dressed in any way the doll artisan prefers They can have painted eyes or the holes can be cut out from the porcelain before the bisque firing to allow the insertion of glass eyes Neither technique is easy Each has its own challenges and both look nice when done well These dolls can be dressed in any way the artist wishes as well Reproductions of antiques must be done so that the artist reproduces the original patterns and colors as they were initially done on the specific dolls This means reproducing the eyes with the same number of lashes that the artists painted on the antique dolls the same slant and the same spacing Dressing the antique reproductions poses another challenge as the dolls should be dressed in a period costume appropriate for that doll The fabrics should be natural fibers often actual vintage or antique fabrics Significant research is required to determine what styles fabrics and colors should be used for specific dolls This book has a wonderful collection of tips collected from the experts These are helpful for all doll makers especially people preparing for competitions This book contains a wealth of information for lovers and makers of both modern and reproduction antique dolls The information has been collected over the years from most of the most talented and experienced doll makers in the world It is shared here with those interested in preserving this art approaching each aspect of the doll in the best way possible      German Doll Studies Jürgen Cieslik, Marianne Cieslik, 1987      German

Doll Encyclopedia, 1800-1939 Jurgen Cieslik, Marianne Cieslik, 1985      Identifying German Parian Dolls Mary Gorham Krombholz, 2006-06-23 This important book from the author of three previous books on antique German dolls features groundbreaking new research on the parian dolls produced by eight factories in Germany during the late 19th century In preparing this book the author travelled to the sites of the factories in Thuringia to dig for important artefacts her labours uncovered over 1 000 porcelain shards that show the distinctive facial painting used by each factory highlighted in the book These discoveries combined with her collection of original porcelain factory ledgers and sample books allow her to attribute with certainty the makers of these beautiful dolls especially those produced during the 1860s and 1870s and previously designated as being by unknown makers Mary Krombholz also makes use of rare written records describing daily life inside a 19th century porcelain factory to clearly delineate the significant role played by each worker in doll production Her narrative clarifies not only the process of making porcelain dolls in the 19th century but also presents a vivid picture of life in the Thuringian villages in which these factories were located Over 350 colour photographs all close views detailing the painting and decoration of these pieces accompany the invaluable text making this the most significant volume on German parian dolls to be published Identifying German Character Dolls Mary Gorham Krombholz, 2008-01-01 A challenge to artists in Munich Germany in 1908 changed the doll industry forever Invited by the Hermann Tietz department store to create dolls resembling real children a group of artists responded by making dolls bearing remarkably lifelike expressions wearing children of the street clothing The overwhelmingly positive reaction to the exhibition of their work at the store inspired major German doll manufacturers to produce a new kind of doll one very different from those that had dominated doll making up to that time This was the birth of what has become known as the German character doll Character dolls were produced in the first few decades of the twentieth century by a wide range of manufacturers and are highly sought after by collectors today For years confusion has abounded as to the proper identification of these dolls as different factories made different parts and yet other factories often relying on home workers assembled the dolls In this comprehensive profusely illustrated book veteran researcher Mary Gorham Krombholz unravels the mysteries behind the production of these dolls and identifies the makers of their bisque heads Relying on firsthand research often conducted on the very grounds in Germany where they were made and primary sources she documents the complex and labour intensive processes by which character dolls were produced in the two major doll making areas of Thuringia Waltershausen and Sonneberg Individual and group photographs of over 800 character dolls accompanied by detailed captions including highlighted markings dominate this invaluable volume Personal historical accounts by those who worked for the doll manufacturers along with hand coloured period photos shed light on the specific tasks entailed in every aspect of the doll making process from mould making to glass eye blowing to assembling the shipping boxes Unequalled in depth and breadth this is an enlightening and enthralling reference that every character doll collector must own
