Food In Sub-Saharan Africa Food In Africa Ser:

Food in Sub-Saharan Africa Art Hansen, Della E. McMillan, 1986-01 Food Culture in Sub-Saharan Africa Francoise Osseo-Asare, 2005-06-30 East African notably Ethiopian cuisine is perhaps the most well known in the States This volume illuminates West southern and Central African cuisine as well to give students and other readers a solid understanding of how the diverse African peoples grow cook and eat food and how they celebrate special occasions and ceremonies with special foods Readers will also learn about African history religions and ways of life plus how African and American foodways are related For example cooking techniques such as deep frying and ingredients such as peanuts chili peppers okra watermelon and even cola were introduced to the United States by sub Sahara Africans who were brought as slaves Africa is often presented as a monolith but this volume treats each region in turn with representative groups and foodways presented in manageable fashion with a truer picture able to emerge It is noted that the boundaries of many countries are imposed so that food culture is more fluid in a region Commonalities are also presented in the basic format of a meal with a starch with a sauce or stew and vegetables and perhaps some protein typically cooked over a fire in a pot supported by three stones Representative recipes a timeline glossary and evocative photos complete the narrative Food and Nutrition Security in Southern African Cities Bruce Frayne, Jonathan Crush, Cameron McCordic, 2017-12-22 Urban population growth is extremely rapid across Africa and this book places urban food and nutrition security firmly on the development and policy agenda It shows that current efforts to address food poverty in Africa that focus entirely on small scale farmers to the exclusion of broader socio economic and infrastructural approaches are misplaced and will remain largely ineffective in ameliorating food and nutrition insecurity for the majority of Africans Using original data from the African Food Security Urban Network s AFSUN extensive database it is demonstrated that the primary food security challenge for urban households is access to food Already linked into global food systems and value chains Africa s supply of food is not necessarily in jeopardy Rather the widespread poverty and informal urban fabric that characterizes Africa s emerging cities impinge directly on households capacity to access food that is readily available Through the analysis of empirical data collected from 6 500 households in eleven cities in nine countries in Southern Africa the authors identify the complexity of factors and dynamics that create the circumstances of widespread food and nutrition insecurity under which urban citizens live They also provide useful policy approaches to address these conditions that currently thwart the latent development potential of Africa s expanding urban population Africa - Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition 2019 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, European Commission on Agriculture, African Union Commission, 2020-02-07 In the 2017 and 2018 editions of the Africa Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition FAO reported that the prevalence of undernourishment was rising in the region The latest data shows that the deterioration has slowed but there remain 256 million hungry people in Africa today The report further documents that although many African countries are making progress towards reducing malnutrition progress is too slow to meet six key nutrition targets which form part of the Sustainable Development Goals SDGs monitoring framework and the World Health Assembly global nutrition targets Food insecurity has been rising in Africa in recent years and the continent is not on track to eliminate hunger by 2030 The 2017 2018 and this year s report identify and report in detail on conflict climate extremes and economic slowdowns and downturns as the key drivers of the rise in food insecurity In most cases the economic slowdowns and downturns that contributed to rising undernourishment in 2014 2018 were the result of commodity price falls Many effective policy tools are available but their adoption will depend on the availability of fiscal space to effect the desired policy action In the longer term countries must develop policies and invest to achieve a more diversified economy and achieve an inclusive structural transformation However sustained economic growth is not enough reducing inequalities including gender based and spatial inequalities is essential to strengthening household resilience laying the path to inclusive growth and reducing food insecurity and tackling the multiple forms of malnutrition

Livestock Development In Sub-Saharan Africa James R Simpson, 2019-08-22 The nations of Sub-Saharan Africa experienced declining levels of food production per capita throughout the 1970s and early 1980s particularly in the area of livestock production Addressing that problem the authors of this book assess in a systems context the environmental biological and social constraints on future African livestock development and consider prospects for improving productivity They focus especially on changes needed in production and marketing systems pointing to important policy considerations The book is divided into four parts containing twenty one chapters each authored by one or more respective authorities in his or her field Each section in its own way addresses the entire set of questions topics include aspects of animal breeding and nutrition anthropology economics ecology farming systems governmental policy land tenure marketing modelling and veterinary medicine

Alternative Development Strategies in Sub-Saharan Africa Frances Stewart, Sanjaya Lall, Samuel M. Wangwe, 1992-06-18 The World Bank and the IMF dominate policy making in Africa today This book considers the consistency between their adjustment policies and long run development needs with an analysis of country experience An alternative development strategy is proposed

Sub-Saharan Africa Gregory H. Maddox, 2006-03-24 A wealth of information and analysis on the environmental forces that have helped shaped the cultures of the African continent A scholarly reference work that will also appeal to the general reader Sub-Saharan Africa sets the story of the African environment within the context of geological time and shows how the continent s often harsh conditions prompted humans to develop unique skills in agriculture animal husbandry and environmental management Part of ABC-CLIO s Nature and Human Societies series this book enables readers to better grasp the extent of humanity s effect on our world Of particular interest are the book s sections dealing with the impact of the Biafran famine of the 1960s the Sahelian drought of the 1970s population growth and the ongoing challenges of war and HIV AIDS Crucially the book also shows how despite their relative poverty many African states have coped admirably with rapid urbanization and have developed world

Africa's Urban Revolution Doctor Edgar Pieterse, Susan Parnell, 2014-01-09 The facts of Africa's rapid urbanisation are startling By 2030 African cities will have grown by more than 350 million people and over half the continent's population will be urban Yet in the minds of policy makers scholars and much of the general public Africa remains a quintessentially rural place This lack of awareness and robust analysis means it is difficult to make a policy case for a more overtly urban agenda As a result there is across the continent insufficient urgency directed to responding to the challenges and opportunities associated with the world's last major wave of urbanisation Drawing on the expertise of scholars and practitioners associated with the African Centre for Cities and utilising a diverse array of case studies Africa's Urban Revolution provides a comprehensive insight into the key issues demographic cultural political technical environmental and economic surrounding African urbanisation

Africa's Green Revolution William G. Moseley, Matthew A. Schnurr, Rachel Bezner-Kerr, 2017-10-02 This volume examines the dominant neoliberal agenda for agricultural development and hunger alleviation in Africa The text reviews the history of African agricultural and food security policy in the post colonial period across a range of geographical contexts in order to contextualise the productionist approach embedded in the much heralded New Green Revolution for Africa This strategy supported by a range of international agencies promotes the use of hybrid seeds fertilisers and pesticides to boost crop production This approach is underpinned by a new and unprecedented level of public private partnerships as donors actively work to promote the private sector and build links between African farmers input suppliers agro dealers agro processors and retailers On the consumer end increased supermarket penetration into poorer neighbourhoods is proffered as a solution to urban food insecurity The chapters in this volume complicate understandings of this new approach and raise serious questions about its effectiveness as a strategy for increasing food production and alleviating poverty across the continent This book is based on a special issue of African Geographical Review
