Shasore,2022-08-22 Designs on Democracy examines a pivotal period in the formation of the modern profession of architecture in Britain It shows how architects sought to meet the newly articulated demands of a mass democracy in the wake of the First World War It does so by providing a vivid picture of architectural culture in interwar London the Imperial metropolis drawing on histories of design practice professionalism and representation Most accounts of this period tend to deal exclusively with the emergence of Modernism this study takes a different approach encompassing a much broader perspective on the liberal professional consensus that held sway including architecture s mainstream and its so called avant garde Readers will encounter a number of unexpected narratives episodes and projects from the British Empire Exhibition at Wembley to the rebuilding of Waterloo Bridge from the impact of the Great Slump to the passing of the first Architects Registration Act 1931 from Trystan Edwards s radical housing campaigns to the Londoners League s unorthodox preservationism Pulling in a range of evidence and sources periodicals exhibitions photographs and films alongside architecture it evokes architectural culture by listening carefully to the tenor of its discourse Architecture s public realm is thus analysed through sometimes surprising phrases manners to understand ideals of public propriety vigilance to explore public proprietorship slump to contextualise the emergence of public relations machine craft to understand the forging of public institutions The volume spans the excitable discussions about the reconstruction of the profession for a democratic age after WWI to reconstruction and planning following WWII providing an ambitious revision of how we can understand twentieth century architecture in Britain

Cotswold Arts and Crafts Architecture Catherine Gordon,2020-01-24 Between 1890 and 1930 Arts and Crafts architecture proliferated within the Cotswolds The range and quality of the buildings was exceptional as the region provided the perfect environment for the Movement s ideals and principles to flourish Arts and Crafts architects relished the robust vernacular precedent that served to focus their ideas and stimulate their creativity Its rational basis and dependence on craft skills had lasting relevance and it was no coincidence that the most influential aspect of their work was its emphasis on conservation This new and updated paperback edition provides a guide to the general characteristics of Cotswold Arts and Crafts structures with chapters on the various types of new commissions to be found as well as repair and remodeling projects The final chapter discusses the late flowering of Arts and Crafts work that occurred during the interwar period and beyond and the legacy of this important body of work at a local and national level

A Wealth of Buildings: Marking the Rhythm of English History Richard Barras,2016-09-23 This two volume book explores how the great buildings of England bear witness to a thousand years of the nation s history In every age investment in iconic buildings reaches a climax when the prevailing mode of production is operating most effectively surplus wealth is most plentiful and the dominant class rules supreme During such periods of stability and prosperity the demand for new buildings is strong structural and stylistic innovations abound and there is fierce competition to build for lasting fame Each such climax produces a unique vintage of hegemonic buildings that are monuments to the wealth and power of those who ruled their world This second volume presents three case studies of iconic building investment from the eighteenth century to the present day During the eighteenth century the wealth of the great landed estates funded the golden age of country house building by aristocracy and gentry During the nineteenth century the Industrial Revolution unleashed an unprecedented wave of infrastructure investment and civic building by the ascendant capitalist class Since the late twentieth century the power of global financial capital has been symbolized by the relentless rise of city centre office towers A final chapter argues that these different forms of hegemonic building are a physical manifestation of the underlying rhythm of English history

Buildings for Bluestockings Margaret Birney Vickery, 1999 Vickery's book which includes floor plans and eight pages in color examines the intimate relationship between a Victorian institution intended solely for women and the architectural theories of the period In doing so she sheds light on the role of the founders such as Emily Davies at Girton their goals for their colleges and the pressure which a reluctant and skeptical society placed upon them Reformers in women's education were sometimes radical feminists but more often the women and men who were involved were modest in their approach arguing for little change in the status of women and veiling their ambitions for women's progress under a restrained and traditional rhetoric This conservative approach conditioned the built environment of the colleges and is an important aspect of nineteenth century British feminism Central to this book is the connection between the attitudes of Victorian society towards the higher education of women and the built environment Feminist architectural historians and anthropologists are just beginning to explore these connections and Vickery's book with its focus on a gender specific building type offers insight into the ways in which the values of a society are encoded into the environment in which we live and work It is therefore of interest not only to architectural historians but to feminists social historians and anyone interested in the history of the collegiate environment

The Cosmopolitan Interior Judy Neiswander, 2008 Judith Neiswander explains that during these years liberal values individuality cosmopolitanism scientific rationalism the progressive role of the elite and the emancipation of women informed advice about the desirable appearance of the home In the period preceding the First World War these values changed dramatically advice on decoration became more nationalistic in tone and a new goal was set for the interior to raise the British child by the British hearth Neiswander traces this evolving discourse within the context of current writing on interior decoration writing that it is much more detached from social and political issues of the day
