Pesticides T. J. Sheets, David Pimentel, 2012-12-06 Chemical pesticides continue as a point of major controversy in our society Increasingly stringent regulatory actions on the part of state and federal agencies exemplified by the RPAR Rebuttable Presumption Against Registration program of the Environmental Protection Agency are supported by environmental groups and are generally opposed or viewed with skepticism by agriculturalists The energy crisis invokes other questions on benefits of pesticides versus nonchemical controls and effects on labor utilization As DDT and other persistent pesticides have been phased out the more labile short lived chemicals have filled the voids in pest management systems and effects on nontarget species appear to have declined in recent years as the shift occurred However nagging questions of the hazard to man and other nontarget species from long term low level exposure to pesticides are frequently raised and recent suggestions that certain well known and long used chemicals cause cancer increase sterility and initiate or augment other deleterious effects in test animals have instilled a sense of caution and raised concern about the continued availability of some pesticides previously considered safe So the facade of concern and confusion continues This book is an outgrowth of a symposium at the meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science in February 1978 An introduction has been added and some of the papers have been modified since presentation Willard Cochrane and the American Family Farm Richard A. Levins, 2000 Then for forty long years he held to his principles while traditional agriculture faded into what he once called family farms in form but not in spirit National Agricultural Library Catalog, 1966-1970: Subjects National Agricultural Library (U.S.), 1973 Southern Journal of Agricultural Economics, 1971 Agriculture Teachers Directory and Handbook, 1973 Foreign Policy in Transition Steven Bruce Hunt, 1979 Federal Public Land Laws and Policies Relating to Intensive Agriculture South Dakota State College of Agriculture and Mechanic Arts.
