Backe-Hansen, 2013-11-01 In this picturesque exploration of Britain's constructed landscape an array of medieval lanes Georgian crescents and Victorian squares make an appearance together with the people famous infamous and unfamiliar who designed built and lived in them From Bedford Square and Portobello Road in London through to Grey Street in Newcastle and Charlotte Square in Edinburgh Historic Streets and Squares takes you over the doorstep of some of the country's most familiar addresses Melanie Backe Hansen takes us beyond the facades delving into the evolution of ancient streets the aspirations of builders and architects and the extraordinary lives of past residents She also reveals the fascinating stories of how some of our oldest and most valued crescents lanes and avenues have survived into the twenty first century and the twists and turns of their journey along the way Taken together these fifty examples tell us much about Britain's urban development over the centuries while also highlighting more recent attempts to preserve our architectural heritage The history of our streets avenues lanes and squares reveals more than just changes to architectural style but offers a doorway into the heritage of our nation Lovely Bits of Old England John Betjeman, 2012-11-08 John Betjeman began writing for the Telegraph in 1951 and continued to do so for a quarter of a century During that time Britain underwent profound social and cultural changes In architecture grand Victorian edifices were pulled down to make way for gleaming brutalist monuments to the Future In literature a new generation of angry young men and women challenged convention head on In music pomp and circumstance gave way to the electric guitar And in fashion hemlines crept up Amongst much of the population however such rapid change met with disquiet a nagging sense that the New had displaced much that was wonderful in the Old By turns eccentric wistful and polemical Betjeman's writing for the Telegraph gave voice to this unease From contemporary reviews often refreshingly caustic of novelists such as Ian Fleming Nancy Mitford and J D Salinger through prescient warnings about the threat posed to the English skyline by office blocks motorways and concrete lamp standards to elegiac paeans to Norman churches and of course the gothic majesty of St Pancras station Lovely Bits of Old England collects the very best of Betjeman's contributions to the Telegraph for the first time Taken together they offer a eulogy for what was lost and an impassioned defence of the past in the face of progress's relentless onward march
