regulatory system resulting in increased food intake that leads to obesity This condition reinforces the consumption of palatable and energy dense foods and is also related to a higher prevalence of cardiovascular metabolic oncological and neuropsychiatric diseases Feeding is a complex process that involves brain areas that control homeostasis learning memory emotion and reward among others Therefore deregulation of these areas can lead to developing hyperphagia a greater preference for obesogenic foods and in the short or medium term to developing overweight and obesity Furthermore obesity is a pandemic related to a higher prevalence of cardiovascular metabolic oncological and neuropsychiatric diseases among others For this reason this Research Topic focuses on the neurobiological mechanisms that bidirectionally lead to the development of changes in eating behaviors and consuming obesogenic foods Understanding these mechanisms requires an integrative perspective that includes an in depth study of the brain mechanisms that control feeding behaviors and food intake and their integration with different physiological systems i e gastrointestinal neuroendocrine and environmental factors i e food availability and access
