Roberts, 2004-07-04 China to Chinatown tells the story of one of the most notable examples of the globalization of food the spread of Chinese recipes ingredients and cooking styles to the Western world Beginning with the accounts of Marco Polo and Franciscan missionaries J A G Roberts describes how Westerners first impressions of Chinese food were decidedly mixed with many regarding Chinese eating habits as repugnant Chinese food was brought back to the West merely as a curiosity

The Western encounter with a wider variety of Chinese cuisine dates from the first half of the 20th century when Chinese food spread to the West with emigrant communities. The author shows how Chinese cooking has come to be regarded by some as among the world's most sophisticated cuisines and yet is harshly criticized by others for example on the grounds that its preparation involves cruelty to animals. Roberts discusses the extent to which Chinese food as a facet of Chinese culture overseas has remained differentiated and questions whether its ethnic identity is dissolving. Written in a lively style the book will appeal to food historians and specialists in Chinese culture as well as to readers interested in Chinese cuisine.

Routledge Handbook of Chinese Medicine Vivienne Lo, Michael Stanley-Baker, 2022-06-19. The Routledge Handbook of Chinese Medicine is an extensive interdisciplinary guide to the nature of traditional medicine and healing in the Chinese cultural region and its plural epistemologies. Established experts and the next generation of scholars interpret the ways in which Chinese medicine has been understood and portrayed from the beginning of the empire third century BCE to the globalisation of Chinese products and practices in the present day taking in subjects from ancient medical writings to therapeutic movement to talismans for healing and traditional medicines that have inspired global solutions to contemporary epidemics. The volume is divided into seven parts: Longue Durée and Formation of Institutions and Traditions; Sickness and Healing; Food and Sex; Spiritual and Orthodox Religious Practices; The World of Sinographic Medicine; Wider Diasporas; Negotiating Modernity. This handbook therefore introduces the broad range of ideas and techniques that comprise pre-modern medicine in China and the historiographical and ethnographic approaches that have illuminated them. It will prove a useful resource to students and scholars of Chinese studies and the history of medicine and anthropology. It will also be of interest to practitioners, patients and specialists wishing to refresh their knowledge with the latest developments in the field. Food and Philosophy Spencer Wertz, 2017-02-08. These essays on food and philosophy were written over several decades. Not only philosophers and historians but individuals who have an ongoing interest in food should relish them. The essays cover wide-ranging topics that include genetically modified organisms, chocolate and its world, food as art, the pornography of food and the five flavors of Chinese cuisine. In addition, there are several chapters that deal with the refinement of erudite professional cuisine from popular regional cuisine in the seventeenth and eighteenth centuries in Europe. One chapter stands alone as an analysis of the Native American cultural foundations of maize. The book opens with an essay on the philosophy of food history that addresses three fundamental problems: the duplication of sensations and taste; the understanding of recipes from other historical periods and the sorts of judgments that are included or excluded in a historical narrative. The book ends with an exposition of R. G. Collingwood's anthropology of eating and dining which completes the discussion with an analysis of the magical symbolism of those cultural activities.

Chinese Food and Foodways in Southeast Asia and Beyond Tan Chee-Beng,2012-08-01 Chinese cuisine has had a deep impact on culinary traditions in Southeast Asia where the lack of certain ingredients and access to new ingredients along with the culinary knowledge of local people led Chinese migrants to modify traditional dishes and to invent new foods This process brought the cuisine of southern China considered by some writers to be the finest in the world into contact with a wide range of local and global cuisines and ingredients When Chinese from Southeast Asia moved on to other parts of the world they brought these variants of Chinese food with them completing a cycle of culinary reproduction localization and invention and globalization The process does not end there for the new context offers yet another set of ingredients and culinary traditions and the embedding and fusing of foods continues creating additional hybrid forms Written by scholars whose deep familiarity with Chinese cuisine is both personal and academic Chinese Food and Foodways in

Caldwell, 2020-02-29 Moral Foods The Construction of Nutrition and Health in Modern Asia investigates how foods came to be established as moral entities how moral food regimes reveal emerging systems of knowledge and enforcement and how these developments have contributed to new Asian nutritional knowledge regimes The collection's focus on cross cultural and transhistorical comparisons across Asia brings into view a broad spectrum of modern Asia that extends from East Asia Southeast Asia to South Asia as well as into global communities of Western knowledge practice and power outside Asia The first section Good Foods focuses on how food norms and rules have been established in modern Asia Ideas about good foods and good bodies shift at different moments in some cases privileging local foods and knowledge systems and in other cases privileging foreign foods and knowledge systems The second section Bad Foods focuses on what makes foods bad and even dangerous Bad foods are not simply unpleasant or undesirable for aesthetic or sensory reasons but they can hinder the stability and development of persons and societies Bad foods are symbolically polluting as in the case of foreign foods that threaten not only traditional foods but also the stability and strength of the nation and its people The third section Moral Foods focuses on how themes of good versus bad are embedded in projects to make modern persons subjects and states with specific attention to the ambiguities and malleability of foods and health The malleability of moral foods provides unique opportunities for understanding Asian societies dynamic position within larger global flows connections and disconnections Collectively the chapters raise intriguing questions about how foods and the bodies that consume them have been valued politically economically culturally and morally and about how those values originated and evolved Consumers in modern Asia are not simply eating to satisfy personal desires or physiological needs but they are also conscripted into national and global statemaking projects through acts of ingestion Eating then has become about fortifying both the person and the nation From Canton Restaurant to Panda Express Haiming Liu, 2015-09-09 The story of Chinese Americans through the lens of food From Canton Restaurant in 1849 to Panda Express today Chinese food history in America spans over 150 years Chinese Forty Niners were mostly merchants and restaurateurs who migrated here not to dig gold but to do trade Racism against the Chinese slowed down the growth of the Chinese restaurant business in the late 19th century but it made a rebound in the format of chop suey From 1900 to the 1960s chop suey as imagined authentic Chinese food attracted numerous American customers including Jewish Americans as its collective fan Then the real Chinese food such as Hunan Sichuan or Shanghai cuisine replaced chop suey houses in the 1970s following the arrival of new Chinese immigrants after immigration reform in 1965 Those regional flavored Chinese restaurants were brought in and established by immigrants from Taiwan rather than mainland China As Chinese restaurants in America turned Chinese in flavor P F Chang's and Panda Express rose fast in the 1990s to meet the need of constantly changing and often multi ethnically blended eating
