Michalowski,2014-11-26 The integration of Muslims into European societies is often seen as a major challenge that is yet to be confronted This book by contrast starts from the observation that on legal political and organizational levels integration has already taken place It showcases the variety of theoretical approaches that scholars have developed to conceptualize Muslim life in Europe and provides detailed empirical analysis of ten European countries Demonstrating how Muslim life unfolds between conviviality and contentious politics the contributors describe demographic developments analyze legal controversies and explore the action of government and state Muslim communities and other civil society actors Driving forces behind the integration of Islam are discussed in detail and compared across countries Routledge Handbook of Global Citizenship Studies Engin Isin, Peter Nyers, 2014-06-27 Citizenship studies is at a crucial moment of globalizing as a field What used to be mainly a European North American and Australian field has now expanded to major contributions featuring scholarship from Latin America Asia Africa and the Middle East The Routledge Handbook of Global Citizenship Studies takes into account this globalizing moment At the same time it considers how the global perspective exposes the strains and discords in the concept of citizenship as it is understood today With over fifty contributions from international interdisciplinary experts the Handbook features state of the art analyses of the practices and enactments of citizenship across broad continental regions Africas Americas Asias and Europes as well as deterritorialized forms of citizenship Diasporicity and Indigeneity Through these analyses the Handbook provides a deeper understanding of citizenship in both empirical and theoretical terms This volume sets a new agenda for scholarly investigations of citizenship Its wide ranging contributions and clear accessible style make it essential reading for students and scholars working on citizenship issues across the humanities and social sciences Citizenship and Intercultural Dialogue Christine Laton, 2018-07-17 In the wake of tragic terrorist attacks in Western Europe so called parallel communities have come under increased scrutiny and pressure to be engaged and integrated in the politics and society of the country of settlement In this context the tools of intercultural dialogue and citizenship have been proposed to bridge the gap between majority and minority communities Yet how are these concepts understood on the ground This book explores perceptions of citizenship and intercultural dialogue among minority youth in Berlin and London chosen for their contrasting citizenship and immigration policies Germany has a strong ethnic heritage and the presence of a large minority community from Turkey The policies and relationship with the Turkish community have often served to perpetuate cultural and ethnic boundaries their presence overshadowing the numerous other ethnicities living within Germany In the UK the large presence of immigrants of Afro Caribbean and Asian descent often dominates centre stage in a much more territorially defined political context while the needs and demands of smaller communities are not commonly known Nonetheless these smaller communities shape and even offer unique insights into the way that local contexts interact with international and transnational structures It is argued that in both cities minority youths communicated feelings and experiences of marginalization and contestation generally feeling a sense of belonging to their local neighbourhoods but not to broader society The book explores the process of valuisation the idea that a value is put on an immigrant according to their desirability or undesirability based on ethnicity or skills Furthermore it assesses the role of education as a mediator between state and society By arguing that local engagement has international ramifications and highlighting the importance of the role of youth in international politics this book offers a new perspective on International Relations and Diaspora Studies      State-Building and Multilingual Education in Africa Ericka A.
