Observing Young Children Sandra Smidt,2015-06-05 This fully revised second edition of Observing Assessing and Planning for Children in the Early Years provides a detailed analysis of what is meant by the observation of young learners and why this is so vital to early years practitioners and students In this accessible and insightful text Sandra Smidt examines the various theories of how young children develop and learn which have been put forward by thinkers and writers across time and place so the reader has a genuinely global view of early childhood She then highlights how important it is for practitioners in schools nurseries and settings to think carefully about what they have seen and heard in light of what they as adults already know about the children and their learning Also included in this text is a helpful Try Your Hand section where readers are invited to make their own judgements about what they have read as well as a section on observing and assessing not only the nursery aged children but also babies and toddlers

Extending Themselves Graham Tipple,2000-03-01 Many countries have large stocks of government built housing which for various reasons are in poor physical conditions and or do not conform to the expectations of occupants The occupants of such housing frequently make unauthorised but quite considerable changes and extensions transformations to their dwellings This book examines user initiated transformations to government built housing in Bangladesh Egypt Ghana and Zimbabwe surveyed in a research programme sponsored by the UK Department for International Development The 1600 dwellings surveyed show how relatively low income households are capable of supplying new rooms and services both to improve their own housing conditions and to supply rental rooms or accommodation for family members living rent free The new construction is often of at least as good quality as the original structures and sometime envelopes the original in a new skin It is clear that transformation adds accommodation and services to existing housing upgrades the housing stock and creates variety out of uniformity The study leads to policy suggestions to encourage transformations for the renewal of government housing These include the provision of loan finance the encouragement of co operation between neighbours especially in multi storey housing and the planned colonisation of open space next to the dwellings where plots are not provided For new housing it is clear that designs for new areas are only the beginning of an on going development process rather than a blueprint for once for all development Directory of Professional Workers in State Agricultural Experiment Stations and Other Cooperating State Institutions ,1984 Review of Extension Research United States.
