Effective Staff Development for School Change William T. Pink, Arthur A. Hyde, 1992 Any conception of staff development emerges from an understanding of teaching schooling and education The way people define and think about staff development will be influenced inevitably by their philosophy of education their values beliefs and their taken for granted assumptions about what is and what ought to be Clearly education theories interpretations of research and experiential considerations impinge on educators ideas and actions Thus these three broad frameworks must be illuminated in order to examine staff development This work explores these three major sources of conceptions of staff development theory research and analytical reflection of educators experiences It offers fresh insights into teaching and schools as well as a broader and more powerful conception of staff development

Resources in Education, 1998 Towards a Theory and Practice of Teacher Cultural Politics Barry Kanpol, 1992 In a series of insightful excursions through the institutional culture of schools and classrooms Kanpol provides us with a rich tapestry of experiences within which are found not only conformity coercion and alienation but also hope dignity and an empowering pedagogy of the other Most significantly the practices that value cultural differences and that enhance the voice of those historically silenced and demeaned emerge out of the egalitarian commitments and struggles of teachers In Kanpol s clear but simple formulation of similarity within difference there is the vision of human relationships which honor cultural linguistic and historical distinctiveness but which insist on the continuing vitality and viability of a common human vision and on the necessity of finding the common ground of political struggle Svi Shapiro From the Foreword

2012-2013 UNCG Graduate School Bulletin, Official Encouragement, Institutional Discouragement William G. Tierney, 1992 American Indian students are among the most underrepresented groups in academe and few of those who enter college finish This book attempts to provide greater understanding of Native American experiences in higher education through analysis based on critical theory focusing particularly on the recruitment and retention of Native Americans by postsecondary institutions At least two stories are told about the challenges and obstacles that Native Americans face in college The first story told by traditional research considers minority retention in higher education as a problem that has existed throughout academe s history Traditional research such as that of V Tinto focuses on student characteristics the fit between student and institution and the extent of student integration into the institution s academic and social life In contrast this book uses comparative case studies to provide multiple perspectives and to analyze the patterns of American Indian students experience within the conceptual framework of critical ethnography Over 200 interviews of students and staff were conducted at 10 postsecondary institutions including 4 tribal colleges with sizable Indian enrollments The voices of Indian students speak of how the world of higher education appears to them reflecting influences of family culture gender and class on student experience The final section analyzes the culture of power that exists in academe discusses rituals of student empowerment and offers suggestions for constructing alternative forms of authority and a culturally responsive pedagogy that empowers rather than disables Appendix comments on methodology and praxis Contains 157 references and author and subject indexes SV

School Cultures Mary E. Henry, Mary E. Gardiner, 1993 Focusing on private schools this book makes an important contribution to our understanding of schools as social settings illustrating their potential to create alternative cultures Intriguing comparisons are made between the Waldorf School a clear example of holistic education and St Catherine s a traditional elite college preparatory school The characteristics of each school are examined and compared On the one hand the Waldorf School embracing an holistic model advocates an aesthetically enriching life in harmony with nature for its students Its emphasis on natural materials as well as its developmental view of the child and curriculum focused on music and the arts is unique The Waldorf School asserts a romantic and progressive view of education that is relevant in a world that is becoming increasingly alienating and dehumanizing On the other hand St Catherine s represents an academic elite model of education and faces the problems of our modern society in a different way by teaching students to compete and excel in a competitive world while holding onto moral and ethical values The schools meanings are shown to be imbued through five cultural domains history and myths curriculum rituals time and space and social relationships The analysis reveals the schools quite different responses to the world to others and toward the individual self

American Book Publishing Record, 1998 Resources in Education, 1996 Struggling With Their Histories Alan J. DeYoung, 1991. This monograph draws on case studies of school-community partnership projects in four rural southeastern school districts in order to elaborate a thorough description of school contextual factors in the rural Southeast. In 1986, Appalachia Educational Laboratory (AEL), one of nine federally funded research and development laboratories, received funding as part of a rural initiative to address economic decline and educational opportunities in rural areas. The following year, AEL implemented demonstration projects in Braxton County, West Virginia; Charlotte County, Virginia; and two Tennessee and Kentucky counties identified by pseudonyms. The goal of the 2-year project was to help rural schools and communities identify problem areas for school improvement and to analyze community and economic factors contributing to economic decline. Chapter 1 describes methodologies, focal concerns, and project implementation. Chapters 2-5 present the four case studies focusing on community and school leadership dynamics and providing a historical analysis of each county's economic, political, and sociological context. The last chapter expands on the general theme that previous and current social, economic, and political conditions surrounding rural schools affect present educational conditions and school improvement strategies and practices. This chapter also describes recent 1990 dynamics in each county and assesses school improvement practices implemented by AEL. Contains references and author and subject indexes. LP
